Some Members Serving Country Abroad or on Farms-Exercises Unique

War cost a bit of a shadow over the class-day frolic of the Central High School 1917 class, held today at 2:30 o'clock at the William Penn High School at Fifteenth and Mount Vernon streets, because one of its members, Frank T. Chalk, is facing fire overseas as an ambulance driver for Base Hospital No. 10

But aside from that, sorrow and discipline were gaily thrown to the winds and the 197 sets of pent-up law and order belonging to the respective members of the

This includes two sets that had been doing Government farm work under the auspices of the School Mobilization Committee in Teyland. Class day couldn't get along without them, because the students are Herbert J. Biberman, who had been chosen as class prophet, and Alexander L. Brinkman, who made the presentations.
