From the moment of his arrest Tomp-kine told a story of highwaymen having held up the automobile in which he was riding with the Humphries, and killing them. A witness was found who saw a man resembling Tompkins coming from the field resembling Tompkins comins from the field where Humphries's body was found. A wisp of hair, resembling Tompkins s, was found clutched in Humphries hand and there were indications of a fierce struggle. Tompkins is said to have told how he obtained the revolver and gave his reasons for the triple killing, but the motive was not divuiged by the authorities.
