WHITE SOX WON FLAG, BUT FEW ARE AWARE OF PART "GOOFS" PLAYED IN PENNANT WINNING

ROWLAND IS BLAMED FOR WINNING PENNANT FOR THE WHITE SOX, BUT "GOOFS" INSIST ON TAKING HONOR

Loya and Victorious Order of Bull-Pen Artists Led oy Captain Jenkins Modestly Praise Themselves at $600 Celebrati in Feast

EVERY time a ball club wins the pennant and qualifies for a slice of the world's boutquet for the honor which has been thrust upon the city, etc. Usually the manager of the team unanimously is elected hero-in-chief and his name suggested as the next President of the United States and occasionally some star player is blaned for it all. But the cheer leaders never look behind the scenes In an effort to discover some unostentations gink who never gets in the limelight, but who played an important part in winning the championship. Occasionally this gink arises and proclaims his virtues to the dear old public and some times receives too credit due him. All of which is a prelude to the following har-

After the White Sox clinched the pennant in Bawston the players were so everjoyed and happy that they decided to give themselves a banquet and charge It to Charley Comiskey. The Old Roman felt so good that he readily consented to the plan and probably would have paid for seven or nine banquete had be been asked. However, one feast was enough and the players only ate $600 worth of food and other things at one sitting. During the course of the meal every one made a thrilling speech praising Rowland to the skies and proclaimed him the greatest manager the world has ever seen. It was a boosting and admiration society until Joe Jenkins, the third-string catcher, was called upon to upset some Joe modestly took all of the credit for the grand and glora us victory cause he was captuin of the bullpen and had absolute charge of ane Goods. "Don't forget that we Goods had an important part to play in the winning of the pennant," said Jenkins, "and don't forget that I am captain of the Goofs.

"We have a lot of respect for Rowland in the bullpen and I know all his signs. When I see him come out and slap his left arm like that idenkins gave his arm a slap). I know what that means. I want to tell you that Bowland knows his business. Ain't I captain of the bullnen and haven't I obeyed orders? Just look how many times Rowland has gone to the bullpen for help and I always came through for him. Rowland and I are some team.

"Goofs; stand up!" With that command the following players arose from their state: Fred Me-Mullin, Ted Jourdan, Eddie Murphy, Joe Benz, Bob Husbrook, Mct Wolfgang and Byrd Lynn, Jenkins announced that one Goof Dave Danforth was unable to be

"Now look at that gang?" continued Jenkins. "There's McMullin, for instance. When Weaver was injured we sent Mue in alldn't we? And he made good, didn't he? Look at what Danforth has done. Then look at that Goof, Murphy Say, I guess he didn't s'am that old pill in the pinches! There's more of u, who could show a lot, too, but we don't get the chance. You know what I mean

WE HAVE respect for Rowland in the bullpen. That man is a wonder for picking the right fellows from the pen. The fans may be yelling for some one else and the crowd may be against him, but when Rowland picks his man we know he's going to do something. I don't see how he does it. Of course, I run the bullpen. Rowland hasn't anything to do with that. You know what I mean."

Charles Comiskey Has Had Seven Pennant Winners

CHARLES A. COMISKEY, "The Noblest Roman of Them Alk," has been interested Cactively in seven pennant winners and two world's champions during his long career on the diamond and with the diamond artists. His career has been a long and successful one and when the White Sox nailed the pennant to the most a few days ago Comiskey doubtless was one of the happiest men in Chicago. His one ambition, ever since 1906, was to have another pennant winner and he has spent a fortune in ball players to realize this dream. His present collection of stars is one of the highest priced and most expensive in baseball. They did what he expected of them and now be is satisfied. Comiskey is just as popular in St. Louis as in Chicago and it is understood that hundreds of fans from the Mound City have made reservations for world series tickets at the South Side Park, that they might be present to root for this diamond celebrity and magnate.

While a member of the Browns Comiskey had the distinction of bringing five pennants and one world's championship to St. Louis. His feat of winning pennants for four successive seasons has not been duplicated in the big leagues. McGraw and Chance won pennants in the National League three years in succession and each failed dismally in his fourth attempt. Detroit was the only team in the American League to win three successive flags, but, unlike the Cubs and Giants, failed to win a world series. Comiskey won pennants for St. Louis in 1885-86-87-88 and heat the old Chicago team in 1886 for the world's title, taking four out of six. Captain Anson led the Cubs in the days when he and Comiskey were the great baseball

It was Ted Sullivan who discovered Comiskey in Dubuque. He took him to Milwaukee, where he played this first professional ball for $50 per month. In 1889 Comiskey went back to Pubuque and was there in 1881. In 1882 he joined the Browns as a center fielder. He asked to be shifted to first base, "Home Run" Oscar Walker was sent to center field. Comiskey remained with the Browns until 1898, when he became captain, manager and first baseman of the Chicago Brotherhood club. In 1891 he was back in St. Louis. In 1892-93-94 Comiskey was captain, manager and first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds. In 1895-96-97 he led the St. Paul club. In 1858-99 he was captain, manager and first baseman of the Chicago Western Association club. From 1900 until the present day he has been owner and president of the Chicago White Sox.

