

SELLS WAR BONDS AS DINNER COOLS

Dr. Tilly Delays Bala-Cynwyd Club Eats to Get Checks Signed

LIBERTY LOAN IS BOOSTED

Speakers at Annual Event Talk of World Struggle and Urge Financing by People

"It is foolish to hate the Boches; just kill 'em." Lieutenant Hector MacQuarrie, of the Royal Field Artillery, suggested this remedy to stop the wrangle in Europe. His plan struck a responsive chord among those who attended the tenth annual dinner of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club at Kugler's last night.

Lieutenant MacQuarrie is a slender-looking chap with a defiant chin. When he is fighting with Battery B, of the Ninety-second Brigade, he is writing books. He is a dialect which would be fatal in Berlin, and he admits it.

"One of your characteristics," he said, "is you have such a rotten one. But when we are in the newspapers we would be greatly obliged if you'd let us say something else beside 'bah jove.' I'll admit that some Britishers were 'real ratters' in the war, but they don't mean it the way we interpreted."

Lieutenant MacQuarrie was wounded while at the front and is here on sick leave. He is going back on the job in a few weeks. The Englishman's monochrome and his dialect, the lieutenant said, have often got him in wrong. In a very intimate and forceful talk he made it plain that most of the Britishers were "real ratters."

Facts gained by bitter experience were laid before those present by Major M. S. Boehm, of the 16th Canadian Battalion. He told of the devastation in France caused by the Boches, and incidentally corrected a number of false impressions circulated by German propagandists.

War Loan Subscription Here $225,000,000

Troop 26 of the Boy Scouts, has come forward as a formidable competitor for the President's banner offered to the Scout obtaining the largest total of subscriptions to the Liberty Loan.

The Continental-Equitable Title and Trust Company today increased its subscription by $22,000, making its total up to this time $502,000.

The subcommittee of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, headed by Mrs. J. F. Schanberg, has turned in subscriptions up to date amounting to $250,000. The women are working in teams in obtaining subscribers, some of the more prominent workers being Mrs. Ellis Gimbel, Mrs. Samuel D. L. Hays, Milton Herold, Mrs. Lewis Wolf, Mrs. Harry Lowenberg, Mrs. Joseph Wasserman and Mrs. David Kirschbaum.

The University of Pennsylvania Liberty Loan campaign to date resulted in subscriptions of $23,000 from faculty and students. The tenth School in Mount Airy has subscribed to date $30,400, exceeding its quota by $1000. The Kuglers Restaurant Company has subscribed $25,000, and the members of that company have bought bonds to an additional $12,000.

The inmates of the Pennsylvania Working House for the Blind, at Thirty-third and Lancaster avenues, have subscribed $2000 for bonds, while the Philadelphia Swimming Club has turned in a total of $500. The Mount Airy Building and Loan Association has subscribed $25,000. The Rev. J. Grey Bolton, pastor of the Hope Presbyterian Church, at Thirty-third and Wharton streets, and president of the Thirty-sixth Ward Improvement Association, has not only turned in subscriptions from every member of his family and his two servants, but has induced the association of which he is the head to invest its funds in Liberty Bonds.

Among other subscriptions received today were $100,000 from the General Asphalt Company, subscribed through its banks in Philadelphia; $50,000 from the Public Ledger Company and $15,000 from the workers of H. O. Wilbur & Sons, manufacturers.

Through a twenty-minute delay of an Overbrook train this morning, $15,000 was subscribed to the Liberty Loan. Liberty Day was celebrated by the Rotary Club at their luncheon today at the Hotel Adelphi. The speakers, Ellis Ames Baldwin, Charles Hiddle and Frank Mulholland, spoke on patriotic subjects. It was announced that the 225 members had contributed $46,000 to the Second Liberty Loan.

A $50,000,000 PURCHASE
E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., of Wilmington, Del., announced an additional subscription of $15,000,000 to the second Liberty Loan, making the explosives manufacturer's company's total subscription a round $10,000,000, the biggest individual contribution in the country. The subscription boosted yesterday's total in the Third (Philadelphia) Federal District to $60,000,000, or more than the day's allotment.

Not content with the soliciting of nearly $100,000 worth of Liberty Bonds from their parents and friends in conjunction with other students at the Central High School, twenty-five boys in the classical section of the 1915 class dug down into their own pockets today and with their spending money purchased a $50 bond.

Their object was purely one of patriotism and followed a talk by Prof. Arthur W. Howes, who teaches the boys Latin and Greek. The inspiration has been taken up by other classes and movements are now under way in the various sections to follow their lead.

"The boys felt that they wanted to do their bit," Professor Howes said today. "In addition to giving something to the school in appreciation of what it has done for them. They could not give the bond to the Board of Education, so they gave it to the Associated Alumni of the school as a memorial of the class. The Alumni Association is fostering athletics, and in this way the money will be returned to the school."

