

873,000 IN STATE LIABLE TO SERVICE

Number to Be Supplied for First Draft of 500,000 Only 43,650

CITY'S QUOTA IS 8500

WASHINGTON, May 11. In fixing the age limits in the service in the army, the Senate and House provided for the registration of every man who has reached his twenty-first birthday but has not reached his thirty-first.

By a Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 11. Eight hundred and seventy-three thousand men in Pennsylvania, 171,800 of them in Philadelphia, must go to the polls and register for military service under the terms of the selective army service bill as finally agreed upon by the conferees representing the Senate and House.

These figures are the official estimates of the United States Government for July 1, 1917, based on the last Federal census, and were compiled today following the agreement on the part of the conferees to include in the draft all men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty years, inclusive.

Throughout the United States, according to the figures of the census experts, there are today 10,027,300 within those age limits. The official reports of the last census, which was taken in 1910, show there were at that time 8,243,628 males between the ages of twenty-one and thirty.

Estimating the population of the country at 100,000,000 in round numbers, the statement that 10,027,300 are males between the ages of twenty-one and thirty means that one person in every ten throughout the United States, including women and children, will be available for military duty under the new selective service system.

Under the selective system, Pennsylvania will be called upon to furnish approximately one-twelfth of the new Federal army that is to be created. This is in addition to the thousands of volunteers that must be listed to fill up the quota of the State in National Guard organizations and the regular army.

With 10,027,300 men between twenty-one and thirty in the United States, the selection of the first increment of 500,000 men will mean that one in every twenty of those liable to service under the act must go to Pennsylvania to furnish for the first increment 43,650 and of that number 8500 will go from Philadelphia. Each succeeding increment of 500,000 will take just that many more from the available pool.

After the first increment has been in training six months the next will be called and so on until the United States has an army of 1,000,000 men in addition to the regular army of 287,000 men and 625,000 in the National Guard.

There is an ironclad prohibition against any drafted man being substituted for him, as was done so frequently when the draft was resorted to during the Civil War. Every man drafted must serve unless excused from service. Specific exceptions from service are made by the bill in the case of the Vice President, State and Federal legislative, executive and judicial officials, ministers and those studying in theological schools, also members of religious organizations whose creeds prohibit their members from participation in the war.

The President may utilize the latter exempted class for noncombatant duties. There is no blanket provision in the act exempting married men from service under the draft. The married men as well as the single must go to the registration places for enrollments if they come within the age limits, but in view of the fact that all married men having dependents are being excused from the National Guard at this time it is not believed that the married men enrolling under the draft will be utilized for the present at least. The law does authorize discharge of those "having persons dependent upon them."

It is specifically provided that in addition to those excused because of physical disabilities, the President may utilize employees of arsenals, armories, navy yards and similar military activities in the regular employment. Provision is made for the creating of a local board in each county and one for every 30,000 persons in cities to determine the exemption of individuals from service. The boards, each one of which is to be appointed by the President and composed of at least three members, are to be free from military connection. Additional boards, one for each Federal judicial district, are to be created to review the findings of the local boards if appeals are made to them. The decisions of the district boards are to be final, except that the President may affirm, modify or reverse any decision.

As soon as the President signs the selective service bill, making it law, it is expected that he will issue a proclamation, fixing the date on which all men between the prescribed ages must present themselves for registration. It is planned to use the local election machinery to obtain these lists of eligibles, and so far as possible the voting precinct lines that have obtained in past elections will be used in this registration. Any person who is eligible to service and who fails to appear for registration will be liable to a year's imprisonment and registration at that time.

Men in the lowest grades of pay are to receive $10 a month more than is now received by enlisted men in the regular army. That means that privates will start at $25 instead of $15 a month. Those who now receive $45 or more a month will have an increase of $5 a month.

LEAGUE ISLAND PARK JOBS ALL GO TO VARE

Downtown Contractor Makes Clean Sweep for Work Aggregating $183,000

Senator Edwin H. Vare has a clean sweep in the $182,000 bids for the boothhouse, handstand, overlook and comfort building to be erected in League Island Park west of Broad street, it was learned today when Director Dattaman, of the Department of Public Works, opened the contractors' proposals. Only one competitor in the comparatively small item of plumbing appeared in the bids.

This plumbing bid was from Nicholas Connolly, and was for $1498. Vare's bid for the same work was $6000. Vare's bid for the entire job aggregated $182,000, the chief items of which were, boothhouse, $101,000; handstand, $31,000; overlook, $38,000; comfort station, $13,000.

The boothhouse is to be 150 by 50 feet for the accommodation of 150 boats. It is to be finished in buff brick and limestone. The handstand and overlook are to be supported by granite pillars. The fact that Vare has no competitors in the bulk of the work is regarded as showing that League Island Park is regarded by other contractors to be in Vare's own supreme domain.

DRUG FIRM INDICTED FOR DISPENSING 'DOPE'

Huge Quantity of Narcotics Found in Pittsburgh Establishment

PITTSBURGH, May 11.—The Federal Grand Jury today indicted the Joseph Fleming & Sons Drug Co., Arnold A. Staley, manager; John Staley, president; John A. Larkin, secretary and treasurer; Dr. Ellsworth Trader and Dr. Jim Fucy Moy, the latter a Chinese physician. Two indictments charging violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act were returned, one against the company, its officers and Doctor Trader, and the other against the company, its officers and Doctor Moy.

Eight thousand bottles of morphine, each containing 240 doses, were found in the store when the investigation was begun. The purchases of the company were examined and it was found that, in addition to the morphine, large quantities of other drugs had been purchased.

According to Internal Revenue Agent F. L. Boyd, who made the investigation, the city is the seat of a monopoly controlling the dispensing and distribution of morphine, cocaine, opium, heroin and other drugs, and it is alleged that more dope is sold and distributed in the Pittsburgh district than in any other city east of Denver.

WOMAN DIES OF DOPE ORGY; MAN ARRESTED

Victim of Drugs Said to Have Left Husband and Eloped With Prisoner

Another death from "dope" was reported by the Tenderloin police early today when a woman who had left her husband to elope with another man died in a rooming house on Fairmount avenue near Tenth street from overdosage in drugs.

Cops of the Tenth and Buttonwood streets station, immediately on learning of the death, arrested Harry Silverman, who, they say, is the man with whom she eloped. He was arrested on suspicion, as no other occupants of the rooming house saw the woman yesterday and were therefore unable to tell anything of the incidents leading up to her death.

The woman, Mrs. Mary O'Neil, was thirty years old, and lived at 325 West Forty-second street, New York. This name, the one she gave at the house, is her maiden name; she is said to be the wife of an automobile dealer in New York.

About a week ago, the woman came to this city with Silverman and her four-year-old daughter, Dorothy, and had been living at the Fairmount avenue address ever since. This was about all the information Special Policemen Wunderlich and Kirby were able to gather. Word of her death was sent to her father, James O'Neil, said to be a police inspector.
