The Sporting Carnival in Bryn Mawr Comes in for Nancy Wynne's Comment-White Sulphur Springs in Full Swing

WHEN the committee which decided to call off the Bryn Mawr Horse Show this fall sees how successfully plans for the Sporting Carnival are being carried out, I have an idea they will feel that they have allowed something to "get by" them. For certainly plans for that event are being pushed forward so energetically that there can hardly be a doubt of its success.

And when the twenty-eighth of September comes I doubt not the oval at Bryn Mawr will present as festive an appearance as it did in the days "befo' de wah." when Society had nothing more on its mind than the number of blue ribbons its or their respective entries were to capture. The carnival, besides the horse show, will have a dog show and a hound exhibition. A midway and restaurant, with numerous booths and other attractions, will be the principal daytime events, and at night on both days a Main Line pageant will be held. There will also be danc-

Mrs. David B. Sharp is chairman of the horse show committee, Mrs. Robert E. Strawbridge vice chairman, St. George Bond secretary, W. Hinckle Smith treasurer, and David B. Sharp, Charles E. Coxe, William H. Wanamaker, Jr., and R. Penn Smith members of the executive committee.

The show will be conducted in every respect as a regulation horse show. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, of New York, will judge heavy harness horses. Joseph E. Widener will judge ponies in hurness. Lewis E. Waring, of Plainfield, N. J., will judge saddle horses and ponies under saddle. Henry V. Colt, of Geneseo, N. Y., will be the judge for hunters and jumpers, and Dr. J. C. Bartholomew, of Berwyn, will be the veterinary inspector. Altogether' there will be fifty-three classes in the show, fourteen of which will be for hunters and jumpers, including a ch a m pionship class. Ponies in harness, Shetland ponies, pony tandems, pony jumpers and pony saddle The harness classes will include single, double and tandem horses. One class of saddle-horse classes, of which there will be eight, will include a pair of hacks.

Inasmuch as the show will be part of there will be no prizes other than rib- this year the women are going to give a Bond on September 15.

Mrs. Penn Smith, Jr., who was Carol marriage recently, is one of the advisory committee for the horse show, and the other members include Miss Josephine Mather, Mrs. Charles Randolph Snowden, Mrs. Sam Riddle, Mrs. Walter Roach, Mrs. Antelo Devereux, Mrs. John R. WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS is run-ning according to form and prospects for the fall season are extremely bright. One of the most interesting events of a very lively week was a talk given Monday night in the ballroom of the Greenbrier by Mrs. Benjamin Miller, chairman of the Italian committee of the Emergency Aid of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Miller, who has worked tirelessly in the efforts of this committee, was better prepared to speak on the subject of "Italy's Part in the War" than any sojourner who has been here this summer. With motion pictures to show how the Italian soldiers wended their way to the heights of the Alps, Mrs. Miller gave a most illustrative talk on the peculiar conditions and the incredible hazards with which the Italian forces are obliged to cope. Almost one thousand dollars was subscribed by the large audience in attendance. Mr. Blatchford Kavanagh sang Garibaldi's Italian hymn. which the Italian forces sang as they made their final assault in taking the heights of Gorizia. Mme. Barbour Sonntag sang Gounod's "Ave Maria." Mrs. Miller went to Virginia Hot Springs to spend a week at the Homestead, where she addressed a large colony of sojourners. Mrs. Howard Weatherly, who is spending the summer here, assisted Mme. Barbour Sonntag at a morning musicale given in the ballroom of the Greenbrier for the benefit of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church. Mrs. Weatherly won great applause when she played "The Murmuring of a Little Brook."

Little Mary Elizabeth Beebe, the threeyear-old granddaughter of Mrs. George de Benneville Keim, was the belle of the children's ball on Thursday, when she represented Cupid.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Wilson and Hope Wilson, of Pear Grove House, Villanova, are at the Springs. Robert Young Bernard and Norman H. Maxwell, the wellknown golfer, spent a few days at the Greenbrier, playing daily over the eight-Mr. Maxwell made his first in 76 in a round with Mothersels,

Miss Kennedy Marries Mr. Townsend-Other Interesting Nuptials

TOWNS"ND-K"NNEDY September, more beautiful than June, and yet like June a heart's month! So wed-dings will be plentiful in this month that stretches out its hands to "clasp the loving palm of August, and the fruit-smelling hand of October," and while dividing them asunder, is "moided of them both." Among asunder, is "moided of them besth." Among the weddings opening the social events of this mild autumn month was that of Miss Agnes Clarke Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Whoever would expect, for instance, that-! but wait and see. It was quite near dusk, and two young persons had stopped to gaze long and earnestly at the military emblems and insignia reposing on folds of yellow satin in the window of an exclusive and highpriced shop. They were most awfully interested, for wasn't one of them engaged to a soldier boy? But suddenly, and without any warning, a most unexpected thing happened. Out from the yellow draperies topped a wee, innocent, gray mouse. Well, for fully five minutes Friend Mouse frisked around everywhere, hurdling over a lieutenant's bar and even essaying to scratch with tiny paws at the yellow satin. But, alas! Happening to glance up he spied his disturbing mirthful audience, so, with one indignant and reproachful glance (for who likes to be laughed at?) into the yellow satin he
