

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

PICTORIAL SECTION

FIRST PHOTOS SHOWING DESTRUCTION WROUGHT BY RUSSIANS IN THEIR RETREAT FROM RIGA

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

MARS EFFACES WORK OF CIVILIZATION
Lest it prove of value to the advancing Germans, the Russian command ordered destruction of this bridge. The camera caught the structure as it was buckling and about to fall.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

MILITARY NECESSITY DECREES DESTRUCTION
Before evacuating this village on the Riga front the retreating Russians put it to the torch, so that nothing save the blackened ruins greeted the Germans upon their entry.

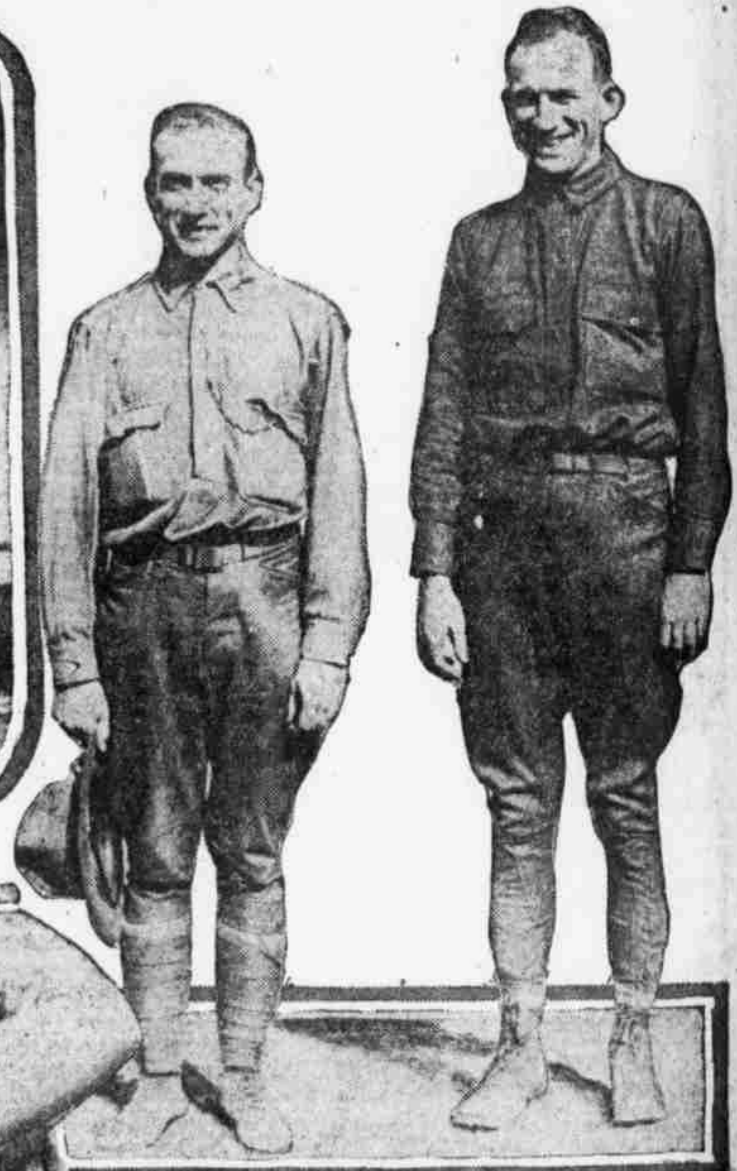

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

THIS EXPLOSION WIPED OUT A DEFENSIVE WORK WHICH WOULD HAVE FALLEN TO THE GERMANS AT RIGA

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

RUSSIANS PUT MUNITIONS DEPOT TO THE TORCH
Vast stores of supplies which could not be removed before the Germans pushed into this village were destroyed by order of the Russian high command.

COLLEGE CHUMS AT CAMP MEADE
Harry McNichol (right), son of State Senator "Jim" McNichol, and Lieutenant W. Broadbell, a fellow member of the class of 1909 at Penn

A SERVE THAT PROMISES RESULTS
Miss Louise Parson putting over a speedy one on Swarthmore High School's tennis court.

Copyright, International Film Service.

HERE TO FIGHT A NEW BATTLE FOR LIBERTY
British tank shipped direct from the battlefields of France to New York for participation in the Liberty Loan parade there.

IN COMPETITION AT WHITEMARSH
Mrs. J. W. Turnbull, whose long drives are a feature of every golf match in which she figures.

HEAVING A "BASEBALL PASS"
Kinsman, left halfback of Northeast High, in action on the gridiron.