JACK KEOGH IS DRIVING LA SALLE FOOTBALL CANDIDATES HARD FOR FIRST GAME WITH MEDIA HIGH TEAM

North Broad Street Institution Opens Gridiron Season Friday—Dean Johnson Working Under Adverse Conditions at South Philly

COACH Jack Keogh, of La Salle College, has started to drive his men in preparation for their first football game with Media High school, scheduled for this Friday.

With these three to back, Keogh expects to build a winning team. Yesterday's workout was Coach Keogh's second practice with the La Salle eleven.

Even though veterans are scarce as a result of graduations and enlistments, the candidates for varsity positions showed surprising form.

During Wednesday's practice Murray, a promising young lineman, broke his shoulder in attempting to tackle a runner.

Under the most adverse conditions the South Philadelphia High school football team is slowly but surely rounding into form.

Despite the lack of a good field, locker room in which to change from their regular clothes into moccasins, and even without goal posts, the fellows are showing plenty of spirit and enter into the daily run-outs full of pep.

Coach Johnson will build the team around Captain Bunnin, who will call the signals, and Hamilton, a husky veteran.

When Mercersburg Academy lines up for the kick-off next Saturday afternoon in its game with the Carlisle Indian scrubs, only three Mercersburg veterans will be on the playing field.

Although the upstate prep school has only three regulars from last season, Fred Harlan, former All-American lineman and captain of the Princeton University eleven of 1916, who is coaching the team, expects to mold together another winning team this fall.

The first week of practice was devoted to a study of the rules of the game.

Since last Monday the candidates have been put through daily workouts, each succeeding day's work becoming more strenuous. The men are now in fine

Shore Pro Has Best Score for First Eighteen Holes Over Merion Course

HOFFNER LOW AMATEUR

HAVERFORD, Pa., Sept. 27. With the tees back as far as they could be placed, and with a stiff westerly wind blowing over the course, the scores in the first eighteen holes of the 72-hole round for the open golf championship of Philadelphia mounted rapidly this morning over the east course of the Merion Cricket Club.

Clarence W. Hackney, the Atlantic City professional, led the morning field, with a score of 77. He was the only player to break a forty on the outgoing round, and he was the only contestant to be under forty on both rounds.

George McElear of North Hempstead, second with a 78. Then came four others with 79 each, Jim Barnes, White Plains, the western open champion; Charles Hoffner, Philadelphia; Tom McNamara, New York; and James Gullane, Sunny Brook. Barnes made the sensational shot of the day. His second shot on the sixth landed at the base of a tree in a clump of small saplings. Tom McNamara gave him a club and told him to go to it. The saplings did not break, but the club did, and the ball went sailing toward the green. It was all over in an impossible shot.

Barnes found plenty of traps on the first nine holes, and with a bad start of 18 for the first three holes in the round, he played the next five holes in 18, or two under par. He rimmed the eighth hole for a four and just managed to get under it. Word went the round was going poorly, but the magnificent way in which he played these five holes, three in two and two in one under par, kept him in the running. McNamara also played some excellent golf. His game was consistently good throughout.

George W. Hoffner led the amateurs with a very fine card of eighty-one, but he was six holes played steadily throughout. Norman H. Maxwell, the youthful North and South champion, was second with an eighty-one. He had a poor first nine, but came in with an excellent thirty-eight.

The professionals all are agreed that Merion is a splendid test of championship golf, and the high totals show that low scoring over it is not one of the easiest things in the world to do. With a yardage of 6500 and a hard wind blowing, they agreed that the scoring for the new year holes will be much higher than originally predicted.

PLAYED WITH ALL-STARS Stuffy McInnis was at first base for the picked team against the Red Sox at Boston today in the memorial game for Tim Murnane.

20,000 See Boston Tackle All-Stars

Continued from Page One Was the baseball editor of the Boston Globe, president of the New England League and a member of the National Board of Arbitration, died suddenly last January, and the memorial game was arranged by his friends and admirers to establish a fund for the education of his younger children.

The committee in charge of the game sought the leading players of both the American and National Leagues. As Boston's clubs are in the East, most of the stars were drawn from the American League.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, was selected to manage the All-Stars, while Hugh Jennings and Nick Altrock were on the coaching line.