Has Hi Myers Displaced George Cutshaw?

Baseball managers who are up against it for a good initelier now and then may take a cue from Uncle Wilbert Robinson, of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Your Uncle Wilbert is a resourceful person, and that's one of the reasons why he's a big league manager. But even Robby's resourcefulness was taxed to the bimost a short time ago when he faced the problem of finding a man to fill George Cutshaw's shoes at second base, for when George sprang a flat tire and was forced to put his moniker on the hospital list there was no one around the Dodger camp who could be shoved into the breach.

But Robby found a way out. He wigwagged a few signs to Hi Myers, one of his five outfielders, and Hi came to the rescue by covering the keystone sack to a queen's taste. After a few games at second base HI got so handy at taking throws and cutting off base hits that Cutshaw wasn't missed, and it is probable that next season Myers will be the regular second baseman of the Dodgers, for Cutshaw apparently has seen his best days as an infielder and may sever his connections with the Dodgers at the close of the present season.

THE showing Jimmy Hickman has been making with the Dodgers since he returned to the line-up has convinced Robby that Dad Hickman's boy will fill the bill as a regular outfielder for 1918, so Myers's chances for grabbing the keystone bertli are all the better

Federal League Stars in World's Series

BY A remote kind of figuring it might be deduced that the forthcoming world's grapple between the White Sox and Glants will be something of a test between stars of the old Federal League and those of the American League. Four former members of the "outlaw" circuit will be in action against the White Sox, but not a Federal graces the roster the National Commission approved for the Sox. Fred Anderson, Benny K and Bill Rariden were three of the big guns in the old circuit. Jimmy Smith also did some ball playing when Jim Glimore was ha baseball, but didn't class with the trio. Since last spring this trio of ex-Federals has done as much as any other trio to boost the Glants into a pennant. Anderson's work has been relief kind, but mightly efficient. Rariden has held the brunt of the catching and Kauff's hitting almost kicked the Giants into a pennant without further help, for it has been his consistency and nerve that won crucial . . .

NOMPARISONS between Federal League players and those in the Na-Utional and American Leagues used to be common, but now that the ex-Federals have done noble duty in the National they're booked to show in American League competition.

Giant Fan Took a Chance and Cleaned Up $120,000

ABNOLI ROWHSTEIN, of New York, has ceased worrying about the high price of gasoline and the threatened boost in food prices. He should worry this winter, for he just has collected a flock of bets-morti" post-seasch-o . the Glants. to win the National League pennant. Last fall Rothstein had a hunch that New York would cop the flag. He wagered on his favorite e ab at odds of 10' to 1 to even money, but the bulk of it was placed at 6 to 5. Some time ago when the Clants were nine games in front, Arnold bet $15,000 against $600 with Robert Hil-Hard and later bet $10,000 to $100 that the Gotham club would win the pennant.

Incidentally, he lost one wager of $10,000 that the Yankers would beat the White Sox, and incidentally again, he said that he has made i is last big buseball het. He doesn't have to.

The professionals have felt this keenly. They are a nice lot of fellows, and it has been hard on them or different when you come to the putting, but it is a real test of golf and you won't find a better course have nearly or the country.

They are a nice lot of fellows, and it has been hard on them to feel that the men who run golf associations would not trust them to keep their ewn scores. But the day when the pros were treated as crimi-nals and potential cheaters seems to be

Howard Perrin, president of the United States Golf Association and vice president of the Golf Association of Philadelphia, is responsible for the new order of things. He told Robert W. Lesley, the president of the local association, that the eld system was wrong and that it was not fair to the professionals to have a jaller sent around with them to see that they committed no golf larceny. And the matter came up be-fore the executive committee and it by abolished the plan of having an EVEN MONEY ON SERIES amateur marker for every pair of pros.

