

POLICE MORE PLENTIFUL THAN VOTERS ABOUT FIFTH WARD POLLS

District and Reserve patrolmen were on guard today throughout the "Bloody Fifth" Ward. The upper picture, showing the polling place of the fifth division, American and Spruce streets, is typical of conditions prevailing in the bailiwick wherein James A. Carey and Isaac Deutsch are wrestling for control. Carey (indicated by cross) is consulting with some of his lieutenants, while a detail of policemen lined up along the street, as shown in the picture, awaits eventualities.

FAVORITE OF OLDEN DAYS ON STAGE DEAD

Bartholomew, Native Philadelphian, to Be Buried Tomorrow From Edwin Forrest Home

In the death yesterday of William H. Bartholomew, the final curtain was rung down on one of the most interesting figures on the American stage of a former generation—a man who had made tens of thousands forget their troubles in an earlier day, but who himself had been forgotten for more than a decade. Bartholomew was a native Philadelphian, in the vicinity of what is now Second street and Fairmount avenue. His father was a French glove-maker and was strongly opposed to the boy's desire to adopt the stage as a profession. Young Bartholomew's first stage appearance was with a semiprofessional aggregation at Norristown at the age of sixteen. Later he was a member of the company at the old Drury Theatre, at Sixth and Chestnut streets, and for the first few years of his professional career he appeared under the stage name of William H. Allen. About the year 1865 Bartholomew began to specialize in pantomime roles and formed a partnership with James S. Moffitt, later famous as the lone fisherman in "Evangeline." They took over Howard's Athenaeum in Boston, where they gave pantomime and vaudeville performances, being pioneers in that form of entertainment. Bartholomew and Moffitt parted company in the early seventies, and the former then appeared in "The Black Crook," "The Devil's Auction," "Maudie" and other extravaganzas of great popularity in that day. Later Bartholomew returned to the legitimate stage, and his last appearance was at the Garrick, in this city, about twelve years ago, when he appeared with Morgan and Frank Bangs, in "The Eternal City." Shortly afterward Bartholomew entered the Edwin Forrest Home for Actors. Though still physically active and mentally alert, his memory had completely failed him and it was impossible for him to master his lines. He could remember men and plays of fifty years ago, but was wholly unable to absorb in his memory anything that pertained to the present. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Edwin Forrest Home, Holmesburg.

FRESHMEN VICTORS IN PENN BOAT RACE

In the annual rowing race between the sophomore and freshmen eight-oared shell crews of the University of Pennsylvania, contested on the Schuylkill River yesterday morning, the yearling aggregation emerged the victor by a foot.

When the first one-quarter mile was completed the sophomores were about one-quarter of a boat length in the van. As the two shells swept down the estuary the yearlings gradually began to lessen the gap that separated them from the sophomores. As the contest neared its close the freshmen gained slightly with every stroke, until within a short distance of the finish they spurred over the line about the heat of a stroke in the lead.

OPPOSING TERESTCHENKO

Soviet Sympathizers' Demand on Paris Conference Are Rejected by Leaders

PETROGRAD, Nov. 6.—Certain political circles close to the Soviets are demanding that some member of the Government other than Terestchenko, Minister of Foreign Affairs, be sent to the Paris conference. Terestchenko is being continually attacked for his frank and patriotic stand toward America and the Allies. The Government is paying little attention to these demands, having already decided that Terestchenko will represent Russia at the conference.

GERMANY ABLE TO FIGHT FOR YEARS, EXPERTS SAY

American People Misled as to Enemy's Strength to Continue Struggle.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Germany's economic situation will permit her to fight for years, officials declared today, repudiating reports that the Teutons are "on their last legs." Both American and Entente circles believe the American people have been misled as to Germany's ability to continue the struggle.

"Excluding the Italian campaign, the Teutons have occupied 875,000 square kilometers of Allied territory and subjected more than 22,000,000 Latins, Slavs and Rumanians. Of these, hundreds of thousands are virtual slaves to Germany and her allies, working in German factories, on public projects or producing foodstuffs for the Kaiser's armies," said one official.

"The economic returns from conquered Russian and Rumanian territories have been heavy in grain and oil, which, together with Bulgarian and Belgian coal fields, have virtually solved the Teuton fuel problem.

"From a monetary standpoint Germany is profiting by stripping occupied territories of all valuables. The Belgian people alone are paying war imposts amounting to more than 480,000,000 francs yearly, and the taxes imposed on other conquered countries are enormous."

Determination to prevent "sugar-coated pills" about Germany's weakness being tendered the American public is outspoken by Allied officials. Only by telling the truth about Germany can alleged indifference to the war in some parts of the country be removed, they believe. Major General Wood predicted recently the war would last from three to seven years more.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY

Scranton Grocer Meets Death in Way Similar to Grandchild's. SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 5.—Patrick McCrea, sixty-three years old, a grocer of this city, was killed when a team of horses he was driving became frightened and ran away. McCrea was thrown to the pavement and his skull was fractured. Several weeks ago his grandchild, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelly, of Carbondale, was thrown from a motortruck and killed.

"Keep Kolynos in Your Kit" There is a tremendous amount of human interest in putting up a "comfy kit" for a soldier. Every woman working in an auxiliary unit pictures to herself the soldier at the front using the various articles included in the kit she packs. The letter opposite furnishes a vivid picture of the unusual emergencies in which these "parcels" from tender hands at home may figure. It will remind every American soldier to "keep Kolynos in his kit" and every woman preparing a "comfy kit" to include in it a tube of this soldiers' dental cream. Price, thirty cents. The Kolynos Company New Haven Conn. U.S.A.

102 Rotton Road, Edgbaston, Birmingham. Dear Sirs: I am sending you a little account of how Kolynos was used in a far different way than usual, by my brother, a soldier on the Peninsula. In each parcel we always enclosed a tube of Kolynos. He landed soon after the first lots, and water was still very scarce, they had none at all, except that kept for emergency in their bottles, which they had strict orders not to touch. Then they were ordered to charge the enemy! Just before, by a happy inspiration, he pulled out his tube of Kolynos, and with aid of saliva washed it well round his mouth. This acted better than water. He was so pleased that he passed it round to his pals, who were all done up. They, too, used it to the last squeeze, and gave three cheers for "Butler and his tube!" (Signed) W. BUTLER.
