SHORE FALL SEASON

Autumn Joys of City and Environs Being More and More Appreciated

BIG HOTELS REMAIN OPEN

Strolls, Sun Baths on Pier, Music and Golf Prominent Among Fall Delights

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 1.
It has been said by a Philadelphian those name is known to hundreds of thou-It has been said by a Philadelphian, whose name is known to hundreds of thousands of Philadelphians, that he or she who has not visited the shore in the autumn does not know Atlantic City at its best.

Those who know Atlantic City at Eastertide or the Atlantic City of midsummer, with multitudes wildly scrambling for all the joys that can be crammed into the all-too-fleeting hours at their disposal, may question that assertion.

too-fleeting hours at their disposal, may question that assertion.

However that may be, Philadelphians who never have experienced late fall cettaging or the pleasures of a hotel sojourn in October have a delightful experience awaiting them. Atlantic City's fall season has become an institution almost as important as its spring patronage era.

It is a totally different resort that one finds after the summer rush is past. Analytically speaking, it is, of course, the same place in a new setting, a different environment. A Philadelphian who paid his first fall visit here last year said he saw the Boardwalk almost for the first time. When he was here before his whole attention was occupied by the crowds on the Boardwalk. ccupied by the crowds on the Boardwalk

THE NATION'S PLATGROUND All of the big Boardwalk hotels, which here than any other one thing except the ea, perhaps, have made Atlantic City what is today—the nation's playground—are their best certainly in the fail. There none of the crush of August or of the Lenten season. One may drop in at almost any time except when big conventions are holding forth and be certain of a room and a bath and a maximum of attention

The men who made the great caravan-aries of the Boardwalk made the Easter season, and they now are engaged also in making" the fall season. In this big undertaking they are going to be ably assisted by no end of Philadelphians who have contracted the fall-sojourning habit and the weather. There is no time in the year when the temperature is more equable, more inspiring for long, silent tramps up to the Inlet or away down into Chelsea or Ventnor. It is a delight for many simply sit in the sunshine on a pier deck, scanning the sea and lazily listening to the seductive airs of a band or orchestra. So far as that goes, Atlantic City is delightful aiso in November and December, for it is a much-vaunted fact that followers of the ancient game play the rounds of the well-kert rolf courses at Northfeld and of well-kept golf courses at Northfield and at Sea View when every other course within 150 miles of New York is coated with snow.

And tens of thousands can testify to the in-spiring spectacle which the Boardwalk affords in the early part of the Lenten seaon, when society foregathers ostensibly o repent in sackcloth and ashes. But we were talking about Atintic City's fall season. It is an established fact, an institution. Hundreds of Philadelphians who formerly hastened homeward immediately after the summer exodus following Labor Day are remaining indefinitely. Shore landlords are glad to extend leases because they are looking forward to the day, not far distant, many believe, when cottages will be rented by the year. Convention delegates have filled the big houses this week, and there will be a continuous sequence of conventions during the remain-der of October, so that those who contem-plate coming to the shore for a fall visit would do well to reserve their quarters in advance. RECORD-BREAKING SEASON

This fall bids fair to be a record-breaker because thousands of middle western persons of wealth are here, together with a great many southerners and no end of Canadians. The encouraging prospect has caused the management of the Ostend in Chelsea, a summer hostelry heretofore, to lecide to keep open throughout the fall and Judge Gordon—Q. What is your the winter also. Other bonifaces are going to do likewise, materially re-enforcing the name? A. William Donnelly.

Q. Where are you employed? A. In the total of accommodations afforded by the Traymore, the Mariborough-Blenheim, the Dennis, the Breakers, the St. Charles, the Royal Palace, the Shelburne, the Strand, eal Estate Trust Building, Philadelphia? Haddon Hall, the Chalfonte, Seaside Jouse, Yes, sir.
Q. I show you this paper and ask you if first-class hostelries which have catered to all-the-year shore visitors for years. A campaign set in motion by the shore Chamber of Commerce to "add September to the season" has much to do with the exceptional fall conditions now prevailing. Owners were encouraged to offer liberal terms for lease extensions, the railroads were prevailed upon to keep their summer schedules in effect for four weeks longer than usual and the city authorities were induced to maintain the beach-guard protection for bathers throughout the ninth month. Meanwhile hotel owners who are firm believers in the efficacy of advertising, because publicity has been one of the salient causes of Atlantic City's wonderful growth, have emphasized golf, motoring and bathing as

COUNTRY CLUB BIG FACTOR The Seaview Country Club, created by Clarence M. Geist, a Philadelphian, at a cost of $450,000, out of his own pocket, has been a big factor in the making of Atlantic City into an all-the-year resort. Seaview in the pines, above Absecon, with its magnificent clubhouse—a palatial hotel, in fact—exactly suits work-weary millionaires who yearn for seclusion. It costs $1000 to be a member of Seaview, but with so many captains of capital to draw upon, Seaview has become a self-supporting institution. Charles M. Schwab Eugene Grace, James A. Farrell, of United States Steel, and a host of others whose names are familiar, are members. Nobody knows, cutside of those at the big club in the pines, when those at the big club in the pines, when they come and go. Nobody is admitted to the golf course except when introduced by a member. A splendid bathing pool, a spacious dining room, a large ballroom for frequent dinner-dances, are some of the
