

...think at 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening...

Q. Of course, did you go into the Fifth ward on election day? A. I did not.

Q. At whose request did you do that? A. Mr. Connor—Wait a minute, I object to that.

Q. Upon whose request? A. Director Wilson's, Director of Public Safety.

Q. Tell me what he said to you. A. After I had made several reports to him on Monday, October 1, he reported to me that he had a letter containing some money, a large note, and I reported to him that Sullivan had been connected with the matter.

Q. Of last week? A. When I swore the warrant out, October 1, I had heard testimony in this court, had it before Maloney testified.

Q. But it was before Maloney testified on Tuesday in this court that Maloney said he received a letter with a thousand-dollar bill in it. Had he not testified to that? A. Well, I am not sure, whether he had been testified or not, but, however, I reported.

Q. Now, Captain, don't you know that Maloney testified on Monday respecting that letter and the thousand-dollar bill? A. No, he testified on Tuesday.

Q. On Tuesday? A. It was on Monday I swore out the warrant.

Q. Monday? A. Yes.

Q. Very well, what did Director of Public Safety say to you? A. Well, only from the warrant for Samuel G. Maloney.

Q. And you swore it out? A. I did.

Q. Who drafted the affidavit? A. I don't know, sir.

Q. Did you read it? A. I did, sir.

Q. To whom did you deliver it for service? A. I read the affidavit in the presence of Magistrate Watson, and I turned the affidavit back to him after signing it, and he drew up the warrant.

Q. To whom did you deliver the warrant for service? A. I turned the warrant over to a man I kept the warrant in my possession, and I assembled ten men and I took them to and I apprehended Samuel G. Maloney.

Q. Did you report that to the Director of Public Safety? A. Why, in my presence Mr. Moran called the director up, and I later reported it to the director, and the director told me to serve my warrant.

Q. Then, you assembled ten men in your office? A. Yes, sir. That is not all assembled. I called for two at a time. I sent two out to West Philadelphia, two to North Philadelphia, two to Broad street station, and two to cover a hotel in West Philadelphia, and two to cover his office in the Real Estate Trust Building. I held the warrant.

Q. All right, at that time you knew from the District Attorney himself that the District Attorney was in communication with Maloney, and that Maloney was a witness for the Commonwealth? A. He was, yes.

reports of the day's work? A. Yes, sir. They do each and every day.

Q. Did they make any reports of any arrests? A. No; they did not.

MULHALL CONTRADICTS SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY OF CAPTAIN JAMES TATE

JOSEPH MULHALL, a prisoner at Moyamensing, handcuffed to a keeper, was the next witness.

Q. State your conversation with Mulhall in the County Prison. A. I saw Joseph Mulhall and I informed him that I had learned that he had some information he wanted to divulge pertaining to the Fifth Ward case, and he said that he had, I said, "Well, whatever you have to tell, tell me in the presence of the superintendent of the prison."

Q. In the latter part of June or the early part of July, he said that Clark came in there, and while he was there with two other men, Clark approached them and suggested to them that they could get a little money, easy money, in the Fifth Ward ransacking.

Q. Did you interrogate him? A. No, I let him go on and tell his story.

Q. Did you ask him whether it was a man named Maloney that had seen him or was spoken of in the case? A. He had mentioned that name.

Q. When he mentioned the thousand dollars, did you ask him anything further about that? A. I did not.

Q. Charged with assault and battery, assault and battery with intent to kill, and robbery. He is wanted in Philadelphia on those three indictments, and he is also wanted for holding and sticking up a gambling house.

Q. Did you tell Director of Public Safety that you were going down to see him? A. I didn't say that I was going down to see him.

Q. What did Wilson say? A. He said not to stop at anything, not to spare any expense, and to probe this case to the bitter end and to apprehend every one who was connected with the case.

Q. Did you tell Wilson anything? A. He said not to stop at anything, not to spare any expense, and to probe this case to the bitter end and to apprehend every one who was connected with the case.

Q. Now let me pause a moment. You knew he was under indictment? A. I did.

Q. Nevertheless you went down there one night and talked to that untried man in the manner you have stated; that is so? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell his counsel? A. I did not.

Q. And you brought him up the next day to your office, this untried man? A. I did.

Q. Tell me what occurred in your office. A. I brought him up to the office about 8 or 8:15. In the early part of the evening I sent for Mr. Craig, the man whom he had mentioned that was the owner and proprietor of the saloon where this conversation took place, and I brought Mr. Craig to the office.

Q. Then you let Mr. Craig go? A. I did.

Q. Then did you resume your conversation with Mulhall? A. I did not.

Judge Gordon becomes as to certain witnesses, Maloney and this gentleman, but others' rights are frittered to the winds.

Mr. Gordon. This is the only indicted man on the stand.

Mr. Connor. There sit back there four or six indicted men, and their rights have been absolutely ignored in this Court, as far as I can see.

Mr. Connor again questioned Judge Gordon's objections to questions which he made on the stand.

JOHN EPPLEY, of 5116 Merion avenue, brother of George Eppley, the murdered policeman, was the next witness.

Q. In the neighborhood of Sixth and De Lancy street, on the afternoon of the late of the autopsy at the Pennsylvania Hospital?

Q. Will you go on and tell us just where you were standing and what you saw? A. I was sitting outside of the cigar store at 221 South Sixth street.

Q. Did you see any man in a suit who said he was Jim Clark? A. He didn't have his eye-glasses on, and I couldn't get a good look at him.

Q. Go on. A. He stopped at 217 South Sixth street on a pavement.

Q. Where were the men standing? A. The men were coming toward me from Pine street, I don't know whether they came out from De Lancy or Pine, but they were on Sixth street when I saw them.

Q. Where did those fellows come from? A. I couldn't exactly say whether they came from De Lancy street or Pine, but when I turned my head they were on Sixth street after Jim Clark had mentioned to the right they weren't sure, and one of them turned around and he looked at Jim Clark again.

Q. Will you go on and tell us just where you were standing and what you saw? A. I was sitting outside of the cigar store at 221 South Sixth street.

Q. Did you see any man in a suit who said he was Jim Clark? A. He didn't have his his hand back to get the fellows together, and they all rushed up to Jim Carey and the other gentlemen.

What have YOU done to stop him?

Shall we crush the Hun on the battle-fields of Europe or grapple with his fiendish soldiery here among our homes? Remember the War Lord's boast: "Paris, then London, then America!" Picture the German torch given to our dwellings, the German firing squad tramping our city streets, the screams of our children, the unspeakable fate of our wives and sisters!

France and England have fought a gallant fight, but they tell us frankly that only America's full strength can save the day. Our sons—God bless them!—are now preparing for the final test of skill and courage; but bravery alone will not win!

The First Liberty Loan will raise and train an army; that is all! Every dollar of it will be spent before we are really in the fight. And unless our response to the Second Loan is of matchless generosity, the world will view the terrible spectacle of a million and more gallant boys starving, freezing, fighting with bare hands, supported by empty cannon, dying like rats beneath the German hail—all because we, their friends and fathers, would not lend our money to our Government!
