Valley Forge Has Great Day of Entertainment for Sailors and Marines—Other Matters Discussed by Nancy Wynne

WELL, you never saw such wonderful and splendid arrangements as they made out at Valley Forge for the entertainment of the sailors and marines...

Today most of the exercises were held out of doors and the boys were addressed from the little outside pulpit which is on the cloister. You know Mr. Burk, the rector, made the suggestion about twelve years ago that there should be a memorial chapel to George Washington and the generals of the Revolution, erected at Valley Forge, and the idea was taken up with great gusto and the first hundred dollars contributed by the children of the Sunday school of the church he was connected with in Norristown.

The Daughters of the Revolution there look hold and descendants of the soldiers were asked to contribute the pews and each State to contribute one of the arches of the cloister. The altar is also a memorial, and there is a wonderful statue in memory of the first Mrs. Stevens Heckscher, who was Nanette Brown, the daughter of Mrs. Tom Leaming.

It is an education in itself to go there and read the names of our great generals of that time and to see the exquisite workmanship of the steeple and little chapel itself.

There were 1000 marines and sailors there this afternoon, and 1000 lunch boxes had been put up for them. As each man arrived he was given a card with a letter on it and he was expected to go to the table marked with that letter.

There had 200 boxes to give out. Each was also coffee, lemonade and ice cream, which was dealt out in turn.

Miss Ada Lambert Wetherill is the daughter of Mrs. George Wetherill, of Bryn Mawr. Her engagement to Mr. Karl Frederick Knipe was recently announced.

NANCY SMYTH has come down from Connecticut to visit Mrs. Isaac S. Smyth, in Germantown, and isn't it strange, but Tommy Miles is there, too, from Fort Winthrop, Georgia?

EVERY ONE is interested in the doings of the Hollinshead Taylors and the Stocktons; they are such charming people, don't you think? Mrs. Taylor senior has gone to Chelsea for the summer this year and the juniors and their three beautiful children will go to Bar Harbor on July 30 off six weeks, and then down to Cape May in mid-September.

In the first place there is Mrs. White-way, who was Reba Howell and whose mother was a daughter of Commodore Stockton. She is, of course, the nearest descendant in Philadelphia, with the exception of Paul Brown, whose mother was Miss Caroline Stockton, a daughter of the Commodore, but of course men don't count when it comes to christening ships.

I think it was very droll and rather pointless, to say the least, and I wonder how you got up the big idea anyhow. For my mind it would seem as if Mrs. White-way, the granddaughter, should have been the logical one to do it.

RED CROSS WORK AT FALLS OF SCHUYLKILL

Women of St. James the Less Congregation Meet on Thursday Mornings to Sew

Many years ago a long rock projected from the foot of a hill at the Falls of Schuylkill and extended two-thirds the distance across the river, forming a dam. The water poured over the rock in the spring and formed a beautiful cascade called the Falls, hence the name Falls of Schuylkill.

Every Thursday the women of St. James the Less Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Edward Lichten is pastor, meet in the mission building to do work for the French and other soldiers in the western war zone.

Merry Christians! And why not merry Christians as well as jovial sinners? Well, the merry Christians of Manayunk, Roxborough, Wissahickon and Falls of Schuylkill, cheerful, white-hearted members of the Dutch Reformed Church, decided that there is no better cordial for the spirits than outdoor sports, so they have arranged for their townspeople for today the greatest field day ever held in the section.

Did you ever see "broom" polo? If not, you will have a chance to do so today, for there will be a name playing a sawdust battle, tug-of-war, a ball-throwing contest and a foot race will follow another in regular succession.

FRANCES MOORE, of Washington, who is to be one of the bridesmaids at the Wanamaker-Diston wedding, in Newport, is not a stranger to Philadelphia. She often visits Brown Warburton at her Jenkintown home, and Marie Louis Munn at her Radnor place.

THE "Suffs" are going to give another party tonight to the sailors and marines, but this time it is going to be on the roof garden of the New Century Guild, on Locust street above Thirteenth.

WHY not, so much is being done for the uplift of the sailor boys, they might as well help us along, too, and educate us into eating gum if we have not done so before.

OF COURSE you've been in the Crazy Village up at Willow Grove, and I suppose you think it's tame. Well, perhaps it is, but everybody goes through it breathlessly the first time expecting every minute to have the floor turn over and land them in a deep and dark pit or something.

EVERYONE is interested in the doings of the Hollinshead Taylors and the Stocktons; they are such charming people, don't you think?

Mrs. Degerberg will be remembered as Miss Kathryn Hunsicker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton M. Hunsicker, of Wynnewood. She was married late in the spring.

THE DAY OF WRATH

A STORY OF 1914 By Louis Tracy

CHAPTER XIV—(Continued) ODDLY ENOUGH, Corporal Bates was the first to gain evidence by producing his map and describing the villages he and his mates had passed through, the woods in which they had hidden, and the names of the men who had helped them.

Dalroy, acting as interpreter, happened to glance at the circle of cheerful faces during a burst of excitement aroused by a reference to Smith's ingenuity in steering the boat through the gateway of the inn and whistling "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary." Smith and Shiny were true types of the somewhat cynical but ever ready-witted and laughter-loving Londoner.

EXIGENCIES OF THE WAR HASTEN MARRIAGE Miss Gertrude Mack is Bride of Lieutenant Commander Dinger, U. S. N. The marriage of Miss Gertrude Mack, daughter of the late Mr. John M. Mack and Mrs. Mack, of Torresdale, and Lieutenant Commander Henry Charles Dinger, U. S. N., took place this morning at 11 o'clock in St. Dominic's Church, Hahnemann.

Kerensky Is Premier; Russian Riots Quelled

Continued from Page One Germans sent him back to Russia to agitate for a separate peace. He was, however, sworn, "to co-operate with Lenin, Madame Sunensson and others."

The Kronstadt revolution and other malcontents made their last stand at the Forts. The walls of the old regime in Russia were actually participated in the firing on the streets.

KERENSKY THE IDOL None of Kerensky's troops killed townspeople or agitators in the street fighting. Kerensky himself is the idol of the city, the most popular man in the whole Government.

MISSING NUMBER IN DRAFT IS FOUND Plans contemplated guardmen abroad before snow flies. The provost marshal general notified all Governors in slow-govern States today that they must establish their city and town lists.
