All of which is a reclude to the startling news that the featherweight king is in active training for the Leonard bout. He nestive training for the Lemand boot. He nestected Lemerville because it is close to the city and the surroundings are quite pleasant. There are many scenic roads to use for long runs and dimmy Dougherty has provided birgs, rooms and comfortable training quarters for his party. Johnny shadow-hoxed, skipped the rope, Johnny Shadow-looked, akipped the rope, purched the bag and boxed a couple of rounds with Johnny Downes and Jimmy Dinn Downes lookes like Leonard, and Kilbaine tried out many of his farness wallons. After this leann took him in hand and then began one of the most marvelous exhibitions we ever have witnessed. Kilbane stood off and slugged with all of his strength, shouling both left and right smashes to Junny's jaw, any one of which would have flattened the return manager had it landed. But Dunn placed his glove on his jaw just before each punch landed and caught the blow on his hand.

This is Dunn's system of training. He makes that full that has bard as her was the property of the plant of

In the final round Jones mored a knock-down, but the bell saved Morris. around. The hands must not be too low down, for in that position it is impossible to get the proper twist at the walat which

A common fault among a large number of golfers is a wide-open stance on the full shots. With this stance they aim to the left, catching the ball on the upstroke and allowing for the slice that never comes off when most expected. This comes from allowing the hands to go out too much in the followthrough, for one works himself into that position because he cannot get his club head around fast enough from the proper position. It must be remembered that the hands should be like a center when club head meets ball. The club head should go through the hall and describe an arc with

HUNDRED PHILADELPHIA GOLFERS WILL PLAY IN SHAWNEE TOURNEY. BEGINNING TOMORROW MORNING

charming course above the Delaware Water Gap. While it is a tournament that attracts golfers from every section of the country, it is essentially a Philadelphia tournament, and ever since it was first held live or six years ago the bulk of the prizes have been brought to Philadelphia. This year there will be no prizes, but instead there will be medals awarded and the winters and runners up in the two flights will have the pleasure of giving a sum equivalent to the prize to the Red Cross or any war fund that may appeal to them.

The Shawnes course, like that at Pine Valley, is made possible by the generality of an individual. Years ago C. C. Worthington, who is several times a millionaire, had a nine-hole course near the present Buckwood Inn, and one of the prizes which George Crump values most is a cup he won there years and years ago. The course itself is built in part sround the big hotel and the start and fluish are right at the hostelry. But most of the course is on the island separated from the mainland by the Binnickill. Of the eighteen holes five are near the hotel and the others are on the island with the famous Binnickili hole with the tee on the island and the green on the mainland and nothing etween but the stream.

Women's Championship

There is a lot of interest attached to the Shawnee course this year by reason of the fact that the women's national championship will be held there in October. One of the greatest tournaments ever staged in this country was in the summer of 1913, when lack McDermott, then the national open champion, won the open tournament there and incidentally administered the first de-eat Harry Vardon and Edward Ray had uffered on their long and triumphant tour of this country There is probably no course in the coun-

ry other than the Ekwanok links that has more beautiful setting than Shawnee, is greater part of it is flat, but on a balf age, holes or more there is undusting ound. In the distance and on every side the five mountains, and at sunset there is no arettler sight. There is a wealth of song sirds and the whistle of the qualities heard in every side.

A hooked ball on the earlier holes on the sland is budly punished, for the ball will and either in the Delaware or the Binnie-ull, which is a branch of the larger stream to to prevent balls from being lost a furrow has been plowed around the island and if the ball lands in it it is considered out of bounds. There is plenty of length to the course and there are at least two very fine three-shotters, while the two-shotters, which predominate on every course, range from a full wood to a niblic for the second shot. The one-shotters are particularly excellent and the one with the greatest reputation the sixteenth, or Binnickill.

The Binnickill Hole

The tee is just above the water and 130 varias or more away is the green with nothing intervening but a broad stretch of water. It is one of the best of mental

All golf roads are leading to Shawnes hazards, and more golfers have come to griof playing this hole than any othes. The shot itself is not hard, but there is a great temptation to lift the head in making the shot. So, during the tournament days, they have a boy who does nothing else but retrieve golf balls. On one memorable occasion when the Binniekill was the fatal thirteenth hole, a Philadelphia player was three up. The other man seemed hopelessly out of it but he had the honor. He was nervous and he put three balls to. was nervous, and he put three balls into the stream. The other chap, not to be outdone, slammed four in and the first player won the hole with a nine. Then the other fellow blew up and eventually lost the match. The two paired up in a best ball contest the next day, and had the satisfaction of winning the trophy. During the first few years the club had trouble in getting caddles, so every year they ship up a lot of Philadelphia and New York youngsters, and they camp across the river. One of the usual sights of the morning was to watch a boat load of caddles leave the Jersey side for the links. There would be about fifteen boys in the boat and invariably the boat would upset half way over. The boys thought nothing of the durking and not one of them returned for dry clothing.

Miniature Zoo

Mr. Worthington owns one of the largest deer preserves in the State of New Jersey, directly across from the Inn. and every night the deer may be seen drinking in the Delaware or feeding in the open patches. In connection with the club there is a small soo and apiary, and it is filled with a lot of interesting animals and birds. The fishing on the Delaware is famous and the golfers usually manage to put in a day or two or the river after bass

The Franklin Covers (38.5) Miles on a Single Gallon of Gasoline

Friday, July 13th, with a stock Series Nine Franklin touring car, with one gallon of commercial gasoline in a glass bottle attached direct to the carburetor, a run was made to Valley Forge and return from our garage, via Montgomery Pike, with the result that the car ran 38.5 miles before the gasoline gave out. An affidavit sworn to by Mr. Bray, of The Phila. "Press," and Mr. Riordan, of the "Public Ledger," substantiates the correctness of this statement.

This Franklin Thrift is Nothing New

Franklin gasoline economy is no "news" to the experienced motorist. We don't mean it as such. This demonstration is just a reminder that a motor car either has thrift and efficiency or it hasn't. If it has, performance alone will prove it. That's why we have never hesitated to put the Franklin to every kind of a proof.

It merely means that the Franklin-a scientifically constructed, lightweight car-rids itself of gasoline-consuming wear and tear that cuts the life of a car and leads to unnecessary depreciation.

The Franklin we demonstrated with Friday is on our showroom floor. We invite you to understand why the Franklin stands alone on this question of tested-out thrift and efficiency.
