NORMAN MAXWELL DOES ARONIMINK IN 68 STROKES, BUT FAILS TO HOLE OUT SHORT PUTT AND RECORD FALLS

OST golfers are content to go through M life with the satisfaction of having broken eighty once or twice during their uncertain golf careers. None of us, unless we ertain goit cat about four or five or six stroke men, ever get under seventy. The thences of our breaking seventy are as re-mote as getting a million dollars. I do not mole as getting a minon dollars. I do not hink that more than a half dozen players to Fuladelphia have ever bettered seventy. Norman H. Maxwell, who, less than a month ago, shattered the record, both ama-teur and professional, of the Aronimink comptry Club, by hanging up new Generation Country Club, by hanging up new figures of 63, shot a 68 on Tuesday, but unfortunately the figures cannot stand as a new record, he failed to hole out on the sixth He was on the green in two, and rimmed the cup for a three. Maxwell and Dr. George N. Richmond played Arthur M. Wood and J. I. Bland, and the four men established a new best-ball score for the course of 63. On the ball score for the course of 63. On the sixth hole Bland had a three, so that the failure to hole the put, while it affected failures to hole the put, while it affected failures to hole the put, while it affected failures are even equaled. Alexander'll Have a Hard Job

Alexander'll Have a Hard Job It does not take much to start a dis-cussion. A paragraph in which Norman Maxwell was quoted as saying that the Lansdowne course called for better golf than Bala is responsible for the latest one. Albert Alexander is a six-stroke man at Bala and he is fairly familiar with the course at Lansdowne. Aleck says he is willing to wager that he can make a round four strokes less on Lansdowne than at Bala. The remark was made in the pres-ence of several Lansdowne mon, and, being loyal, they said he could do nothing of the loyal, they said he could do nothing of th

Marvelous Golf of a Fine Golfer Maxwell had seven birds, three on the first nine and four on the second, eight pars and three holes in one over par. He had one two five threes, nine fours and three fives. To explain Maxwell's remarks, it might particularly true of a long shot on the second and seventh holes. If your tee shots break well, everything is lovely; but if they do not, then look out for trouble.

Alcok is a good player and he has beaten some of the best men in Philadelphia, but few will agree with him that Bala is four stroker harder than Lansdowne. If he car shoot under so at Bala-and that is what he can usually do—it is safe to say that he cannot get from 72 to 75 over the Lansdowne course. Of course the test ought to be made when he is in his best golfing form. If he is inclined to be erratic there is no opportunity to try his suggestion. In the meantime the Lansdowne links his for the test at any time that may suit his time and convenience.

PHILLIES' BALL PARK, Aug. 17.

Chief Bender was in his old American League form today and not only shut out Putsburgh by 3 to 6, but also disposed of s opponents with three hits in the first game

One of these safeties was decidedly scratchy, as it was caused on a fly by Carey to short right field, which Evers Carey to short right held, which Evers played very poor; and the ball was allowed to drop to the dirt. This was the only hit made off Bender until two men were out in the seventh inning and permitted only one Firate to get to first base in six in-

Bender was cheered when he went in to pitch and he was vigorously applauded at the conclusion of the contest

Elmer Jacobs, who formeriy wore the Phillies uniform, was so cager for revenge that he went back at the home team in this game. Jacobs got out of tight situations in the first and fifth innings, and met his downfall in the sixth. He started his own routide by giving a pass to Stock. Cravath item singled Loderus sacrificed with a fly to Jackson, which sent in Stock and moved ap. Cravath. Whitted followed with a combined by Birthee and agie, which was fumbled by Bigbee, and ravath scored.

Cravath scored, Grimes then went to the rubber and handed out a bunch of passes, with the result that Evers was forced over the plate with the final run of the contest.
