LAND FOR WHISKY TAXES REVENUE OFFICE

Millions of Gallons Taken Out of Bond to Avoid Confiscation Under Food Law

Liquor dealers are withdrawing millions of gallons of whisky from Philadelphia bonded warehouses as a result of the passage of the food control law which becomes effective September 9. The law forbids the manufacture of distilled spirits for beverage purposes after that date and it empowers the President to seize all whisky and distilled liquors in bond or stock at that time.

The demand being made on bonded warehouses now is so great according to Chief Deputy Internal Revenue Collector McAvoy, that there are not enough gaugers in the Federal service to keep pace with it. It is necessary for a gauger to be present when whisky is withdrawn from bond, for it is then that the Government levies its tax.

While many liquor dealers believe that the President will not take advantage of the law, which empowers to him to seize the liquor, there are many others, however, who do not care to take a chance.

In the first internal revenue district of Pennsylvania for the year ending June 30, 8,300,054 gallons of whisky were produced.
