

SHOW JOLLY OF U. S. TARS

Chaplain Duff, Chaplain of U. S. Nevada, to Speak Here Friday Night

PICTURES TO ILLUSTRATE

Your Uncle Samuel, who hasn't the time to get out specially engraved, embossed individual invitations to his patriotic nephews and nieces, invites you all to be present at the Academy of Music on Friday night at 8:15 o'clock sharp, where, with Chaplain Edward A. Duff in charge of the festivities and the Navy Yard Band to provide the music, official pictures of life as it is lived by the Navy Jack tars will be shown.

Chaplain Duff, brown with the tan of a coast southern cruise, his bright blue eyes washed even brighter than their usual wont by the sea air of the three months' trip aboard the U. S. S. Nevada, is well known to Philadelphians. He was born and reared here at 2513 Aspen street.

But he left to see the big, big world and elected to see it as a Catholic clergyman. Your Uncle Samuel, however, needed him, just as he needs you, and reaching out took him from the Catholic Diocese of South Carolina and put him on one of his greatest and most redoubtable dreadnoughts, the U. S. S. Nevada.

Chaplain Duff is the skipper for more than 1000 Jackies who comprise the population of that floating city, the Nevada, and he is thoroughly acquainted with the life of the men.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels has sent Chaplain Duff here to explain while the movie man clicks the films the fascination of a seagoing career. Armed with enthusiasm for the navy and things nautical, Chaplain Duff is prepared to meet allcomers in the shape of cynical landlubbers who might believe that sailing the briny under the Union Jack is one long series of deck-scrubbing and grubbing on hardtack. They are the chappies he is looking for—the Missourians—and he wants to show them.

"I've some bully pictures of Annapolis with me," the boyish chaplain said, explaining his mission. "Everybody ought to be interested in Annapolis at this minute, where they are turning out the naval officers, more so because every bright lad has a chance at an education in the Naval Academy today. One hundred boys are taken every year from the enlisted men and sent to the academy to learn to be officers. Something worth trying for, that, isn't it?"

Chaplain Duff has pictures showing the Jackies at school learning the various trades that they have elected to learn and other pictures showing them at work and at play on sea with the white-capped billows racing ahead of their ship and on land at their naval stations. He explains quite frankly that, although he is not here to recruit, he does want to correct certain impressions about the life in the navy, and he does hope that as the result of the pictures and his lecture a few more patriots will enter the fleet.

Your Uncle Samuel says come and bring your friends. The party's on him.

U. OF P. WIRELESS INTACT

Station Will Not Be Closed—Eight Students to Watch Apparatus

The wireless station at the University of Pennsylvania will not be closed by the Government, which has seized virtually every private radio station in the country. This action, according to J. A. Eyster, president of the Wireless Club of the university and recruiting director for the signal corps of the University battalion, was taken after eight members of the club volunteered to keep continual watch over the apparatus to detect messages in this vicinity that may be of military value. Under this arrangement, the station may receive but is not permitted to send messages. A few other stations were granted the same privilege.

MISSING GERMAN SAILORS TAKEN INTO CUSTODY HERE

Three German sailors of the seized Hamburg-American liners Prinz Oskar and Rhaetia, who have been missing since the Government took over the vessels a week ago, were taken into custody today by Captain Matthew J. Griffin, of the United States Secret Service.

The prisoners, who were found working in the city, offered no resistance and were taken to the immigration station at Gloucester, N. J., to join their comrades, who were sent there when the ships were taken.

"May we play pinocle down there?" was their most serious concern. They were assured that they could.

The men are Wilhelm Butenschon, fifty-two years old, a quartermaster on the Prinz Oskar, who was found working as an orderly at the German Hospital; Gustav Sickla, thirty-three years old, storekeeper on the Rhaetia, living at 2464 Nicholas street, and working for the Newton Machine Tool Works, Inc., Twenty-fourth and Vine streets, and Ludwig Pauritz, twenty-two years old, fireman on the Rhaetia, living at 1215 North street and working for the Standard Roller Bearing Company, Fiftieth street and Lancaster avenue. They had left their ships before the seizure and said that they did not know that they were wanted.

HAROLD YARNALL SLAIN "BY UNKNOWN PERSON"

Harold Ellis Yarnall, who was slain at his home, 822 Pine street, on March 25, met his death at the hands of an unknown person, the Coroner's jury decided at the inquest today.

Mrs. Yarnall, wife of the murder victim, appeared on the stand and told the story of the shooting. She was dressing, she said, when a negro's reflection appeared in the mirror.

"What do you mean?" she asked and was then knocked down in the struggle that followed. Her husband was in an adjacent room and he ran out when he heard the noise. Mrs. Yarnall said that he was grappling with her assailant at the head of the stairs when she heard two shots.

"Are you hurt?" she asked.

"No," he replied, only to fall to the floor shortly after he had joined her and telephoned for the police. George Mason Chester, an attorney who lives next door, testified that he had seen Mr. Yarnall after the shooting and had asked him what had happened.

"I kicked him downstairs, but he got me, all right," replied Yarnall.

The police corroborated this testimony.

Announcing a Very Important Discovery

WE KNOW, now, that the Pröidium Process of compounding rubber does prolong the life of the tire.

That fact has been established by a year's exhaustive experience.

Republic Tires made by the Pröidium Process do undoubtedly last longer.

They do undoubtedly wear down slowly to a smooth and even surface—like a piece of steel.

They do develop a tensile strength beyond anything hitherto known.

They are unmistakably stronger and tougher, with greater spring and responsiveness.

What we have actually produced is a rubber so tremendously strong that a strip of it, an inch and a half square, will suspend more than three tons of dead weight.

We have now built more than one hundred thousand sets of Republic Tires by the Pröidium Process.

The evidence is not only abundant but positive.

We are so sure of the facts, that on the strength of our certainty the output of the Republic plant will be trebled.

The merit of the tires has so advertised itself that an unprecedented demand has sprung up everywhere.

From four to five hundred new and unsolicited customers are being reported every day.

We are straining every nerve to spread the distribution to every city and town in the country.