Herman H. Stein was chairman of the committee appointed by the class that engineered the enterprise. The idea has been taken up by the presidents of several of the other sections and it is expected that these sections will also purchase bonds.

Miss Gypsy O'Brien, a British subject of the "Cheating Cheaters" company, was to fight with the best English troops to get the best results."

The major said that England lost 100,000 men in casualties during the last month. And right here he injected some very vigorous talk for the Liberty Loan. "Disasters," he declared, "the boys who have gone across are fighting for you to live. It's up to you to give them the ammunition."

"Considerable inside information concerning Germany was given by Carl W. Ackerman, the way correspondent, author of 'Germany, the Next Republic,' which was published in the Evening Ledger. He explained the situation in Germany from the date of the signing of the Lusitania. 'If we talk peace with Germany,' he said, 'we talk on Germany's terms. The war must continue until there is a free Germany with which we can discuss peace. How can we talk peace with a country which not only wants to crush democracy throughout the world, but also in its own country?'"

Mr. Ackerman deplored the fact that the Liberty Loan was not oversubscribed. Those who do not respond to the Liberty Bond appeal, he said, were slackers just the same as the drafted men who did not respond to the call.

Forceful addresses with practical suggestions were made by Attorney Edwin O. Lewis and Franklin Spencer Edmonds. Applauds were held up a few minutes at the outset of the proceedings by Dr. Herbert J. Tilly, general manager of Strawbridge & Clothier, who reminded all present of the Liberty Loan. The fact that the soup was getting cold didn't seem to bother Mr. Tilly, and he didn't desert until he saw signs of success.

Although nearly all of those present had already subscribed for the loan, Mr. Tilly made them dig down again and was armed with a well-loaded fountain pen capable of writing checks of any size. And the men were going merrily during the evening. The dinner was opened with a prayer by the Rev. H. A. Hoyt, George C. Klauer presided.

Young Woman Injured by Trolley

Elizabeth Duran, nineteen years old, 223 Christian street, suffered a fractured leg and other injuries when struck by a trolley car at Third and Christian streets today. She slipped in front of a north-bound Third street car, believing that it was the intention of the motorman to stop at the corner. Policemen Moore and Seitz, of the Second and Christian streets station, extricated her from beneath the car and sent her to the Mount Sinai Hospital, where it is said her condition is serious.

JUDGE HOLDS DECISION IN DONNELLYS' CASE

Southern High Professor Not Yet Awarded Full Custody of Children

At the conclusion of the hearing on the habeas corpus motion brought by James H. Donnelly, professor of English at the Southern High School, for full control of his two children, Judge Brown today reserved final decision and continued the temporary order made about a month ago under which Donnelly has control of the boy and Mrs. Donnelly of the girl. Mrs. Donnelly is allowed to have the boy one day each week and Mr. Donnelly the girl for the same length of time.

Mrs. Donnelly left her husband at their summer home in Ventnor N. J., last June, and she is now living at the Biltmore Hotel. Mr. Donnelly is at the Bellevue-Stratford. Both told the court that a home would be established immediately if the custody of the children was determined according to their respective petitions.

THE WIDOW'S MITE
An interesting experience of selling a Liberty Bond to Mrs. Christine Hollweg, an old German woman of Altoona, Pa., was told today at the Liberty Loan headquarters.

The bond solicitor was admitted to Mrs. Hollweg's home by a little six-year-old girl.

"We are Liberty Loan men," said a member of the committee.

"Oh, yes, I have been expecting you," said Mrs. Hollweg. "I have but small means since my husband's death fifteen years ago. I have washed clothes to provide means for my grandson, who is now in one of the cadets' training to fight the Fatherland."

"Yes, gentlemen, the Fatherland has committed terrible deeds. I will buy a Liberty Bond," she said.

The members of the Liberty Loan committee followed Mrs. Hollweg to the garret, where she opened the lid of a wooden box filled with coins.

Taking a German thaler, dated 1787, from the box she said: "This was Joseph's pocket piece. My grandson goes to fight, and I will buy a Liberty Bond."

The coins dated out to pay for the $50 bond were dated from 1787 to 1891. Mrs. Hollweg had loaned the widow's mite.

Agnes T. Dice, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company, has issued an appeal to the officers and employees of the company to buy as many Liberty Bonds as they can, and to act promptly.

FREIHOFFER COMPANY WILL GIVE BONDS FOR LIBERTY LOAN LABELS
Eleven Liberty Loan of 1917 bonds, worth $500, and paid for, will be given away by the Freihofer Baking Company in a friendly competition designed to arouse Philadelphia to the necessity of saving bread according to an announcement made today by the company.

The contest, opening today, was hailed with delight by the small boy. It consists in saving labels from the new "Liberty Loaf" bread baked by the company, the person turning in the greatest number of labels December 1 receiving a $100 Liberty Loan bond and each of the next ten highest numbers receiving a $50 bond. The awards will be made as soon after the end of the one-month contest as the labels can be counted, the company announced.
