

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Emergency Aid Needs Funds to Provide Tobacco for Our Soldiers in France—New Rooms for Independence Square Red Cross Open

IF YOU have a boy in France you are doing everything you know of to make him less homesick. But if you haven't a boy in France—if you have just a friend or a casual acquaintance—are you doing anything about it? Do you search the papers for mention of his name, and use a magnifying glass on all the pictures of the American men to see if you can say: "See that man on the right? I know him." How much more proud you would be if you could say: "See that man smoking a cigarette? I sent him that." And you have a chance to say just that very thing now, for the Emergency Aid has made it possible.

The Emergency Aid has been appointed the official organization for the whole State for the distribution of tobacco and other luxuries among the men who are over in France for us. Perhaps it would be better to say "tobacco and luxuries," for to an American a smoke is a real necessity. Hasn't your husband or your brother or your father come home lots of times at night, and been grouchy and moody because he got his pipe, and then hasn't he puffed for a few minutes in silence, and suddenly turned around a different man, all full of smiles? Of course, he has. Now imagine a soldier—no, imagine a plain American boy in uniform, tired, a bit grouchy, and, way down deep, most awfully homesick. He's been working hard all day, and what he wants is a comfortable chair and a long smoke. He may be able to make himself comfortable, although it's doubtful, but for love or money or any other thing he can't get a smoke. An American without a smoke!

It's up to you to overcome this state of affairs. The Emergency Aid will place the tobacco, but it can't provide all the money. Five cents will help, twenty-five will buy one package of cigarettes, and all you do is send the money to the tobacco committee of the Emergency Aid at 1425 Walnut street, with the name of the soldier whom you know, and the tobacco will reach him personally. How they do it I don't know, but they do. And they want money to do it, and surely the people of Philadelphia will come to the rescue and provide that money.

AFTER all, it isn't so much what you give, as the spirit in which you give it, don't you think? You know the Independence Square Auxiliary, No. 276, of the American Red Cross, will open its new headquarters on the main floor of the Washington Building, at 608 Chestnut street, today and it stepped in there yesterday just to see how they are getting along, for, you know, every one of us is deeply interested in Red Cross work; indeed in any kind of work for the soldiers.

The rooms certainly look inviting, with their long tables covered in white and their beautiful spotless shelves and cupboards. And, you know, they have quite some remarkable things to show in their window. There is a genuine Lusitania medal which was struck off in Germany at the time of the sinking of the ship. It's very interesting to see it, for do you remember the uproar raised by the Germans when Owen Winter stated that the drowning of those women and children had been celebrated with general rejoicing in Germany.

The Huns denied this with great gusto, but the medals were struck off not only at the time, but two days earlier than the actual happening, for the Lusitania was two days late, and so the date on the medal, May 8, does not correspond with the disaster, May 7. The Germans were so sure that this heinous thing would be done, they had the medals made and dated on the day they planned to do it.

All this, however, is diverging from what I said in the beginning, about the way of giving being the thing after all.

MRS. GEORGE HORACE LORIMER, who is the "mother" of the Independence Square Auxiliary, you know, showed me the dearest note which had been sent to her.

"The letter is so sweet, I think I'll pass it on to you before giving it back to Mrs. Lorimer. It says:

"I am an elderly lady, living a very retired life, but intensely interested in this war. I am sending you, by express two trunks, the contents of which, in good hands, will, I hope, bring me something for the Red Cross. I live so out of the world that I do not know how to make the most of them.

"The steamer trunk is filled with linen bought in 1848, but most of it has had but little wear, and it will be of use in hospital work, I know; but it is the contents of the larger trunk that puzzle me. It is the pick-up work of my leisure hours; most of it made before the war; the articles were intended for gifts to friends, bits of color to brighten studio, den or living room; flung across a couch they come of use on a chilly day; some were intended for porch wraps. They might come of use in a convalescent hospital, or, if sold, I think they would bring something for the Red Cross, and the larger pieces are altogether unique and not easily duplicated, as any who knits would tell you. I doubt if I could myself make two alike. They are made of 'Fleisher' and 'Golden Fleece' Shetland flax (the wool was all dyed before the war)."

And now comes the dearest part of the letter, somehow I'd love to know this "elderly lady," for her heart must be pure gold and her soul pretty close to the high places. She says: "I am asking a great deal from you, but I think you will help me for the sake of those who have to suffer for us all. Though I have made suggestions, I leave all to your judgment; all I really care for is that my little be made to do its best. I purposely do not give my name."

"P. S. I write with difficulty, as you can see, but I think you can make it all out."

must confess I do, and I am going to hope we'll get a chance to, too.

SHE was just learning to play golf, and as people weren't yet able to describe her as "some player," she decided to do some intensive practicing, and then one day surprise them by playing a most brilliant game.

