

SOME CAMERA SCREENINGS OF THE PICTURESQUE GRIST IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY

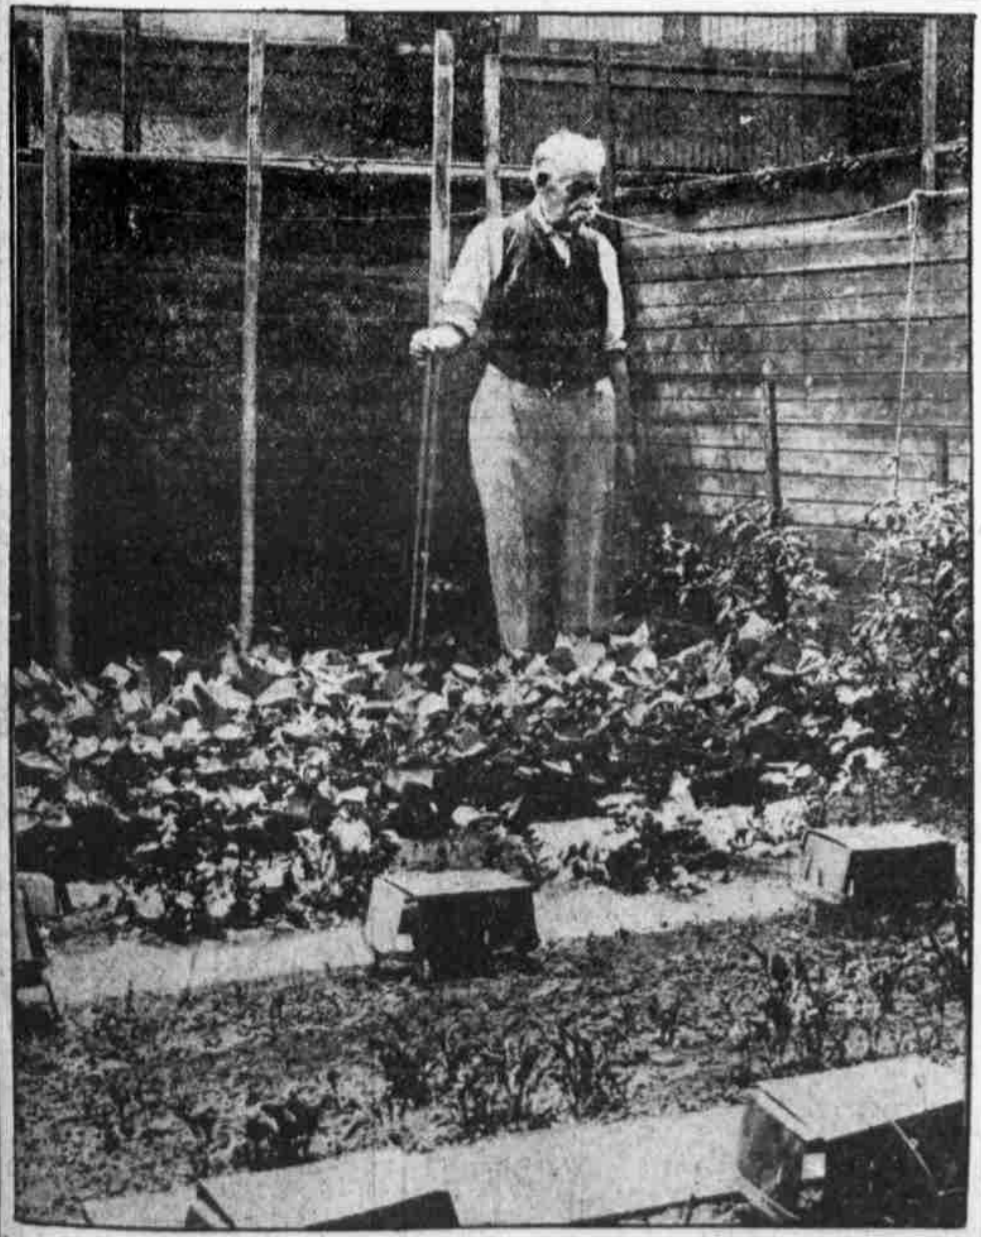

AS THE DOVE OF PEACE MIGHT HAVE BEHELD THE PARADE Red Cross workers as they halted on City Hall Plaza to listen to the speakers of the day. A remarkable photograph of an equally remarkable demonstration.

ABOVE, JOCK HUTCHINSON; AT RIGHT, —
A prize of $2 will be awarded for the first correct identification mailed to Pictorial Editor of the EVENING LEDGER. Hutchinson won the Whitmarsh golf tourney. Who will win the golf picture puzzle tourney?

"THE LAST HOLE" AT THE WHITEMARSH GOLF COURSE
A vista attractive alike to participants in the championship tourney just closed and to clubhouse "players" who admire natural beauty.

HOW A SEPTUAGENARIAN KEEPS YOUNG
William H. Weckerly, former postmaster at Buckingham Valley, Bucks County, derives healthful pleasure from intensive back-yard farming at his home, 2434 Clifford street. Though past seventy years old, he finds daily employment in his garden, and a pride in which his neighbors share.

OKLAHOMA'S GIFT TO THE NATION
Exercises appropriate to the acceptance of this statue of Sequoyah, a famous Indian chief, for a place in Statuary Hall in the Capitol at Washington are being held today.

A SINGLE DAY'S MAIL TO THE PICTORIAL EDITOR
A batch of letters sufficient to convince the most skeptical that some readers besides the winner send solutions to the puzzle pictures that appear in this section of the EVENING LEDGER. No prize is offered for the closest estimate of their number, but a glance will show that several thousand contestants are represented in the pile presented here.
