GERMANS KEPT PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCES SURRENDER OF GENERAL KORNILOFF

In Declaration Issued by Premier Kerensky Statement Is Made That Revolutionary Movement Has Been Summarily and Completely Suppressed

PETROGRAD, Sept. 13. General Korniloff's headquarters surrendered to the provisional Governent today.

The announcement was made by Minister of Labor Skobeleff.

Early today Premier Kerensky announced that Korniloff was ready to surrender and made the declaration that the rebellion had failed completely. The Premier's statement followed the issuance of a formal proclamation declaring "the senseless effort of a military mutiny begun by the former commander-in-chief and a small party of generals to overthrow the Government."

"The guilty mutineers," the proclamation continued, "will be delivered to the revolutiouary military tribunal."

The Premier announced also sweeping reforms curtailing the power of soldiers' committees-the units of enlisted men who have heretofore mixed in with the strategy of the commanders and sought to handle all army affairs.

"Henceforth," Kerensky asserted, "the soldiers committees will control only in in-ternal affairs and will not interfere in matters of military strategy."

Seven Injured While Enraged Argentine Mobs Burn German Buildings FEAR FRESH OUTBREAK

Secret Arrangements Made for Flight of German Envoy From Buenos Aires

> By CHARLES P. STEWART Special Cuble Service of the United Press and Evening Ledger.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 13. No such display of police and military forces to preserve order has ever been seen in Buenos Aires as that which was called out today to avoid a repetition of last night's rioting and to afford protection to the departing German Minister.

Count Luxburg, dismissed for the mesrages he sent his home office under cover of the Swedish Legation, was expected here early today to receive his passports and leave for Germany. The greatest secrecy was manifested by the Government as to the time of his arrival, of his departure, or by what route he expected to leave Argentina.

According to police figures today, seven persons were injured in last night's riot-ing, three seriously. The city was still in a ferment of excitement after yesterday evening's wild dis-orders. Fresh outbreaks were feared.

GERMAN BUILDINGS BURNED Half a dozen smoking ruins of buildings formerly occupied by German commercial firms attested to the violence of the anti-German passion which animated vast throngs in the streets. The German Club, one of the architectural masterpieces of the city, was badly damaged. Police re-serves, hurriedly summoned, were totally unable to cope with the mob. The police were set upon, disarmed and thrust aside. Firemen summoned to fight fires in German-occupied buildings no sooner put out one blaze than some of the rioters ignited the structure again. Half a dozen buildings were almost wrecked, including that occupied by La Union, a German newspaner.

Wildest disorder prevailed through the streets all last night, immense crowds joining the demonstrations. The German legation and the German newspaper buildings were stoned, and mounted poince charged the crowds in the fashionable Avenue The Taylor transit lease proposal, which was rejected by Councils, was indorsed throughout by Mr. Lewis. He asserted that this lease would have been more favorable to the car-rider, the taxpayer and the transit company stockholders than the pres-Florida. Despite the efforts of the strong guard, all the windows in the office of La Union, a German journal, were broken.

Mr. Lewis, who is a prominent lawyer, is making the transit lease the principal issue in his fight against the Vare-Machey In one instance where guards attempted to shoot those who were applying torches to the German quarters, the mobs set upon them and took away their weapons.

The Argentine Government yesterday sent to the German legation passports to be delivered to Count von Luxburg.

The Argentine Foreign Office also sent a communication to the German Foreign Ministry demanding an explanation of Count Luxburg's action in sending secret code messages to Berlin through the Swed-ish legation. It was officially announced that if Germany failed to disapprove of

An estimated annual maintenance cost of $25,000 is added. October 14 is date set in will for city t sign contract; otherwise collection automatically goes to Metropolitan Museum, New York.

An appraisal of the art treasures of the late John G. Johnson, made for the benefit of city officials, places their value at $4,-500,000. The total value of the property left by the lawyer is placed at $6,328,-114.84. The estimated cost to the city of taking over the art objects, under the will, is $690,000 and an annual maintenance cost of not less than $25,000. These facts were learned today exclusively by the EVENING

LEDGER. Mayor Smith has been acquainted with the status of the case. Members of the Finance Committee will have to do some quick work if a contract to take over the art treasures is entered into before October 14, the time limit fixed by the will. After this time, if the city fails to act, the collection, free of many of its most oppressive conditions, passes automatically to the Metropolitan Museum of New York city. Before Councils adjourned for the summer recess the city officially accepted the bequest of the art collection and agreed by ordinance to carry out the provisions of the will referring to the gift, the value of which had not then been fully ascertained. An appropriation of $500,000 was made to cover the cost of the transfer, but this sum, it is now claimed, is fully $390,000 too small. The will, in referring to the provision which gives Philadelphia the collection, says that time is "vital" and that failure to comply with the "not onerous" conditions ill mean a forfeiture. Many of the mu ipal financiers who are on a still hunt for money to meet the payments have a different opinion of the meaning of the word "onerous" as used by the testator.

CAN FORCE CITY TO ACT Maurice Bower Saul, an attorney associated with Mr. Johnson, is quoted as authority for the figures that have just been privately submitted to city officials and as authority for the statement that the city will be fully able to meet the obligation before the expiration of the six months' time limit. The Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting An-nuities is executor of the Johnson will and nuities is executor of the Johnson will also sempowered to force the city to perform all the provisions of the contract once it has been formally accepted.

The Federal tax on the estate is estimated at $719,000, and that part of the rederal tax effective upon the art treasures is fixed at $565,000. The private bequests, including the one made to the late Edward De V. Morrell, carry an estimated Federal

The will provides for the construction of an Art Museum, but later provides that the treasures shall remain forever housed at 519 South Broad street, the Johnson home, and that the building be, as quickly as possible, turned into a public museum of art. The will precludes the possibility of moving the Johnson collection to the contemplated $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 art palace to be erected along the Parkway, and this will result in Philadelphia's owning and maintaining two separate art galleries widely separated as to location. It also provides that politicians shall have nothing to do with the appointment of a curator to have charge and control of the collection, and gives the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities wide latitude as controlling trustes.
