The first seventh of the first seventh formal form Captain Edwin Bower Hesser, author of For the Freedom of the World," the Vicria's new film, pagily made-at Betzwood, stgomery County, was in the American Legion of the Canadian army when the cenario film story was written. One of the main events in the plot came as an inspiration from a short newspaper squib read by a brother officer one night in camp.

"It was strange," said Captain Hesser re ntly, "how it all started. My commanding licer, Lieutenant Colonel B. J. McCormick, O. C., 213th Battalion, American Legion. appened to read a note in a newspaper to the effect that a French army officer had killed his wife because she had persisted in seeing him at the front in violation of the erder that no women were to be allowed to see their husbands in the fire zone.

"Major Fewler, second in command of our attalion, was much stirred by the tragedy, and a general discussion followed. Finally, Colonel McCormick, knowing me to be a Croovie director, said, 'Hesser, you ought to make a film out of that'—and I did.

"The story as written embraces a similar tocident, and concerns also the thousands upon thousands of Americans who enlisted in the Canadian army to fight the big fight, even before America entered the war.

"I feel that it should set at rest for all time the argiments regarding why we are in the war. I want it to show the American public that we are at war with a people whose brutality and barbarism, the result of their governmental system, is something that every one of us must hate and do our best to stamp out. The men who are giving their lives are entitled to support—they are giving their all, their lives. Surely those who stay at home can do as much. Their duty is plain. I wish that the next loan committee would put an information table in the theatres wherever my picture is shown. I think that results would warrant the step."
