Sunnyside Day Nursery to Hold Halloween Entertainment at Merion Cricket Club—Nancy Wynne Makes Many Comments

WELL, the Sunnyside Day Nursery is at it again; that is, the committee of managers has decided to get up an entertainment at the Merion Cricket Club on the afternoon and evening of October 21 for the nursery's benefit.

experience. It should and will make better men of us all; unless there is something so very bad, down deep, the roots would never come up.

PAGEANT GIVEN AT WYNNEWOOD

Philadelphia Orchestra Furnished Music for Charming Allegory by Wellesley Club

Music by the Philadelphia Orchestra, directed by Mr. Knorich, of Boston; dancing by more than 100 high school and college girls, costumes that are a riot of brilliant color against a background of great natural beauty—this an imposing array of factors for the success of a pageant? Such are the elements which make up the wonderful open-air fête which the Wellesley Club, of Philadelphia, is staging today on the tractous grounds of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Ashton at Wynnewood, who have so generously thrown open their country estate, Red Leaf, for this occasion.

In these days, when all sorts of women are "doing their bit," you may be sure that the college girls are not going to lag behind. And in this case they are doing something which is entirely unique, and are contributing not only the funds of the Red Cross and Emergency Aid, but to the pleasure of the general public as well.

Wellesley's beautiful campus has been the scene of many open-air performances, but none has surpassed the Tree Day pageant of 1916. It is, in fact, the story of Wellesley's life and development as a college. The allegory is very finely conceived.

Next strength, in hunter's green, with bow and arrow, and Play in Pierre costume, dance down from the hill to personify the athletic and social life of the college. Now Wisdom invokes the different branches of study, personified by groups of dancers in symbolic costume.

There will be some special feature at the opening of the ball, as in the last five or six years, and many prominent members of "Sassettey" will take part therein.

WHEN I was talking about the Junior League girls two days ago I never dreamed they would be up and doing in active work as soon as they intend to be. So it is, however, for lo and behold they held a meeting on Tuesday in their pretty room at the College Club and decided to hold a huge rummage sale, to start November 27 and last through five days until December 1.

It is interesting to me and probably to you to know that among those who attended the meeting and were assigned to different departments for the sale were Mrs. Joe Thayer, who will have charge of the men's clothing department, assisted by Jean Thompson, Dorothy Newbold, Mrs. Rowland Evans and Mrs. Feno Hoffman.

It seems as though the wanderlust still has the people in its grasp, although the summer is past, vacation time is still here. Time was that on September 1 seaside and country hotels closed the shutters, barred the doors and said good-bye until next season, but now hotels put on a gala air, for the weather is still delightful and guests are still arriving.

VACATION TIME STILL LINGERS

West Philadelphians Take Advantage of Mild Weather to Visit Seashore

West Philadelphians take advantage of the mild weather to visit seashore. It seems as though the wanderlust still has the people in its grasp, although the summer is past, vacation time is still here. Time was that on September 1 seaside and country hotels closed the shutters, barred the doors and said good-bye until next season, but now hotels put on a gala air, for the weather is still delightful and guests are still arriving.

AS I entered the subway car recently a young man in the new winter army uniform arose and, offering me a seat, called me by my name. I was terrifically puzzled, for I knew I ought to know him, and fumbled along in my conversation with him, careful not to make any glaring "faux pas" to show him that I had not recognized him.

It was the young man who had often been sent to do PLUMBING jobs at the house. Still, I never would have known him. From the man in old, soiled clothes, who stooped slightly under the weight of a heavy kit of tools and bent over his work, there was a great distance to this tall, square-shouldered man standing so erect and looking so fine and strong.

I greatly enjoyed my talk with him, which, incidentally, ended by his saying: "Whether you ever see real service or not, I for one am glad to have had this

AUTUMN AT WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS

Philadelphians Enjoying Golf, Swimming, Hunting and Riding That West Virginia Offers

Philadelphians at White Sulphur Springs are enjoying to the fullest extent the wonderful weather and the sport activities that are characteristic of that part of West Virginia in the autumn months.

The hunting season, which is now open, is luring many lovers of the open to White Sulphur, and now besides the bags of soft-clothes and tennis rackets there are hunting equipments, including many of the men who are here for a week's respite from business.

There must be social diversion of some kind, no matter how strenuous these war-torn times become. So, at least, the naval set has decreed. "All work and no play" makes the proverbial dull boy, and besides, one cannot go on knitting forever.

