The machinery of conscription today began to grind out its grist in Philadelphia. Some of the wheels creaked and groaned at times, but then it was a new and untried mechanism. In the main it did its work well. Before the afternoon was half over, indications were that the city would effect virtually a 100 per cent enrollment of its male population of ages from twenty-one to thirty, inclusive.

The registration machine had webbed out its product at a steady, consistent pace. Estimates based on Government census returns indicate that Philadelphia has 169,000 residents who must register today. This would require an average output of 12,000 an hour for the fourteen hours registrars are on duty. The average was kept up with regularity as far as a survey of the city revealed, hour after hour.

ALLIES' AIRCRAFT RAID FOE'S TOWNS

Successful Forays Made by French and British Planes on Military Bases PARIS, June 5. In reprisal for the recent German air raid over Bar-le-Duc, French aircraft carried out a successful air bombing expedition over Treves and the German aviation camps at Morhange, Habsheim, Frescati and Rossonne, an official announcement today asserted. "Important results were achieved," the statement said.

CHARGE BARTENDER SOLD LIQUOR TO GUARDSMAN

First Prosecution Here Under New Ruling—Soldier Bought Whisky, Is Alleged Charged with selling whisky to a national guardsman, Frank Applegate, of Manayunk, a bartender in a saloon at Fifteenth and Vine streets, was this morning arraigned before United States Commissioner Edmunds and held under $1000 bail for a further hearing next Wednesday. Assistant United States District Attorney Handy Hall, who prosecuted the case, announced that Applegate's case is the first to appear in the local courts since the Federal Government made it an offense for rumormongers to sell liquor to soldiers. The Government alleges that a private in the First Regiment, N. G. P., entered the saloon last Friday and purchased two flasks of whisky. When arrested the private told his superiors where he bought the liquor.

Hsu-Shi-Chang, head of the revolutionists' Provisional Government, is known to have monarchistic leanings.

GERMANS LOSE DESTROYER IN RUNNING FIGHT

British Sink Warship and Shell Ostend

LONG-RANGE FIGHT AS TEUTONS FLEE

Second Vessel Damaged by Shots From English Light Flotilla

SHORE GUNS RESPOND

Bombardment of Flanders Port Carried Out With "Good Results," Says Admiralty

LONDON, June 5.

The American armed merchantman Mongolia's gun crew, arriving with that vessel today, think they sank a German submarine on the trip over from an American port. The Mongolia arrived at a British port early today. Her passengers and crew announced that the vessel had encountered and shelled several submarines. Lieutenant Seymour, commanding the squad of American naval gunners manning the Mongolia's guns, said he believed one of the shells had found its mark and sank the submersible.

LONDON, June 5.

A combined land and sea engagement was fought off the West Flanders coast today. British warships bombarded the German base of Ostend, the Admiralty announced. At the same time a British light cruiser and destroyers engaged a German flotilla of six vessels at long range, sinking one destroyer, damaging another and suffering no loss themselves. The British ships approached Ostend early in the morning. The port was heavily shelled for some time. The German shore batteries replied with vigor. It was observed that the shells from the British ships did considerable damage. The British ships attacked the German flotilla, but the latter fled at the approach of the British and shots were exchanged at only long range. "Vice Admiral Cover reports that the enemy navy base and workshops at Ostend were heavily bombarded early in the morning," the Admiralty statement said. "Commander Torbett reports early in the morning a light cruiser and destroyers engaged six German destroyers at long range. One of the latter was sunk and another damaged. "Ostend was bombarded with a good result. The shore batteries returned the fire, but we were without damage. The German destroyer sunk was the S-20. We had no casualties." The German destroyer S-20 was built in 1912 and was of 850 tons displacement. She was capable of 22.5 knots speed per hour, carried seventy-three men and was classified as a splendid example of the latest type in such craft. Commander Reinhold T. Tyrwhitt, mentioned as commanding the British flotilla which was victorious in the brush, has already had a distinguished career in the navy. He is commander of the destroyer flotilla of the first fleet. He participated in the Heligoland battle of August 27, 1914, and in the North Sea battle of January 24, 1915, when the German cruiser Blücher was sunk.

FRENCH ATTACK WINS BACK LOST TRENCHES

PARIS, June 5. What the official statement today described as a "lively attack" carried French forces last night over into trenches which they had lost to the Germans on Monday northwest of Froidmont farm. The gains were held despite counter-attacks. North of Bray-en-Laonnois, the report said, a violent bombardment was in progress. In Champagne there was intermittent artillery fire, most active around the Casque and Mont Cornillet. Between Tahure and Aisvieux an enemy raid failed.

HAIG REPORTS SUCCESS IN RAIDS NEAR YPRES

LONDON, June 5. Field Marshal Haig kept up his incessant raid fighting policy on the western front last night, he reported today. "At night our men and units of Ypres were made successful raids," he said. "Southeast of Lens and south of Arras our hostile raiders were driven off." This is the third successive day on which the British have reported raids in the northern section of the western front.

