

PREPARING THE SINEWS OF WAR
The cooks were the pioneers at the encampment of the Second Field Artillery, established yesterday between Noble and Jenkintown.

THE ARRIVAL AT CAMP
The rendezvous of the Second Artillery near Noble was necessitated by the inadequacy of the regiment's armory, which could not accommodate all the equipment.

MEMBERS OF THE SECOND ARTILLERY OFF TO THEIR FIRST WAR CAMP
A detail of 150 men arrived at Noble in advance of the rank and file and began erecting the canvas.

CAVALRYMEN PREPARED TO TAKE THE FEDERAL OATH
Members of Troop D, Philadelphia squadron of the First Cavalry, who reported at their armory, Thirty-second street and Lancaster avenue.

MEMBERS OF BATTERY A ARRIVING AT CAMP
A small army of motortruck whirled the Second Artillery out to the rendezvous near Noble.

ENGINEERS LAYING OUT A COMPANY STREET
These men were members of the advance guard which brought things into shape for the encampment of the Second Artillery near Noble.

Captain Williamson, of Company D, First Regiment, holding the pet pigeon that will accompany the guardsmen "across the pond."

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS OF MEMBERS OF THE SECOND PENNSYLVANIA FIELD ARTILLERY, WHO ASSEMBLED YESTERDAY AT THE REGIMENT'S ARMORY, AT BROAD STREET AND SUSQUEHANNA AVENUE, TO SAY A LAST FAREWELL TO THE ENLISTED MEN ABOUT TO DEPART FOR THEIR FIRST WAR ENCAMPMENT