Social Activities

Miss Dorothy Marot entertained at a luncheon-shower at the Bellevue-Stratford on Thursday in honor of her sister, Miss Florence Pitt Marot, whose marriage to Mr. Thomas Armstrong Williamson took place yesterday at 6 o'clock at Pamperdown, Germantown.

Miss Jeannetta Angel, of Brooklyn, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rosenthal, of South Philadelphia. Miss Angel's engagement to Mr. Morris Rosenthal, of 1702 Walnut street, was recently announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradford Ramsey, Jr., of 223 South Forty-second street, entertained a party of twenty young persons at a theatre party on Wednesday evening, followed by a supper. The affair was given in honor of their daughter, Miss Phyllis M. Ramsey, whose engagement to Mr. B. Griffith Jones, 24, was recently announced.

Miss Helen Brooks, of 1713 Porter street, will entertain this afternoon in honor of Mrs. Frank Shirz. The affair will be a surprise miscellaneous shower, and the decorations will be pink and white.

Dickson-Dunphy Wedding. BETHLEHEM, Pa., Oct. 20.—A war bride wedding yesterday was that of Miss Nellie G. Dunphy and J. R. Dickson, of Great Hill, Philadelphia, performed in the Church of the Holy Infancy by the Rev. James A. Campbell. Miss Beatrice Stuber, of this city, gave the bridesmaids.

SERIES OF BRIDGE PARTIES PLANNED

Navy Yard Colony to Give Only Small Informal Entertainments This Year

There must be social diversion of some kind, no matter how strenuous these war-torn times become. So, at least, the naval set has decreed. "All work and no play" makes the proverbial dull boy, and besides, one cannot go on knitting forever.

Mrs. William W. Lawrence, of New York and Philadelphia, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Lawrence, arrived here from Philadelphia yesterday.

Mrs. Robert Denning, wife of Captain Denning, U. S. N., will also have a very small bridge on Monday afternoon at her home, 2121 Porter street.

A recent arrival in the naval colony in Girard Farms is Mrs. Theodora Hugh Winters, wife of Lieutenant Winters, U. S. N., who has taken the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Allen at 2541 South Garnet street.

Several of the naval set have been invited to join the attractive charity bridge clubs that Mrs. Rowland Vietch, of Hamilton Court, and Mrs. Thomas Lukens, of South Forty-third street, are planning. These two very energetic Red Cross workers thought it might be a little diversion from the constant routine of Red Cross work to organize two clubs of about sixteen members to meet on alternate Wednesdays, each member paying twenty-five cents at each game.

TWENTY-EIGHT IN NATIONAL SERVICE

Tabor Church, of South Philadelphia, Has Welfare Committee for Soldiers

One of the most interesting bits of war work accomplished downtown is being done by the welfare committee of Tabor Presbyterian Church, at the corner of Eighteenth and Christian streets. This particular church has sent twenty-eight men to the national service, five of whom are already in France, and any one who is familiar with the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Willis R. Skillman, will not be surprised at the great amount of war work done for these twenty-eight. For Thanksgiving the five boys who have already "gone over" will receive a splendid roasted turkey, with all the "trimmings," mince pie, cranberry sauce, nuts, etc., while the other twenty-three in all sections of the country will receive a box of "goodies," not quite so elaborate as that of the brothers overseas, but every bit as good.

The men of the church who are being benefited by the welfare committee, which, by the way, has Mr. Henry W. Dallas as chairman and Mr. William Armstrong as secretary and treasurer, are Mr. Wilson Stephenson, Mr. James Stephenson, Mr. Robert Black, Jr., Mr. Willis Gilman McCaulley, Mr. Andrew McDonachie, Mr. Donald McDonachie, Mr. William J. P. McElwee, Mr. Steward Moore, Mr. Thomas Craig, Mr. William McDonigh, Mr. Robert J. McCollum, Mr. Charles McCollum, Mr. William Smith, Mr. Thomas W. Goldsmith, Mr. Richard F. Schindler, Mr. Albert Hayes, Mr. William Hazleton, Mr. John Hartley Benson, Mr. James Gregg, Mr. William Corder, Mr. Willis W. Skillman, Mr. Eugene Ashman, Mr. Joseph Stranahan, Mr. Alexander Hutton, Mr. Leroy Jenkins and Mr. Howard Miehelle.