And, incidentally, she was young and fair and petite, so she enhanced the landscape mightily, despite low-heeled shoes. You remember how Nancy raved about the appearance of women on golf courses, don't you? Well, this small lady and her set-up were distinctly ALL RIGHT.

So out on the links on one morning; to be exact it was last Monday, all by herself, but no, she wasn't quite by herself either, for a small, audacious-eyed one insisted upon going along with her. Well, slowly, almost inch by inch, the ball progressed till with a mighty effort, she swung it up on the first "green." Joyfully, she ran toward the place where she knew that ball had dropped, but, would you believe it, it wasn't there. And, moreover, it wasn't anywhere in the vicinity, for the looked and looked.

At last, weary and disgusted, she gave up the search, when—goose sizz! There sat Friend Pip with the precious ball in his mouth, gazing at her most gleefully. "Bring it here!" she ordered sternly. "Bring it here!" she ordered sternly. "Bring it here!" she ordered sternly. "Bring it here!" she ordered sternly. "Bring it here!" she ordered sternly.

Well, round and round he chased, till finally our poor young golferess was so peeved she refused to go a step further. Now who can tell the workings of a we dog's mind. I ask you, for at just that instant the dear little "manicule" dropped the ball right at her feet, with a reproachful but inquiring wisp of the tail that seemed to say, "There! Is THAT what you are looking for?" The small golferess is a subtle, incidentally, and has fair hair and makes you want to pet her. I should think she'd have a dreadful time with everybody wanting to love her and see that nothing hard or unpleasant in this world ever touched her. But, you see, she does not need to be petted and spoiled so, for she is decidedly a little woman, and can take care of her own small self. I'll spare her feelings, however, and not tell you her name.

NANCY WYNNE.

Social Activities

Mrs. E. B. Showell, of Riverton, N. J., announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Gertrude Showell, to Mr. Eric Kline, of Melrose Park.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry A. Strecker and their family, of 1318 Pine street, have closed their cottage in Ventnor and have returned home.

Dr. B. J. Connolly, Jr., of West Seymour street, Germantown, left for Camp Dix Wednesday. He collected in the dental camp and received a commission as first lieutenant some time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Butterworth and Miss Butterworth have returned from a stay of five weeks in Atlantic City.

WEST PHILADELPHIANS LEAVE FOR CAMP MEADE

Mr. Russell Greenwell, Mr. Foster Wallworth, Mr. Robert McCurdy, Jr., and Mr. Henry B. Dugli left Wednesday for Camp Meade. Mr. Dugli on his departure was presented with a wrist watch by his colleagues in the rapid transit department.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Randall and their daughter, Miss Florence Randall, have returned from Atlantic City, where they spent the summer. Mr. Leo Way, who will leave shortly for camp, has been spending the last three weeks with them.

Miss Gertrude Tete, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tete, is the guest of Miss Anna Dempsey at her cottage in Chelsea.

Mrs. Samuel Hopkins, of 4915 Larchwood avenue, who has been spending the summer in Ocean City, N. J., has returned to her home.

Miss Edith Morrow, of 28 South Fifty-first street, is staying for a short time in Atlantic City.

MRS. WILLIAM R. SCOTT. Who before her marriage on Tuesday was Miss Catherine Ann French, of Villanova.

Weddings

A very pretty wedding took place in 1917 this morning in the Church of Our Lady of Holy Souls, Nineteenth and Tioga streets, when Miss Catherine M. French, of 2013 West Ontario street, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel French, was married to Mr. John M. Morrissey. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with a row of pearls and a crown of pearls. Her veil was of tulle extended to the hem of the train and was held in place with sprays of orange blossoms. Roses and lilies of the valley were combined in her bouquet. Miss Edith Gleason, who attended the bride, wore a frock of pink georgette crepe over pink satin, with a hat of pink crepe, trimmed with a single pink rose, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Arthur Morrissey was the bride's best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis Higgins and was followed by a breakfast at the home of the bride. Mr. Morrissey and his bride left on an extended trip and will be at home at 4225 North Eleventh street after November 1.

COLLINS—HOWENSTEIN

The marriage of Miss Wade Howenstein, of Narberth, and Mr. Robert C. Collins, of Wilmington, took place last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride on Chestnut avenue. Miss Katherine Ross, of Wilmington, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and the best man was Mr. Howard Collins, of Wilmington, a brother of the bridegroom. The marriage was performed by the Rev. C. G. Coppel, of the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. and Mrs. Collins will live in Wilmington.

