A MERCHANTVILLE "SISTER SUSIE"
Miss Eleanor R. Guild at work on Red Cross supplies for the boys at the French battle front.

DOING A MOTHER'S PART FOR THE WAR SUFFERERS - Mrs. C. H. Cook (left) and Mrs. Samuel H. Rouse, of Merchantville. The latter, a graduate of the Red Cross Ambulance Corps, has adopted five fatherless children besides writing letters regularly to twenty soldiers in the trenches.

PRESERVING IS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN FOOD CONSERVATION

Mrs. Seymour Eaton, Mrs. Frederick Mason and Mrs. Karl Collinge, in the order shown, are active members of Mrs. John Solenberger's preserving class at the Twentieth Century Club, of Lansdowne.

TRUE IT IS THAT AN ARMY MOVES ON ITS STOMACH

The cook tents of the Second Artillery out among the Chelton Hills are the most popular resorts in the camp of Colonel Turner's command.

WALTZING TO THE MUSIC OF THE UKULELE

Dances such as this are quite de rigueur among the younger set of Philadelphians who are dispersing on Atlantic City's surf-swept sands far from the city's steaming streets.

AN ENGINEER MUST BE A GOOD MARKSMAN ALSO

A member of the Ninth Battalion is giving a demonstration of prone firing at the Essington rifle range, while some of his comrades in Company F are awaiting their turns at the targets.

THE TROUSERETTE IS IN FAVOR AT THE SEASHORE

For freedom in locomotion along the beach, the fairer sex has adopted the trouserette for warm July days. Such a dress is a constant feature of the beach scene.
