JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Takes in Sporting Carnival and Chats About Chestnut Hill Branch of National League for Woman's Service

certainly some carnival. Why, I haven't seen so many people one knows all together in one spot since one of the huge balls last winter, "befo' de wah." And the booths and the shows were all they tors. threatened to be when we heard of them. Simply great!

One of the best ideas is gotten up and copyrighted by Mrs. Edwin Eldon Graham, wife of Doctor Graham, o. Devon and 1713 Spruce street. Mrs. Graham donated several hundred of these ideas in practical form to the Red Cross and her daughter Gertrude, dressed as a Red Cross nurse, sold them for the Red Cross with red cardboard covers and of the fete. white leaves and the wee booklet's title is "Quick Cures for Common Ailments."

The cures are printed alphabetically and are remedies for bruises, burns, sprains, cuts and other accidents.

I think it was a dandy idea and should think nearly every one would want one to hang by the family medicine chest, Gertrude looked perfectly bewitching with her wicker tray held over her shoulders. tied on with red ribbons, and the booklets sold like hot cakes.

DID you see the hayseed gentleman with the megaphone? He was quite marvelous with his many announcements, "Don't forget to see the German War Relics, just beyond the Rubbish Sale," and other like remarks. I must confess I spent most of the time in the vaudeville tent, for Ruth Draper recited four times and if she is anywhere near, I never want to miss hearing her.

Her impersonation of a debutante talking to a man in the conservatory between dances was quite the best of its kind I have ever heard. The "Whistling Cop" opened the afternoon's performance by whistling the "Star Spangled Banner," for which every one uncrossed his legs and arose. Why Nancy, what on earth do you mean? Oh! I did not tell you at first, did I, that the chairs for the vaudeville did not arrive till quite some time after the performance started, so every one was sitting Turk fashion.

There was a Frenchman who imitated canaries, nightingales, robins and every kind of bird; he was simply marvelous. John Braun sang and Jane McLoughlin did too, and Frances Lodge and Mr. Toland. Then there was a lovely little trained dog and a violinist and the eurhythmic dancing of the four small pupils of Monsieur and Madame de Montollu was lovely.

The exhibition of produce was exceptionally fine. Mrs. Billy Clothier was greatly interested in this and was much excited to find that her potatoes had been given a first prize. She looked perfectly bewitching in the Red Cross costume; so did Peggy Thayer and Lois Cassatt.

Mrs. Barklie was a wonder here, there and everywhere. She certainly deserves all the praise possible for having made the first day of the carnival a huge success, and with today's clear weather a large amount must surely be guaranteed the Red Cross.

When I left about 7 o'clock crowds were going up to the grounds to witness hich was a wonder.

N ADDED attraction at the bazaar to A be given at Camp Hill Hall on October 5 will be the Dog Show, which will take place at 2:30 o'clock under the direction of Mariana Gowen.

All breeds of doggies, from the highest and most fashionable, to the lowest and least popular, will be entered. Doggies with long, sleek hair and quivering noses; doggies with turned-up noses, as well; pups with bushy tails and bow-wows with pups with bushy tails and bow-wows with almost no tails at all will be there, and little fluffy Pomeranians and long-bodieu will leave on an extended trip and upon their return will be at home at 2824 North Dachels, and great greyhounds, and teeny little Pekinese. Yes, they'll all be there and on their very best behavior, too. They'll not speak out of turn. Oh, no, but their little hearts will beat with pride in their long pedigrees, and if one should have a "skeleton in his closet" he'll not wink an eye, but hold his breath when the medals and ribbons go the rounds, hoping that the key to the closet has been irrevocably lost. Commander Payne, of the Navy Yard, will send a Great Dane and four puppies. Then Mrs. Francis Gowen, Mariana's mother, will be in charge of the bridge whist tables, and certainly a number of prominent women have reserved tables for this feature. Among them are Mrs. Alexander Brinton Coxe, Mrs. C. Randolph Snowden, Mrs. Frank Samuel, Mrs. Beverly Robinson Potter. Mrs. A. J. Drexel Paul, Mrs. Stacy B. Lloyd, Mrs. Richard J. Mattison, Jr., Miss Harriet Drayton, Mrs. John Latham, Mrs. Effingham B. Morris and Mrs. J. Walter Steel. The committee assisting Mrs. Gowen includes Mrs. John White Geary. Mrs. William C. Bullitt, Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell, 3d, Mrs. Harry Waln Harrison, Mrs. Joseph B. Hutchinson, Mrs. Richard Cadwalader and Mrs. W. Frazier Harrison. Several beautiful prizes have been

THE flower, vegetable and garden tool department will be one of the attractive features of the fete. Many well-known florists will send contributions and the gardeners from the big estates in the Gwynedd Valley section are also at work preparing exhibits and bouquets for sale. Mrs. R. H. Bayard Bowie is chairman of that section of the affair, and will be as elsted, among others, by Mrs. Benson. Mrs. George Willing, Jr., and M.z. de Saint Shalle donated for the occasion.

