Can it be that they expect accidents? However, 'tis well to be on the spot and show the practical work that has been done by the Red Cross. Mrs. Robert G. arts and confts table, a fashion shop Wilson, of Wayne, is chairman of this undertaking, and will be ably assisted by Mrs. Frederick Emblek, of Davon. The other women on the committee are Miss Grace Roberts, Mrs. Guy Willey, Mrs. William A. Roberts, Jr., Mrs. Frank Croft, Mrs. C. Colket Wilson, Mrs. W. S. Roney, Mrs John Brown, Mrs. William T. Hunter, Mrs. Murdock Kendrick, Mrs. Robert R. Brodhead, Mrs. W. Allen Barr, Mrs. Frank Dallett, Mrs. C. L. F. Sayen, Mrs. J. S. C. Harvey, Mrs. Charles Townsend, Jr., and Miss Bertha Black

These aides are all to be dressed as Red Cross nurses and will take their turns assisting in the tent. There are to be two Boy Scouts stationed at the entrance of the tent day and evening. They will be relieved every hour, so it will not be too strenuous for any two small boys. The tent will be visited during the Carnival by Dr. C. D. O'Neil Smedley, Dr. Alexander O'Neil, Dr. J. Packard Laird and Dr.

Walter Chrystie, Sounds very hospitallike, doesn't it? I wonder what on earth they are preparing for out there, don't you? Now don't get funny, Nancy, because you realize they simply want to have their tent up to date in every way Then the first-ald table is to sell every. thing that one could buy at a drug store, from a toothbrush to an invalid table. Also comfort kits for the soldiers. The committee in charge of the table includes Mrs. J. Packard Laird, Margaret Burton, Mrs. Alexander Grange, Mrs. James Lawson, Mrs. Thomas Watson; Mrs. Hutchinson Galloney, Mrs. J. E. Cope Morton and Christine Balter, Nor content with these things, the Wayne Branch is going to have a float representing "Civilian Relief Work for the Army and Navy." Miss Malvina Herr, of New York, will be Columbia on this float and Lorrai te Graham will represent a Social Worker, while Margaret Burton will be a murse. The other parts have not yet been decided upon.

Tom Nelson will ride ahead of the float as "Mad Anthony" Wayne. Mrs. Barklie, who is chairman of the whole shooting match, feels justly proud of the Wayne Branch, as she is a member of the executive board of this auxiliary.

my, but is a bit bored by having to sit still a while and listen to lessons. His teacher greeted him with many smiles and asked a little girl of seven who was present to get a small chair for Wilfred. Florence went very promptly and brought a second-sized small chair. but teacher admonished her smilingly. "No, dear, get a very small chair, for Wilfied is a very little boy." "Aw-w! where'd per get that stuff?" remarked

Wilfred. More than ready to assert himself as a man at that advanced age, you Bea!

He's an enterprising person, too, and has been known to entertain his friends and relations for minutes at a time by standing straight up on his head as long as they may desire him to do so. Finally the demand for this performance became so great as he grew more proficient that he conceived the idea of charging so much for each exhibition, so that a cent would pay for a moment's enjoyment of the spectacle, while a minute's pleasure cost the onlooker five cents.

This continued for some time, till one day Wilfred, who had been allowed to play with 12 pushmobile on the front pavement, came in at lunchtime eating sandy with much satisfaction. Mother exclaimed, "Where did you get that tandy?" "Oh, I bought it," replied fiveand a half, nonchalantly, "Where did you get the money?" "A man gave it to me." "A man! what man?" Little sister came to mother's rescue then and piped up, "A man gave him five thents for thanding on hith head on the threat." That young man will make his way in the world, methinks. But his fond parents aigh patiently and say they'll be thankful if he only keeps out of jail. However, they don't say that to him, so that's all right.

VOU know, Mrs. Frank Clyde has been I entertaining twenty-five sailors and soldiers every week at dinner or luncheon at her lovely place. Goughacres, in Bryn Mawr. She gives them a glorious time and also gives each man a sweater as he is leaving. She's perfectly killing about It and remarked to another woman: "Infeed, I'm not going to trust to any Red Cross or Navy League to give my sweatare away for me. I'll put them on their backs myself"; and so she's knitting to best everything and Josephine Mclivaine Mul'adden he" daughter, is also knitting to beat time an ! they are buying sweaters in every direction so as to have twenty-five on hand every week when the laddles go out there.
