

DATES ANNOUNCED FOR EASTERN LEAGUE, WITH DE NERI PLAYING READING

WITH THE ADOPTION OF SCHEDULE BY EASTERN LEAGUE, BASKETBALL HAS AT LAST COME INTO ITS OWN

Three Professional and Two Amateur Rule Will Develop New Players—Trenton Has a New Hall and War Tax Boosts Prices

BASKETBALL has at last come into its own with the straightening out of the Eastern League schedule. The entanglements which have been holding up the professional arrangements have at last been removed, and the season will open tomorrow night, when De Neri will perform at Reading. Next Monday night Trenton will open the campaign at Moose Hall and draw the champion Greys as opponents. The Camden, Jersey and Greys will be the first to meet on Saturday afternoon at Trenton. The latter is in Camden, N. J. The Greys, who have won the title for the last two seasons, will be the first to meet on Saturday afternoon at Trenton. The latter is in Camden, N. J. The Greys, who have won the title for the last two seasons, will be the first to meet on Saturday afternoon at Trenton.

It will be interesting to watch the progress of the three professional and two amateur player games. One thing is certain: if the play is not as fast it will result in the development of youngsters who will in time compare with their professional brothers. The movement is simply an experimental one and is done as a war measure in order that the hope of giving ambitious youngsters a chance to develop their talents. It is a praiseworthy move, and the fans will doubtless give their undivided support to the new Philadelphia club. It is an asset. The cry has ever been to give budding youths a chance to make good and the time has now arrived.

Trenton Has a New Hall

Trenton fans will see their favorites in a new hall this year. The Flyers have abandoned their spacious armory quarters and are now at home in Moose Hall, which has been put in splendid condition. Owing to the war tax, a new scale of prices has been made necessary. The new scale of prices has been made necessary. The new scale of prices has been made necessary.

MISS CAVERLY WINS COUNTRY CLUB GOLF NATIONAL FINALIST DEFEATS MISS ELEANOR CHANDLER ON THE LAST GREEN

By PETER PUTTER

Miss Mildred Caverly, Philadelphia Cricket Club, defeated Miss Eleanor Chandler, Huntingdon Valley Country Club, in the final round of the championship of the Philadelphia Women's Club. It was one of the most interesting matches played this year. Miss Caverly won the first hole and from that time on Miss Chandler was able to get into the hole. Miss Chandler did, however, manage to square the match four times during the match. Only three times were the holes missed, the players alternating in winning the hole.

In the outgoing round Miss Caverly won four holes and Miss Chandler three, the fifth being halved in par fours. On this hole Miss Chandler's ball was in a position to be a bird for a win. But were playing a beautiful game with wood and irons and when one or the other did win it was the result of turning the approach about a little nearer the hole than her opponent.

LOUIS H. JAFFE TENDERED DINNER

Sporting Friends of Assistant Sports Editor Pay Him Oral and Other Tributes HE GETS A WRIST WATCH

Louis H. Jaffe, once upon a time assistant sports editor of the Evening Ledger and now a private in Uncle Sam's army, was tendered a farewell dinner by his friends and the management of the Hotel Bingham at the latter place last night. Mr. Jaffe leaves for Camp Meade tomorrow to take up his new duties as one of the guardians of our nation.

It was not a sorrowful occasion, but one for rejoicing. The guest of honor was congratulated because of the opportunity he has to do something great, and the many speakers all promised to be with him some place "over there" in the near future. He was presented with a wrist watch, a gold safety razor and a sweater, in addition to other things during the evening.

The banquet, which was arranged on short notice, was well attended. More than thirty of Mr. Jaffe's associates and friends were present and each had something to say. Jake Weigstein, the local sportsman, furnished the decorations and the favors and in addition to that presented the party with a traveling kit. Sam Gross, assistant manager of the Bingham, and Louis Kamp, the food expert, did more than their share to make the affair a success.

William H. Hoop, sports editor of the Public Ledger, paid Jaffe a pretty tribute when he told of the young man's career in the newspaper world and his remarkable success. "We are just loaning Jaffe to Uncle Sam," he said, "and I expect to see him come back in a short time not as a private, but an officer. Any one who can do as well in the newspaper game in such a short time can do equally as well in the army. We are loaning our guest to the Government. It is a liberty loan."

Muggsy Taylor, the boy manager, tearfully said farewell in a short speech, and Bobby Gunnis, the Chauncey Dewey of football, sang songs, played the piano, told stories and made speeches without once referring to Joe Walsh or Johnny Menley. Bobby's work was the feature of the evening.