"My Lady's Boudoir" and fancy articles will be directed by Mrs. Robert Kelso Cassatt. Many of the Chestnut and Walaut street shops are contributing articles and New York stores have also added to the collection of attractive things which will be sold under the direction of Mrs. Careatt and her committee, which in cludes Mrs. B. > A doll house and doll show will be among the attractions for children. Commander Payne will provide a very unusual donkey for the children to ride. The animal is particularly docile and will carry three children at once. The donkey with a full cargo will be one of the charming pictures to be presented at the fete.

A group of girls will act as aides at the refreshment tables. They will be at-Wayne Branch. Perhaps you might like tired in the navy colors and will dispose to know what the ideas were: They are of all sorts of good things. Mrs. William small booklets made in the shape of a A. > THE Chestnut Hill Branch of the Na-I tional League for Woman's Service is an active and ever-growing organization. The Red Cross, under Mrs. Frederick A. Packard, meets twice a week to make surgical dressings and other hospital supplies. A great many women are working and a great many more will be needed. for there is a growing demand for this end of the service. And breathes there a woman who doesn't knit? Certainly not in the Chestnut Hill Branch of the Navy League, of which Mrs. E. N. Benson, Jr., is chairman. Winter is coming by leaps and bounds, and Jack Frost must be cheated out of his annual nipping of noses and toes. And there is only one way to do this-knit.

If you were over in France, and very lonely, wouldn't you like the consolation of some really delicious jelly or jam? I think when you had finished home would not seem quite so far away. And Mrs. George Woodward seems to understand this, for she is chairman of the Canning Center, where women meet to conserve fruits and vegetables, not only to be used in their homes, but also to be sent in large quantities to homerick boys in France.

We all know that the motor messenger uniform is most becoming, but there are a great many people who are making themselves generally useful without the aid of this picturesque addition. Lectures are being given and new classes being formed all the time to enable the women of Chestnut Hill to have a share in the national responsibility.

SMOKES FOR SAMMEES TO "GO OVER THE TOP"

Emergency Aid Fund Increases, but the Demand Still Far Exceeds the Supply

Smokes for the Sammees abroad promise o go over in large numbers. Response to novements for this purpose has been ex-eedingly generous. But it must be re-nembered that the number of our fighters membered that the number of our ignors in France will be constantly increasing and that they will need many thousands of cigarettes and packages of tobacco.

About $10,000 has been subscribed to the fund up to the present time, with promises of more. It would be well to bear in mind, however, that $25,000 would be none mind, however, that $25,000 would be none too much for this purpose, so all are urged to join the army of contributors and send "their bit" for smoke joy for the man who is fighting your battle as well as his own.

An increase in the price of tobacco is a further argument to do the level best. There is no place for idle change when it might buy a pound of tobacco for a fighting Sammee. Send the money to the tobac tee of the Emergency Aid, 1428 Walnut street, and do not hesitate.

yesterday in the Federal Court by United States District Attorney Kane.

In a letter to Colonel Sweeney, Connors alleges that L. A. Bloom, of 715 North Fifth street, has been charging women as high as $50 for his services. Last night Connors declared that Bloom recently held up an exemption claim which a man had filled out until his wife borrowed $2 to make up $10, the fee demanded.

Bloom said last night there was no truth in Connors's charges, and added that he did not charge more than an ordinary fee for assisting men in making out and attesting exemption claims.

in his letter to Colonel Sweeney. Con-nors said the practises of such lawyers were "getting us a bad name," and "people think we are acting with the men taking the fees." Connors also accused a man-named Firestone, of Fifth street and Fair-

Sweeney follows:

Bloom took $10 from one poor woman for taking her affidavit, $50 from another and two at $4.50. Firestone charged $10 for one affidavit. And to add insult to injury, I am sending you a letter Bloom wrote to this board.

This letter bears the name of L. A. Bloom, 715 Race street, Philadelphia. The communication is signed, "L. A. Bloom, per R." The letter concludes:

How are you getting on in getting evidence against me and exposing me?

The letter referred to the case of Steve Katzul, who, because he was in fail, the letter states, was unable to appear when called for examination. He is out and ready to appear before the board, the letter says.