Prior to the ball game, the home and the visiting team players had a competition in distance throwing for accuracy, speed, getting down to first base, as well as around the circuit of the bases, and fungo hitting.

Several thousand dollars worth of tickets were sold in advance, and the game was the umpire.

Tommy Connolly and Nellie were the umpires. Summary of athletic program: Long-distance throwing—Won by Joe Jackson, Cleveland, 300 feet 8 inches; second, Duffy Boner, Red Sox, 284 feet 8 inches; third, Tim Lincecum, Boston, 270 feet 8 inches.

Funnel hitting—Won by Babe Ruth, Red Sox, 200 feet 8 inches; second, Carl Johnson, Red Sox, 180 feet 8 inches; third, Walter Johnson, Washington, 160 feet 8 inches.

Bunt and run to first—Won by McInnis, Red Sox, 300 feet 8 inches; second, Joe Judge, Boston, 280 feet 8 inches; third, Walter Johnson, Washington, 260 feet 8 inches.

Running the bases—Won by Chapman, Cleveland, 200 feet 8 inches; second, Red Sox, 180 feet 8 inches; third, McInnis, Red Sox, 160 feet 8 inches.

Barry made a nifty stop and tossed out Marvin Miller, Chapman singled to center. He stole second and took third when Ruth made a wild pop trying to catch him napping. A mighty roar went up when Ruth fanned. Cobb singled to Scott. No runs, one hit, one error.

Weaver made a great running catch of Hooper's fly. Barry fled to Speaker. Hobbittell, second baseman, tripled to right and scored. Demmitt to McInnis. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING Scott tossed out Jackson. McInnis sent Walker back for a long fly. Weaver also fled to Walker. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cobb walked. Demmitt tripled to right and Jackson to right field for the All-Stars. Walker doubled to the left-field bank. Gardner fanned. Maraville threw out Scott. Walker going to third. Agnew lifted to Cobb. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Suppose you look at the importance of buying a Hudson Super-Six now in this way: Its present price is based upon the material costs of last year. When supplies from which the present production is built are exhausted, then the price of the car must be advanced. By taking your Super-Six now you save an amount equal to whatever increase will later be made in the selling price.

You have no such opportunity with other wanted cars. Their prices have already been increased. More than fifty makers have advanced prices within the past two months. It has entirely rearranged automobile values.

Cars which have always sold in the $1,200 and $1,300 class are now listed to sell at about the present price of the Hudson Super-Six. Cars which sold at a trifle more than the Super-Six have been advanced so much that they are now in the $2,000 and $2,500 classes.

The situation of the Hudson is unique. Its value cannot be compared to any other car on the usual basis of price. The increases which have been made in the prices of other cars have been equal to reducing the price of the Hudson by $200 to $300.

Prompt action in buying now means a saving to all purchasers. Hundreds realizing that fact are buying now. Hudson sales, therefore, are now at their highest point. We have already exhausted our allotments of certain models. The factory has notified us that we are to receive only a definite number of cars at present prices. On the more important and staple models we are even given the final shipping dates of our last cars. Production on at least two models will be completed within two weeks. If you want to save, now is the time to act.

ROSETSKY REPORTS FOR PENN FRESH

All-Scholastic Fullback Materializes at Quaker Institution

FOUR NEW CANDIDATES

Harry Rosetsky, all-scholastic fullback from South Philadelphia High last fall, appeared on Franklin Field this afternoon in football togs as a candidate for the freshmen eleven. Rosetsky planned to attend Lafayette, but conditions there were not to his liking and he finally decided to return to Philly and be matriculated at the Red and Blue institution. He seated 175 and should stand an excellent chance of making the team. He will be in charge of Coach Lou Jourdan after tomorrow.

Howard Berry was not out today. He received a bad eye a few days ago and yesterday was badly bumped on the head. Lawson Robertson concluded it best to give the star a rest and have him in shape for the big games in preference to having him jolted in the practice.

Four new men were out for varsity posts today. D. N. Norris, a cross-country man, and these members of last year's scrub: Herbert Wharton, Davy Waxman and H. A. Hammel. Two other freshmen also made their initial appearance, H. C. Wood and Harold Shevitt.
