The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says a meatless day occasionally isn't so bad, and they generally have hash on theirs, and she really likes it very well.

Social Diplomacy

"I told Bluffer that we'd be over to call tonight."
"Oh, why? You know I can't stand them."
"Sure; I told him that so he and his wife wouldn't drop in on us and spoil the evening. We'll stay at home."
—Princeton Tiger.

THE BLACKMAILER

By FONTAINE FOX

THE PADDED CELL

Do You Know Him?

"Give me a cigarette, Bill."
"Only got one."
"Oh, that's all right; I'll get the rest some other time.—Froth.

A Little Resuscitation
Hy—Them doctors is a-gittin' better every year.
Cy—Yep, I see they are going to revive Shakespeare in New York.—Cornell Widow.

A Great Advance

Dormitory Humor

—Cornell Widow.
"I see the performers in that bicycle act at the Star have been arrested."
"Spring it."
"Pedaling without a license."

PAST HOPE

Amateur officer of volunteer corps (not knowing how to extricate his company from a helpless muddle)—Halt, you fellows. Now, just look what a mess you're in. Well, you'll have to get out of it the best you can. I wash my hands of you.
—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

SCHOOL DAYS

'Twasn't Fair

"What's the fastest time made by the junction train?"
"A train with seven passengers made the trip in seventeen minutes and forty-two seconds. It was discovered later that the brakeman was pushing."—Tiger.