ENTERTAINMENTS GIVEN FOR MISS DATESMAN

This is a busy month for Miss Marion Datesman. Her wedding to Mr. Allen Hill takes place next month and she is being entertained by the members of her bridal party at luncheons and bridge parties to such an extent that it is a wonder that she ever gets time to get her trousseau ready. Her sister, Mrs. L. G. Howell, 24, ready, gave a luncheon and bridge party on September 14 at the Whitehall Valley Country club, and on Monday another sister, Mrs. J. E. Egan, of 1000, entertained the bridal party at luncheon at the Manufacturers' Club and a theatre party. Miss Pearl Aiman, of Chestnut Hill, will give a bridge party in honor of Miss Datesman today.

Miss Marion C. Montgomery, of the Fairfax, Germantown, will give a luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford, followed by a theatre party, on Wednesday, September 26, and on October 2 Miss Helen Fry, of 418 West Hottel street, Germantown, will give a luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford, followed by a theatre party, for the bride and her attendants.

MARRIAGE OF INTEREST TOOK PLACE ON SATURDAY

Miss Ricciardi Married to Mr. Joseph Falanga

A wedding of interest in this city was that of Miss Beatrice Ricciardi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ricciardi, of 1310 Christian street, and Mr. Joseph Falanga, also of this city, which took place last Saturday morning at St. Titia's Church, Broad and Ellsworth streets. The Rev. Father Delise officiated at the ceremony. A large orchestra furnished the music at the church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Miss Pauline De Vito attended the bride as maid of honor and Miss Marguerite Tartaglia and Miss Madeline Tartaglia acted as bridesmaids. The flower girl was Miss Eleanor J. Zanotti, of New York. Doctor Juliano was best man and the ceremony was followed by a dinner for the bridal party and the immediate family at the bride's home.

The bridegroom and bride left for an extended trip through the East.

MISS EDITH EARLE. Photo by Bachrach. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Earle, Jr., of Broad Acres, Bryn Mawr, who was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Catherine Ann French and Captain William R. Scott, which took place on Tuesday. Miss Earle's engagement to Mr. Alden Lee, of Haverford, has been announced.

WEEK-END AT SEASHORE FOR BRIDAL PARTY

Tiogas Spend Day in Country at Summer Place in Hallowell

Perhaps it is because "all the world loves a lover" that it has grown to be quite a tradition for those who have cottages at the seashore, and who have friends to entertain in September or October, to entertain the bridal party over the week-end. The young people are so jolly and happy and thoroughly enjoy all the good times arranged for them. Mr. and Mrs. William H. Geary and their daughter, Miss Helen Geary, of 2842 North Eighteenth street, will entertain one of their bridal house parties from tomorrow until Monday evening at their cottage in Atlantic City. Miss E. Jordan Hartwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Hartwell, of 1725 West Erie avenue, is the bride-to-be, and Mr. Howard Marshall Adams is the bridegroom. They will be married on Wednesday evening, October 10, in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal Church, Broad and Venango streets. The bridal party includes Mrs. Charles Snyder, Jr., of 1000, Mrs. Helen Houton, Mrs. Lester Dickenson, Miss Kathryn Harley, Miss Anna Minnago, Miss Louise Koenig and Mrs. Charles Oughlin.

What lovely weather for wedding parties in the country with all the gold and scarlet flowers of autumn! Mrs. Charles Meixner, of North Nineteenth street, whose country place is in Hallowell, Me., entertained a number of friends all day Tuesday. They included Mr. David Rentscher, Mrs. Minnie Lipsett, Mrs. George Feliz, Mrs. Charles Pray Lower, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Clarence McCoo, Taylor and Mrs. Charles Blumhart, most of whom have recently returned from their summer outings. Mrs. Taylor from Ocean City, Mrs. Feliz from Hoboken, N. J., and Mrs. Blumhart will spend the remainder of September at Woodbury, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Henry, of 2018 West Estuagh street, are home from several weeks' stay at the Delaware Water Gap. The Tioga Improvement League, which is entering upon an active campaign, to improve this section, has elected the following officers for 1917 and 1918: Mr. Harry R. Kern, president; Mr. Joseph H. Bush, Mr. A. Schroeder, Mr. Robert W. Brown, vice president; Mr. George L. Ratz, Mr. Joseph Sternberger, secretary, and Mr. Leslie H. Getz, treasurer.

All the selected drafted men of the United States army living in the Tioga section of the Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth and Forty-third wards, numbering about 500, were given a reception and entertainment on Monday night at the Casino Theatre, Broad street below Erie avenue, by the Tioga Business Men's Association. This was the final entertainment for the men prior to their departure for camp. Mr. Wilbur H. Zimmerman, president of the association, welcomed the men, who were accompanied by their families. Mr. Robert Griffith, of the Civil Service Board, made a patriotic address, and there was a jolly program to make every one laugh and forget for an hour or two that serving one's country means parting from loved ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClelland have closed their summer home in Wildwood, and have opened their Tioga residence, 3429 North Fifteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wilkinson, Jr., and their daughter, Miss Edith Wilkinson, of 2828 Hunting Park avenue, have returned from a summer's stay in Chelsea.

