Rete to Be Given at the Country Estate of Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer in October Assumes Great Proportions

TVE got some more tr tell you about a woman each of whom has severed the the navy fete which is to be given at the Van Rensselaer country home or Priday afternoon, October 5, from 2 o'clock mtil sunset, in aid of the men in the Calted States navy. It has been decided positively to hold the fete on the 5th clear. Should it rain the party will be just as wonderful and exciting on the 80 as soon, just as soon as you get over the excitement of the Sporting Carpreal on the Main Line this week, you'll have to rest up for the following week's nderful affair along the Reading. It will be the first time the beautiful estate of the Alexander Van Rensselaers will be thrown open to the public, and it's some estate, let me tell you. So historical, you know. There's the old broken down we there, where Lydia Darrah is said to have overheard the plans for the butele of Germantown. And now the place is to sid our country, or rather countrymen, once more, the fete is given for the maintenance of the several projects of welfare for the allors and marines of the navy.

OFFERS of assistance in the affair have been received from all sides, and it certainly looks as if it would be very big thing. The naval band from the Philadelphia Navy Yard will be in attendance, and there will be a number ef features, including a naval exhibit. untry store, rummage sale, flower usar, amusements of all sorts for children, moving pictures, bridge and dancing and also many attractive booths, at which articles of all descriptions will be sold. Trains for Camp Hill leave the Reading rerminal at 1:02, 2:02, 3:02, 4:04, 5:02 and $22 p. m. Returning trains are at 3:53, 458, 6:11 and 7:52 p. m.

Carroll S. Tyson, Jr., a well-known artist in this city, has designed one of the sters for the fete and another has been repared by J. E. Caldwell & Co. A comnittee of well-known women is distriboting the posters throughout the Germantown and Chestnut Hill, Old York road and Main Line sections.

Elaborate preparations have been made for all departments of the fete. A score et amusements will be provided for the midway. Owners of country estates will send the products of their gardens and of their kitchens. A company of marines and a company of satiors will be on hand for an exhibition drill, which will end in the picturesque ceremony of "retreat," with the lowering of the flag and the sunset gun. Both New York and biladelphia firms have promised gifts of beautiful articles, which are to be

There was a terrible 'faux pas' made lately by a poor young hostess, who, finding the chut had become rather strained, thought to lighten the atmosphere by telling a few funny stories with this disastrous result: "Oh, 1 must tell you a killing story. One of the boys in Jack's class was asked to tell all he knew about Patrick Henry, and what on earth do you think the youngster said? Even Jackie knew it was funny, because he said the teacher laughed very hard, though Jack himself did not get the

"The small boy stood up and said, 'Patrick Henry was a good little boy, with blue eyes and light hair, and when he grew up he got married and afterward he said, "Give me liberty or give me death."

It was pretty awful, but Philadelphians will have to remember that there are some to whom it is no longer safe to make jokes of this kind. Won't they?

WERE you awfully surprised to hear of Marion Horwitz's second matrimonial plunge? I was not so terribly because you see propinquity has a lot to do with things of this kind, and these two people had plantations that joined down there, and what more natural than to talk over their doings together and then get interested in each other as well as their fields of potatoes.

Marion was here as late as last Monday, you know, and said nothing of her plans, which must have been made then, for she met "Cap" in Tampa and married him before she returned to her home at Moore Haven.

Of course people's tongues are going to was, they always do, and every one does not know "Cap" as well as they do Marion, and because he has not moved in the "Assembly set," let us say, the snobs will be very busy condemning her; but then they have not met "Cap" yet. Perhaps when they do they will not be so quick to criticize. He's a pretty nice man-as men go, you know, 60h, Naney! Fie! Are you down on men, to say "ag men go"? Not by "no" means whatso? ever; but they are g queer lot. Now aren't they? They sure are'l

The only criticism that would seem justifiable is that it is so soon after her first husband's death; but then people do not feel the same way they used to about many things.

And then you see these are wartimes and romances which ordinarily take several years come to a head very quick when it's a question of a man going to war and the ever-present possibility of his not returning. Somehow he becomes doubly dear it seems. In my opinion they are both to be wished all good things. NANCY WYNNE.

not be had amid the whirl of suppers and dances. And so entertaining, if there is any this winter, will be most informal.

Captain Clarence A, Carr, P. S. N., and Mrs. Carr gave a most informal little dance on Weilnesday evening at their home in the Yard. Their nephew, Midshipman C. L. Richards, who spent a few days with them before his return to Annapolis, was the guest of honor, and there were about twenty guests. The Marine Band furnished the music, and while the affair was most informal, it was quite delightful, and the young people had a thoroughly good time.
