How War May Deprive You of a Hudson Super-Six

Materials Growing Difficult to Get—Costs Increasing

These are times when no one who will want an automobile within the next twelve months can afford to put off buying.

The only certain way of getting a Hudson at all, or to obtain it at present prices, is by buying now.

War conditions so greatly affect material, supply and costs that future car production is uncertain.

Note how costs have increased in the essential materials as shown in the above table.

All materials have gone up in price at an unprecedented rate.

Pig iron sold at an average price of $16 a ton for a period of 25 years before the war. It is now above $50 a ton.

All automobile manufacturers have or soon will make new price advances. They have had to on account of increased cost.

Cars which have made no record for performance or endurance and which have sold in the $1,000 to $1,300 class are now priced in the Hudson Super-Six class.

Increased costs are similarly affecting all makers. None can permanently escape them.

Hudson Prices Not to Advance Now

The Hudson factory is now in production with materials bought at last year's material prices.

The number unsold and in production is limited. All dealers know the amounts of their allotments, and so far as we are able, they will get their full supply.

Materials Growing Difficult to Get—Costs Increasing

Buy Hudsons for Less Now Than Later

As long as the present supply lasts, Hudson Super-Six cars can be bought at present prices.

Compare them with the prices now asked for cars which have shown no such proofs of endurance.

Go minutely over the claims and recommendations made for any car; check its price with that of the Super-Six and then take into consideration the character of dealer representation and service offered by the different cars and decide.

Who has made such demonstrations of endurance?

No other manufacturer has established important records as an indication of the performance capabilities of his cars. In fact, since Hudson first began to make records for speed, acceleration, power and endurance, there have been no other interesting tests announced by other makers.

Before Hudson began to make new records, it was the custom of many makers to use the speedway and the cross-country run to prove their cars. We did not resort to a new method to prove Hudson performance. But what the Super-Six has done has apparently proved how hopeless it is for any to attempt to equal its records. At any rate, no one now disputes Hudson supremacy with any proof that any car equals or excels it.

By deciding now you can get a Hudson Super-Six at a price not much above what is asked for cars which formerly sold at a much lower price.

If you wait, the inevitable adjustment of prices will again force you to pay the true difference.

It is needless with most buyers to explain the greater value of the Super-Six. You no doubt have long preferred to own a Hudson. Now the question of its costing more than some other car should not deter you. But your decision must be made soon if you want to get a Hudson Super-Six. Other cars haven't even a price advantage now.
