"GLAD I KILLED HIM," SAYS MRS. DE SAULLES

Heiress Says Former Football Star Refused to Give Up Child

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. A mother's love, hot anger of Latin blood when scorned, wealth and romance were mingled today in the story of the killing of John Lonzer De Saulles, former Yale football captain...

"I killed him and I am glad I did it. He had refused to give me my child." This was the statement of Mrs. Blanca De Saulles, charged with murder, as she talked with Deputy Sheriff Thorn in the Nassau County jail early today.

Mrs. De Saulles had motored over from her home to Roslyn to demand her child from her father. De Saulles refused. There was a quarrel. "Then this is the only way," the mother declared...

Mrs. De Saulles was accompanied by her maid. They fled from the porch, hiding in a hedge near the house. De Saulles's father and sister hurried from the house. They rushed over to the dying man. De Saulles was rushed to the Nassau Hospital, where he died.

Mrs. De Saulles was accompanied by her maid. They fled from the porch, hiding in a hedge near the house. De Saulles's father and sister hurried from the house. They rushed over to the dying man. De Saulles was rushed to the Nassau Hospital, where he died.

Charles Pettinus, a friend of De Saulles, killing after having talked with all of the witnesses. He said that De Saulles called at his former wife's home yesterday afternoon to remind her the boy was due at his house August 1, according to the order of the court, which directed the parents to have his custody alternate months.

De Saulles wanted to have the child as his father, Major Arthur De Saulles, and his sister, Mrs. De Saulles, were standing in the room, the mother burst in unannounced and stood in the midst of them. Her hands were hidden in the folds of her dress. Major De Saulles was on the lounge.

"I'm sorry," replied De Saulles, "but I cannot discuss that. I don't want to argue." He gestured to end the talk and stopped to open French window, where he stood with his back to his former wife. Suddenly Mrs. De Saulles flashed the gun from her dress and began shooting. She hesitated after the first shot, then fired four more.

"It had to be done," she replied. "I'm glad. Where are the police?" The boy was taken to the home of Mrs. August Hecker, another sister of the dead man, at Huntington, L. I., today.

Mrs. De Saulles's friends believe her temporarily deranged. Always high strung, they say, she brooded over the unhappy ending of her romance. The divorce mandate, she frequently complained, brought her the alternative of sacrificing her child if she returned to Chili, or of sacrificing her parents in that country if she remained here to be near the boy.

De Saulles, whose family lived in South Bethlehem, Pa., was one of the greatest quarterback backs that ever piloted an Ell team. He was captain of the "arsity in 1901. In 1911 he went to hill, representing the South American Concessions Syndicate.

The first intimation of discord came in 1916, when Mrs. De Saulles filed suit for divorce. She named a dancer. The decree was granted. Mrs. De Saulles was granted $300 a month alimony so long as she did not marry again.

Mrs. De Saulles claimed the boy should have been turned over to her on the first of August. It will be press this claim that she called at the home of her former husband.

YOUTH AND AGE ABOUT TO CLASH IN ARMY

Fight Impends Over Pershing Plea for 45-Year-Old Generals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. The biggest army fight in the history of the service impends today. It is between the younger element and the older. Before it is settled, there is a distinct likelihood that Congress may take a hand in the situation.

The fight has arisen over the question of promotion to the rank of general. President Wilson's desk today is a long list of colonels recommended as brigadier generals. The list was compiled by Major General Tasker H. Bliss, acting chief of the General Staff.

General Bliss represents the old army general. He is a strong believer in promotion by seniority. In the most recent list of promotions, certain colonels were overlooked by General Scott because he feared they might be too old for hard service in France.

It is understood that General Pershing's recommendations, as made to the War Department, declared that modern warfare was not for an old man. In this General Pershing had the advice, it is said, of Field Marshal Joffre, of the French army, and of General Haig, of the British army.

Major General Hugh L. Scott will return to this city soon. He is expected to resume his duties as chief of staff, but his friends are trying to have him promoted to the rank of lieutenant general and placed at the head of some important command.