ITALY'S ISONZO LOSSES 180,000, VIENNA'S CLAIM

VIENNA, June 5. Italy's offensive in the Isonzo battles in the last thirteen days has cost her 160,000 in killed and wounded and 20,000 in prisoners taken by the Austrian forces, an official statement today asserted. "West of Gorizia several enemy attempts to recapture the trenches lost on Sunday were futile," the statement continued. "We captured 611 prisoners and nine machine guns, taking 250 additional prisoners in other engagements." "The enemy occupied Kuk Mountain and the shell-battered ruins of Jamiano, both of which were small compensation for his heavy losses."

BULGARS CLAIM REPULSE OF ANGLO-FRENCH FORCES

SOFIA, June 5. The repulse of British and French attacks in Macedonia was reported today by the Bulgarian War Office. The British attacks were between Lake Doiran and the Vardar, and the French attacks, which were made after intense artillery activity, were farther west.

LANSING, Mich., June 5. In reply to an appeal from Sheriff Newcomb, of Marquette County, Governor Sleeper today ordered troops sent to Negaunee, a mining town twelve miles from Marquette, to prevent I. W. W. anti-draft rioting.

CALUMET, Mich., June 5.

Emil Hanning and another young man, who refused to give his name, were arrested at Mohawk, Mich., north of here, today and turned over to Federal authorities. They had distributed literature urging young men not to register in Gay City, Mich., and were on their way to Calumet with an automobile filled with anti-conscription handbills and posters.

CHICAGO, June 5.

Twelve arrests had been made in Chicago in connection with selective service registration before noon today. Two of these were white men charged with interfering with registration. The others were negroes, taken off a train and charged with fleeing from the South to evade conscription. One of the white men arrested displayed a poster in his store near a South Side polling place, urging young men not to register. Their names are withheld.

WASHINGTON, June 5.

Young America was at the polls today, making its vote for world democracy—registering for service. Reports early today showed registration fair throughout virtually all the nation. The youth of the country was pledged itself bright and early, heavy listing being reported everywhere in the first few hours after opening of the registration stations. No city reported any disturbances in the early hours and the prompt electric machinery, called into service to the hour when America is selecting her men to

100,000 CHEER LIBERTY LOAN ARMY PARADE

2000 Salesmen, Bankers and Merchants in Pageant

STOTESBURY RIDES IN CAR WITH MAYOR

Independence Hall Fitting Place for Start of Demonstration

FIGHTING MEN GIVE AID

Features of Liberty March to Stimulate Bond Sales MORE than 100,000 persons witnessed Liberty Bond parade in business section. Pageant, led by Mayor Smith and E. T. Stotesbury, a colorful street parade. Marines, National Guardsmen, bond salesmen, business men and Boy Scouts participated. Three bands furnished music for the marchers and hundreds of flags and banners carried by paraders. After disbanding marchers continued their house-to-house canvass and planned to visit 10,000 homes in effort to sell Liberty Bonds.

LIBERTY LOAN PROGRESS

Table with 2 columns: Description and Amount. Rows include: Philadelphia's allotment $50,000,000; Subscriptions recorded $112,000,000; Subscriptions required $118,000,000; Campaign working days left 10.

The last Philadelphia trench of the German Kaiser was carried today when more than 2000 men, ranging from rich bankers to fighting marines, marched through the business section in a mighty drive for the Liberty Loan.

Imbued with an old-time spirit of patriotism and national service, they carried the Liberty Bond message to more than 100,000 men and women who formed a lane for the paraders in Fifth, Market and Broad streets.

It was a colorful pageant arranged by the bond men of Philadelphia and served to impress the fact that Philadelphia is in the war to stick and that the Liberty Loan plays an important role in the world struggle.

DOUBTS DISAPPEAR

If there was any doubt in the minds of slackers and pessimists that Philadelphia would not make up its allotment of the loan these doubts were routed as the parade moved up Market street through a dense crowd of cheering citizens. Yes, it was a picturesque parade and incidentally a new brand of patriotic demonstration. It put "ginger," "pep" and "spirit" into the Liberty Loan campaign in this city and made all the participants from Mayor Smith and E. T. Stotesbury to the tiniest Boy Scout beam with smiles.

Old Independence Square made a fitting stage for the start, and an hour before marching orders were given a big crowd of Liberty Loan enthusiasts were on hand and sounding a new note on the Liberty Bell.

The historic bell could not speak, but the crowd spoke for it and sent up rousing cheers as the Police Band played the national anthem. "Ring It Again" was the slogan of the day, and a slogan that was carried from the old bell to more than 10,000 homes by the bond men.

It was five minutes after 9 when Colonel Fred C. Wilson gave marching orders. First came a platoon of police and then the fighting marines under Captain W. M. Hill. The boys who are the first to carry the flag into battle proved that they could
