CURIO TREASURE TROVE WINDS UP IN COURTROOM

Rare Stamps and Coins, Rated at $100,000, Bring Claimants Before Judge

A fight over dividing a treasure of $100,000 in rare stamps and coins found in a rubbish heap at 309 Walnut street in 1912 was brought into Common Pleas Court No. 3 today. Frank A. D'Miller, who was manager for a waste paper company, headed by Edward A. Hemingway, complains that though he himself discovered the curio, Hemingway got possession of them and refuses to divide the proceeds of sale. The case was set for trial today.

Curio dealers and stamp collectors from all over the United States have come to see and buy the collection, D'Miller asserts. How much of the treasure has been sold he does not know, for Hemingway took it away and stored everything in a safe deposit vault in the Northern Trust Company, Sixth and Spring Garden streets, the statement filed in court declares. D'Miller at first put the collection in a vault in the Girard National Bank. Later, while he was out of town, D'Miller avers, Hemingway had the collection moved to his own deposit vault. He explained this to D'Miller by saying the facilities for showing the collection were better there, D'Miller says.

ALLIES URGE TIGHT CLAMP ON SCANDINAVIA

Diplomats Don't Believe Neutrals Will Be Forced Into German Arms

WASHINGTON, July 26.—America's embargo will not drive Scandinavian neutrals into the camp of the Central Powers, allied diplomats here believe.

Germany wants no nation on her side now unless that nation has a full dinner pail," one said today.

Hence the Allies are bringing strong pressure to bear on the exports council to clamp the lid down hard on food shipments to neutrals bordering Germany.

"Let them suffer," they say, "if it will save hundreds of thousands of American and other fighting men in France. The neutrals must not be permitted to sell their cake and have it too. Make the neutrals ration so slim they would face starvation if they sell Germany grain and meat."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 26.—Following a night of riots in which one man was shot and two painfully injured by missiles thrown by the rioters, Springfield's street car service resumed today with only one-third of its cars in service.

The riots were the result of 150 carmen walking out on strike when the railway company refused the demands of the men for recognition of their union and higher wages. Armed guards were placed on all cars running today.

CITY DEMANDS BETTER CONDUCT ON RIVER BOAT

Webster Warns Agent Present Conditions Will Forfeit Docking Privilege

Director Webster, of the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries, has notified James E. Otis, agent for the river steamer boat Thomas Clyde, that conditions and behavior on that boat must improve at once or it will be necessary for the vessel to find a new docking place after this season. The boat has been using the Arch street pier, which is No. 3, and which is a city pier.

The issuance of the order was the result of an editorial published in the EVENING LEADER last Tuesday, which suggested to Director Webster how he could proceed against the company operating the boat on which alleged evil conditions prevailed.

The order also came after a detailed report was submitted to Director Webster by Mrs. Marion L. Cohen-Polak, president of the Big Sisters, an organization formed for the purpose of promoting sociability among working girls, and inducing the young women to study social conditions.

A complaint, based on the report of an investigator who took a sail on the Thomas Clyde recently on a Sunday, was submitted to Director Webster, and described conditions on the boat.

RUSH REBUILDING WORK AT POINT BREEZE PLANT

Workmen Are Reconstructing the Stills Destroyed by Explosions and Fires Yesterday

Squads of workmen working in different shifts today are at work reconstructing the stills at the Atlantic Refining Company's plant at Point Breeze which were damaged in the two fires that occurred late Tuesday evening and yesterday afternoon.

Both fires which followed a series of explosions were finally extinguished at 6 o'clock this morning. For almost thirty hours city firemen had been on the scene. The fire engines left the plant this morning.

J. W. Van Dyke, president of the Atlantic Refining Company, said the fire of 1912 caused much greater damage to the plant than the last two fires. Officials of the refining company paid a high tribute to the bravery of the firemen and men of the company's own fire-fighting force. The company turned out nearly every man working for it in this locality to help fight the flames.

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO ST. ANN'S SHRINE

Catholics Celebrate Feast of Patron of the Halt, Blind and Afflicted

This is Saint Ann's day—a feast day of the Catholic Church set aside for the crippled, the lame, the blind and the infirm, to pray to the saint for a special blessing and an intercession for alleviation of ills. The feast of the patron saint of the weak and the maimed is being celebrated by thousands of Catholics from every part of the city and suburbs at the shrine of Saint Ann, in the church at Lehigh avenue and Memphis street.

Thousands flocked to the church before beginning the day's work. Some came in the humble garb of working folk, others' appearance marked them as merchants, bankers or lawyers; some came on foot—most of them, in fact, still others rode up to the church in automobiles. But all came with a unified purpose; all were firmly convinced that the good saint would reward their faith by speeding them or their friends a recovery from ills.

The relic, consisting of three small bones from the wrist of Saint Ann, mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, was passed by the priests for the congregation to kiss. The relic was brought from Rome by the Rev. Thomas Barry in 1894, and it has been encased in a round gold casket, one side covered with glass. This usually rests in a marble chamber, above which is the statue of Saint Ann.
