Public Utilities Commission to Include All Concerns in Hearing Next Tuesday

TRENTON, June 8.

The State Public Utilities Commission today announced that it would include all the gas companies of the State, forty-one in number, in its hearing at the State House here on Tuesday, June 19, on the question of whether the heating standard the board now requires the companies to maintain shall be lowered.

Companies which manufacture the greater part of the gas used in New Jersey have filed petitions asking for a change, contend-ing that an advanta though lower stands hed petitions asking for a change, contend-ing that an adequate though lower stand-ard can be maintained and that the mate-rials required for other purposes are need-lessly used to comply with a standard unnecessarily high.

As the standard is now applicable to all the gas companies of the State, the heard has decided to extend its inquiry so as to bring all of them within its scope.

The Public Service Gas Company has asked that the standard be lowered or it has allowed to increase its rate for gas, and asked that the standard be lowered or it be allowed to increase its rate for gas, and this will bring a great gathering to Trenton from many of the cities to oppose any at-tempt to raise the rate.
