Leadon Years

Henry's wife is musical. Occasionally she drags Henry with her to a concert. The other night it was to hear a famous Russian quartet. When the program was about half finished she whispered: "Henry, you must admit it is wonderful. Why those men have been playing together for eight years." A look of incredulity relieved the carved-in-stone expression on Henry's face. "Eight years?" he repeated. "Surely we've been here longer than that!"

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says we all ought to keep busy and do what we can to reduce the cost of living, and for her part she's going to vegetate in the garden this year instead of raising flowers.

THE PADDED CELL

One Viewpoint

"Do the Browns keep a horse?" "Naw! They hain't got nothin' but an automobile."

Misguided

"What would you do if a bandit should present a gun and demand your money?" "I'd sympathize with him."

Some Job!

She—What were you doing after the accident? He—Scraping up an acquaintance. —The Widow.

The Mean Thing

—Cassell's Saturday Journal. "Do you believe in reincarnation?" "Well, when I left here twenty years ago you girls were getting along toward thirty, and now I find you about eighty."

Full of Faith

Mrs. Barton—Have you any faith in life insurance? Mrs. Grill—Yes, indeed; I've realized $10,000 from two husbands, and they weren't good ones, either.