LANSDOWNE STARTS FALL GAYETY

People Coming Home From Seashore—Dance for Younger Set—Red Cross Work Continues, as Well as Canning and Preserving

AS THE days go by and the end of the month draws near, even the late stayers at the seashore commence to come home again, for when the weather is as cool as it has been it's not much fun to be at a summer resort. One keeps thinking, "I'll bet my hat it's ever so much warmer up home. And, speaking of hats, this old straw one I'm wearing is absolutely a fright! The very day I arrive home I'm going to shop for a new one."

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and her family have just returned from Stone Harbor. They have a cottage down there, where they go every summer. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tindall and their family have also returned from there. And the H. C. Cunninghams are home again. They were down at Ocean City. So were the James Temple Butlers, the R. H. M. Stuards, the Clarence Hills, the Gulver Boyd, the William V. Willises and the Robert W. Dicks. These people are all back in Lansdowne now.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynne Mishler, who were staying for a short time at Buckwood Inn, Shawnee-on-Deleware, are home again. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Cooper and their young son, Mr. Gordon Cooper, were down at the Chalfonte in Atlantic City over the week-end.

Miss Josephine Pilling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Pilling, is visiting Miss Nancy Moore, at Pottsville, Pa.

Mr. George Glavin, who is with the marine corps, spent the last week-end with young Mrs. Galbraith. They were just married a few weeks ago.

Fall is always a nice time for the young people, for even though they do have to go back to school again, there are parties and all sorts of good times to look forward to. And these have begun already, for last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Shreiner gave a dance for their daughter, Miss Frances Shreiner. There were brightly-colored lanterns on the big porch, and the merry couples all trooped out there between dances. The guests were Miss Grace Lippincott, Miss Alice Koller, Miss Riddle, Miss Louisa Young, Miss Audrey Phillips, Miss Gertrude Carl, Miss Ida Galbraith, Miss Kathryn Jarvis, Miss Dorothy Smythe, Miss Margaret Schell, Miss Janet Krall, Miss Louise McLee, Mr. Edward Spurr and Mr. John Spurr, Mrs. Frank Fortescue, Mr. Leonard Wilcox, Mr. Ernest McKenna, Mr. Carl Altmarer, Mr. Robert Glick, Mr. Thomas Krall, Mr. Alexander Johnson and Mr. Morris Johnson, Mr. Edward Kallacker, Mr. Albert Hunt, Mr. Daniel Wager-Smith and Mr. Richard Wager-Smith.

Miss Marie Dewar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dewar, is going to be one of the brides, for on October 3 she will be married to Mr. Harry Babbitt. Last Saturday afternoon Miss Dewar had some of her friends to tea—Miss Florence Young, Miss Ruth Beckman, Miss Ina Galbraith, Miss Helen Taylor, Miss Marguerite Irving, Miss Helen Sanders, Miss Ethel Hart, Miss Mabel Wallace, Miss Alma Wallace, Miss Ruth Wintlerick, Mrs. George P. Williams, Mr. Arthur Breerton and Mrs. Louis Garrigue. Miss Dewar was given a miscellaneous shower (which means everything from the daintiest of handkerchiefs to the latest in high-heeled shoes) and they are most essentially one day last week by Miss Elizabeth Happersett and Miss Cecil Ryan at Miss Happersett's home in West Philadelphia.

Mrs. Annie S. Lewis has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Salome Katherine Lewis, to Mr. Albert Petri Gross, of West Philadelphia.

Red Cross work is not the only patriotic service which the women of Lansdowne are now engaged in. No, indeed. All summer the Century Club people (and almost everybody in the town) has been busy with canning and preserving all sorts and varieties of fruits and vegetables. And they are still continuing the work, though when they began it in June they had no idea of working during September. But they have been so successful and there are still peaches, grapes and pickles "and then some" to be done. The women are as economical as possible, for they buy all their stuff at the wharf—and they have to get up pretty early in the morning to do that.

Mrs. Robert F. Irwin is doing the purchasing this week, and the work committee includes Mrs. Oscar B. Kimbrough, Mrs. Robert W. Glick, Mrs. William L. Austin, Mrs. James Temple Butler and Mrs. Harold Wilson.

With so much work for the war occupying the hearts and hands of almost every one, missionary society work is apt to be put in the dim background. However, there is a group of church people in Lansdowne who form a branch of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society and are much interested in the work of this organization. The executive committee met on Friday afternoon, September 14, at Mrs. Andrew S. M. Young's home. Mrs. William V. Willis is the president and the committee includes Mrs. Arthur Moorhead, Mrs. Robert L. McLean, Mrs. B. G. Galbraith, Mrs. D.