And, needless to say, the scheme is work ing out very wel. There is no reason to believe that a professional or an amateur will cheat. There are two games in while the idea of cheating is abborrent. One of them is cards and the other golf. No golfer win values his self-respect will cheat at golf, and the fellow who will, will cheat just as much if he is watched as he will if just as much if he is watched as he will if he is not. And so we are coming around to a new order of things and placing the professional where he belongs and treating him like a man and not a criminal. like a man and not a criminal;

Jack McDermott Watches Play

Just four years ago Jack McDermott, then the open champion of this country, set a new record for the east course at Merion with a 73. He had just returned from Great Britain, where he had made an un-successful effort to win the open championship, and he had hardly got his land legs back when he entered the tournament. Yet he made his first round in 73, and here is his old card:

TARGET SHOOT TOMORROW

Fall Opener

IF THE WORLD SERIES DEPENDS ON PITCHERS, CONTEST IS LIKELY TO GO SEVEN GAMES BEFORE DECISION

Twirling on Neither Side Is Decisive Enough to Give Any Undue Advantage to Either White Sox or Giants

BY GRANTLAND RICE

These are the eight pitchers who are to employed, at one time or another, wher the G anix and White Sox are tossed in to-neither. Chicago's list, named in order of effectiveness and likelihood of choice, incindes two right handers, Clotte and Faber, and two left handers—Russell and Williams, New York's list, named in the same order, includes one right hander, Perritt, and three left handers, Schupp, Sallee and Benton.

Cicotte vs. Schupp

No one knows the pitching order in advance. But the two most effective workmen on the two clubs, the two most likely to meet, are Cleotte and Schupp.

Vicotte had the best year of his extended career, and the best season in his lengue. He won more games and was more gen erally effective than any other pitcher. Whicher it was through a "shine" ball or a fuzz ball, or merely through his fine pitching is a matter of many opinions. The facts in the case are that he was harder to hit than a periscope in a smashing see Cicotte is almost sure to hold the Giants well in hand. They are not very likely to hit him hard in any game.

In the same way, Schupp, with his fast curve and his effective delivery, will give the White Sox a full afternoon's meditation. Schupp is a hard man to hit. He is a cool, game youngster, with plenty of working material.

But, all in all, he isn't quite as certain a reposition as Cicotte is. The latter is just triffe surer to be at his best. On past erformance form a Cicotte-Schupp meeting hould be one of those 1-2 or 2-1 affairs. It the Glants will find Chotte a baffling proposition. The White Sox are not going to hit Schupp effectively. This meeting should bring on a close game, with the odds favoring Cleotte

Perritt vs. Russell

The advance choice for the second game ooks to be Poll Perritt vs. Tex Russell. Poll hails from Louisiana. Russell is Mississippi product. The Louisiana Lati from down among the bayous got a slow start, hit his stride late in June and ever since has been tearing the trail wide open. He has won about nine-tenths of his starts since June. With a fast, rib-ripping sweep, Perritt should be one of the most effective pitchers of the series. No lath is easy to nit at sixty feet. And Perritt makes a lath

Russell is back upon one of his best years. He has won about 80 per cent of his games and has been highly effective. In the last stages of the campaign he hasn't been quite as effective as Perritt, and if these two meet the Giant right-hander will have none the worse of the advance dope. Both men have been under fire long enough to hold their balance. The gap separating their effectiveness isn't very wide. Perritt is a bit more pointed toward a low-hit game.

The Third Game

Schupp and Perritt will work Saturday and Sunday for New York. Cleotte and Russell will work the first two games for Chicago. The third game, the New York opener, will not be played until Tuesday. This means that McGraw and Rowland, if they care to, can easily start Clootte and Schupp again with a three-day rest. They may adopt these tactics. But if

FOR Chicago Cicotte, Russell, Faber, they switch McGraw will very possibly send Silm Sallee against the Sox, while Rowland counters with Red Faber against the Glank Sallee is a veteran of extended standing wise, cool left-hander who has been pitching for more than twelve years. A clash between these two would be a A clash between these two would be lash of opposites, for Faber is a big, your right-hander, with fine speed, whereas sales relies very little on a fast ball, which is

American Leaguers believe that Faber will be effective against the Giants and a hard man for them to beat. He lan't as steady nor yet as experienced as Sallee, but a fast ball under control covers up a multi-tude of daficits.

In the way of a season's effectiveness, here two are closely upon a par,

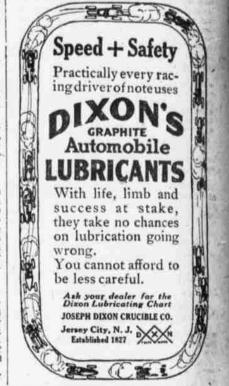

The Fourth Choice

The fourth choice in each camp probably will be Rube Benton for the Glants and Wallams for the Sox—both left-handers who have completed good years.

It is a matter of more than hazy doubt as to whether Benton or Williams will start a game where two or three pitchers can easily do the bulk of the work. Williams has won more games than Benton and has had a somewhat better season from the STRPE.

The Two Staffs Chicago looks to have a somewhat stronger staff, but the beilef in many quar-ters that New York's pitching contingent is weak and uncertain is out of line with the Schupp and Perritt will be hard to hit, and Schupp and Perritt can easily pitch four or five of the first six games.