SEWAGE SYSTEM WORK STARTS AT CAMP MEADE

3300 Men Now Employed, but 1000 More Are Needed to Accomplish Work in Hand

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. Work started today on the huge sewage disposal plant at Camp Meade, the training camp for the part of the national army drafted from Pennsylvania. The plant is to be one of the largest and most modern of its kind and will be ready for operation just before the cantonment is completed.

Although the cantonment is being unfolded at a rapid rate, more progress could be attained by the acquisition of additional man power, according to the men in charge of the work. Thirty-three hundred men are employed, and about 1,000 more are needed, it was said.

Everybody is on the go at the new post-office at the camp. There is sufficient force to handle all the mail that might be addressed to the soldiers from Pennsylvania now stationed at the cantonment. Earl R. Williams has been appointed superintendent of all mails, and as the men from Pennsylvania begin to arrive additional mail clerks will be sent to handle the letters and packages.

U. S. CALLS LAST 75,745 GUARDSMEN

Summons Tomorrow Will Release Better Trained Units for France

TOTAL MUSTER IS 400,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. The United States will call into active service tomorrow its last group of National Guardsmen, numbering 75,745 soldiers.

With this latest call the country has an estimated total of 400,000 of more National Guardsmen ready for intensive training in southern camps. According to present schedules training camps will be ready for use August 15.

California, 6591; Utah, 1358; Arizona, 665; Colorado, 3950; New Mexico, 1276; to train at Linda Vista, Cal. Arkansas, 6013; Mississippi, 4438; Louisiana, 2888; to train at Alexandria, La. Kentucky, 6164, and Indiana, 6149, to train at Hattiesburg, Miss., along with West Virginia, called July 15 and now assigned there.

There is talk also of converting some of the canvas camps into cantonments. Secretary of War Baker has not indicated how extensive such a shift might be. General Mann, head of the National Guard, and his quartermaster officers predict there will be sufficient supplies, though for some time it has been necessary to run without heavy reserves, due to drain on supplies caused by outfitting the regular army, particularly the expeditionary force.

Plenty of wholesome food will be on hand. The staples—beef, potatoes, onions and bread—will be furnished generously, while vegetables obtainable about camps will vary the usual rations. French digging, use of mortars, hand grenades and bayonet drill will be part of the intensive training.

U. S. TAKES OVER ALL SHIPYARDS

Government Also Requisitions Nearly 700 Vessels Under Construction

WILL RULE ON CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4. The Shipping Board has telegraphed orders to more than a score of the country's largest shipyards requisitioning all ships of 2500 deadweight tonnage or more now building. Management of the yards will be in the hands of the present owners, but under Government direction.

About 675 ships are affected by the Government's order. Their aggregate tonnage is more than 1,500,000. Included are many English, Norwegian and other vessels on foreign account.

The shipyards and owners of the vessels will receive compensation for the construction work on them so far. The Government will take over the contracts and expedite completion of the ships in order to make room for more emergency vessels to overcome submarine losses.

Speed will be accompanied by addition of overtime labor, additional shifts and elimination of unnecessary luxuries of construction and equipment. The Government's ready access to steel and other shipping material makes the problem simple as compared with the drawbacks the private builders faced, it is said.

The Government hereafter will rule on every large ship contract for private account, even for repairs. By the requisitioning orders the yards came virtually under Government control, and the country's entire shipbuilding industry is now in the Government's hands.

In a short time scores of new ships will be added to America's merchant marine by the requisitioning order. Some of the ships seized are more than 60 per cent finished.

CITY TO PROVIDE TO KEEP CHILDREN

Chief Carleton E. Davis, of the Bureau, has completed a plan by which small garden hose will be attached to city's fire hydrants in certain sections of the city, enabling children to bathe and get cool during heat spells, but at same time checking an enormous waste of the city's water supply.

It is estimated that 60,000,000 gallons of water were wasted during the recent heat wave. Not only have the fire hydrants been left open in some sections of the city, but many were opened and damaged by men and boys.

Chief Davis made a personal tour of inspection yesterday.
