The interest rate for the Liberty Bonds was definitely established by the legislation authorizing them; that is to say, the figure was established at "not to exceed  $34_{2}$  per cent." The amount authorized by the act was \$5.000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds and \$25000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds and was \$5.000,000,000 in Liberty Bonds and \$2.000,000,000 in two-year certificates of in-debtedness. The rate on the latter also was confined to  $3\frac{1}{9}$  per cent. The net result is that should the Treasury Department find that it is not desirable to take the risk of a second offering at  $3\frac{1}{9}$ per cent it would be called upon to go before Congress with a request for enabling a rate of, say, 4 per cent to be paid. the offering of June 1s last, a benefit that would be participated in by all the sub-scribers to the Liberty Loan who have not sold out their allotments. This is a factor that all will concede must have a direct hearing upon the gen-eral price level of Stock Exchange securities. If our wealthier classes, for instance, who are to be severely taxed on income account, can transfer their funds to a net basis of 4 per cent by the purchase of Liberty Bonds, they are not going to retain permanently other securities upon which the net return is not so favorable. If, for in-stance, we take a 5 per cent bond selling at par and figure that the surtax upon certain parts of the income of a millonaire holder will amount to 40 per cent, then such a hond would net only 3 per cent, besides which there must be reductions for other of which there must be reductions for other of the ordinary taxes. Consequently, a Gov-ernment bond paying a net return of 4 per cent would constitue a highly attractive in-vestment for these classes. This, in turn, would mean the sale of Stock Exchange securities that are subject to taxation, in order to reinvest the proceeds in Government bonds. Hence, the higher rate the Govern-ment pays the greater will be the liquida-tion of railroad and other securities on the Signs are becoming quite distinct of a reactionary tendency in general trade and industry. There is no actual slowing down reactionary tendency in general trade and industry. There is no actual slowing down of production, since the mills have under contract orders to keep their full capacity engaged, in many instances for fully the balance of the year. What is really notice-able, however, is the lack of initiative in placing new orders, especially in connection with building operations placing new orders, especially in connection with building operations. This is a development that is not alto-gether unnatural in view of the uncertainty of the approaching cost of material. The President's speech on patriotism a few weeks ago is responsible in large measure for this spirit of indecision that is develop-ing. Obviously, if the President's ideas in regard to prices are forced into general use it will only be a short time before structural material can be purchased at substantial concessions from the present figures. figures.

Exchanges Closed Today

Stock and commodity exchanges through-out the country were closed today. The action in keeping the markets closed from last night until Monday morning, when they will open at the usual time, was first taken by the New York Stock Exchange because of the excessive heat, which has resulted in keeping attendance in the financial district down to the minimum. The foreign markets were also closed. Banks and trust companies were open for the usual Saturday hours.
