

GOOD OLD BROADWAY CLUB DIES IN ALL ITS GLORY, BUT ITS NAME WILL LIVE ON AS EVER

BROADWAY A. C. IS TO LIVE ON, DESPITE PASSING OF OLD ARENA AT FIFTEENTH AND WASHINGTON

Muggs Taylor Says He Will Attach Name of the Ancient Club to Another, on Bigger Scale, Near Center of the City

By LOUIS H. JAFFE
MUGGS TAYLOR is to keep the Broadway Athletic Club alive, if only in name. The good old fight club at Fifteenth street and Washington avenue was placed under the sod last night, when six hours were put on before a crowd, the largest that ever jammed the twenty-one-year-old arena.

Club Is Packed
Approximately 2,000 frenzied fans, loyal to the ancient "blood pit," pushed, elbowed and shouldered their way into the club, and by 8:30 the police threatened to stop the show if any more people were permitted into the club.

Muggs Taylor Says He Will Attach Name of the Ancient Club to Another, on Bigger Scale, Near Center of the City
Muggs Taylor, promoter of the club, said he would promote matches for a club to be known as the Broadway Athletic Club. Somebody "bumped" that Muggs was to sign a lease of a local theater near the center of the city this afternoon, and that he would put on bouts that would rival those of the Olympia and National Clubs.

STARRY BANNER TRAILS PAGANINI IN SPRINT

Warrington Has Mount on Winning Two-Year-Old at Laurel Track

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 5.—Starry Banner carried only 106 pounds over the five-and-one-half-furlong course for two-year-olds here this afternoon, but Paganini, with a poundage of 116, corably handled by Warrington, brought down first money in the opening race. Golden Gold, also carrying 116 pounds, was second.

ROUSH AND COBB FINISH UP SEASON AS KINGS OF SWAT

EDDIE ROUSH, of the Cincinnati Reds, won the batting honors of the National League this year, while Ty Cobb regained his crown in the American League. Roush completed the season with an average of .342, a gain of seventy-five points over his last year.

Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Cardinals, finished second with .319, and Benny Kauff, of the Giants, was third with an average of .307. Zach Wheat, of the Dodgers outfield, by making three hits in seven times at bat in the double-header against the Braves yesterday, moved into fourth place.

This is the tenth time Cobb has led the American League batters. His string was broken last year by Tris Speaker, of the Cleveland Indians. Cobb's final average this year was .380 and Speaker's .363. George Sisler, the versatile member of the Browns, came in third.

Following are the five leading batters of the two major leagues for the season of 1917 and their final averages of 1916:

FORDHAM ELEVEN LEADS U. S. AMBULANCE CORPS

New Yorkers Tally Touchdowns in First and Second Periods. Score, 13-0

Fordham eleven led the U. S. Ambulance Corps in the first and second periods of the game today. The score was 13-0.

In the first period, Fordham, aided by a fumble and a forward pass, carried the ball close to the Ambulance goal line and in one plunge Fordham carried it over for the first touchdown. Demosny failed at goal.

Fordham tallied its second touchdown in the second period. Fordham was penalized three times, but fumbles by the Ambulance boys more than offset the penalties.

Fordham carried the ball down to the one-yard line, where the soldier lads held for three downs, but on the fourth play, Frisch kicked an end for a six-point. Brennan kicked the goal.

Rain Hits Chicago; Fair Tomorrow

For more than a week, and is on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"It's nearing the finish," he said, as he wearily dropped into a chair. "I am glad it is being with, but for the sake of my family, the help at the ball park and myself. A few more days and there would be one less spectator at the games and that would be myself. I have been through some tough battles, but none like this. I may have some friends left. I doubt it."

Ticket speculators are taking orders for choice seats and doing a thriving business. Tickets which cost $4.50 are bringing from $20 to $30, and box seats for the series, whose face value is $15, can be purchased for $20 up. This has irritated the bleacher crowd, which virtually supports the park, and it is said that petitions are being circulated asking these patrons to boycott the ball game.

But Comiskey is not to blame. He has done his best and the speculators did not receive any favors. They purchased their tickets from the original purchasers, paying a price high enough to satisfy them. It is probable that a first-class mob scene will be staged at Comiskey Park tomorrow, if the game is played.

Sox the One Best Bet
When the great national subject is discussed today the White Sox are touted as the one best bet in the series. Chicagoans are betting on the club and the chances are that Rowland's men will be heavy favorites for the opening battle.

Yesterday the Giants played an exhibition game with the Cubs and lost by a big score. Regardless of the fact that the regulars refused to extend themselves and only took a brief workout, the game this morning came out with the Cubs leading.

"How do they expect to beat the Sox?" This might mean overconfidence, and if such is the case, it presages some rough sledding for the Sox.

The Philadelphia scribes arrived here this morning in their special car over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The rain drops were patterning merrily on the roof of the station, and an icy wind came from the lake.

The Philadelphia scribes were prepared, however, as each carried a couple of overcoats and some had fur caps. Had snow-shoes been strapped to their backs, it would have looked like a picnic party in Alaska.

On the train were Jimmy Isaminger, George Young, Bill Wheat, Jimmy Gante, Neagle Rawlins, Emory Titman, John McLaughlin, Bobby Gunniss, Larry Covington, Bill Brady, Frank Macchia and Johnny Evers.

How Evers Sizes It Up
Johnny thought out the baseball dope while the welders of U. S. interviewed Mr. Hoyle. After the game broke up he was able to divulge his views.

"If the Giants score one run in the first inning of the first game there will be no stopping them. They will knock the tar out of any pitcher, no matter how good he is and if they ever get started, I wouldn't be surprised to see them take four games straight. On the other hand, if they are shut out the first game they are likely to imagine they are in a batting slump and drop the series like the Athletics did when they played the Braves in 1914."

"Giants are resting today, because there is nothing else to do. The players are as laconic as a flock of clams and refuse to talk about anything." Only person who would open up was Herbie Zimmerman, with whom we collided in the hotel this morning.

"Terrible day," we remarked. "Yeah," was the enlightening reply. "Home a cigarette."

"How are the boys feeling?" was the question. "Are they confident of winning the series?"

"Yeah, gimme a minute; terrible day, ain't it?" and Herbie departed to be interviewed by another world series laborer.

STETSON TO PLAY STARS OF MACK IN FINAL GAME

The Stetson team will wind up a successful season tomorrow when it tackles Comie Mack's Stars at Shibe Park in the annual benefit game. The Stetson company will parade in a body to the ground and several bands will enliven the occasion.

The officers of the Stetson Company will occupy boxes, and will be prominently prominent in the social life of the city.

The battery for the Stars will be Keeffe and Meyer.

Eddie Gerner, formerly an employee of the Stetson Company, but now the property of the Cincinnati Reds, will twirl for the Hatmakers, with Ed Carris behind the bat in place of Harry Stevenson, drafted.

The proceeds will be divided equally between the Stetson Hospital and the Y. M. C. A. war work fund.
