WILL SELL PRIZE PLANTS . Was to George H. McFadden; second, Thou AT SHOW FOR RED CROSS

Ribbon Flowers of "Mum" Exhibit Will Go to Highest Bidders Tonight

ue ribbon plants and flowers on exhibin at the chrysanthemum show in the at Regiment Ampory will be auctioned to a highest bidders at a sale tonight and all the proceeds will go to the Red Cross. At a meeting of officers of the Pennsylda Horticultural Society yesterday aftera suggestion for such a sale met Pennsylvania Horticultural Society ontrol over the plants and flowers the show, so the head gardeners and perintendents for the big estates along Main Line and in other suburban towns the Main Line and in other suburban towns were asked to donate parts of their exhibits. Joseph E. Widener, of Elkins Park, authorized his gardener to "give whatever is wanted." John Wanamaker, John W. Pepper, Mrs. S. D. Riddle, W. S. Pepper, John H. McFadden, Miss Anne Thomson, Clement B. Newbold and other exhibitors will give their best blooms. The sale will not start until 9 o'clock to avoid interfering with the show. W. F. Therkildson, president of the Ohio Society of Philadelphia, will be auctioneer. More than $2000 worth of plants and flowers had been promised last night and much more will be given today. They will be sold for whatever they bring.

WOMAN TO REBUILD FACES

Doctor's Wife Commissioned to Patch Up Wounded Soldiers' Features

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 .- Mrs. Anna Cole man Ladd, wife of Dr. Maynard Ladd, announced here that the War Department had ccepted an offer of her services in Franca reconstructing the features of soldiers whose faces have been marred by wounds. Doctor Ladd is in France giving special aid to children. Mrs. Ladd said she would leave for France as soon as orders are issued by the War Department.

WE INVITE COMPARISON

A Great Economy Day In Fashionable Coats

> Featuring Stunning Fur and Seal Plush Trimmed Coats

A bevy of beautiful swagger models velours, kerseys and novelty coatings; full belted with deep pockets. Others have gorgeous fur and plush collars and cuffs.

REAL $27.50 COATS

Bolivias, Kerami Trimmed One model pictured with mag-nificent cape collar; volumin-ously full and graceful. All fashionable colors; all sizes.

Gorgeous Coats

Reproductions of $50 to $75 models in seal plush with deep border collar and cuffs of moline; full lined; loose back;

Bolivias.

Georgette Blouses

Crepe de Chine Blouses of unusual charm and the glade in white and flesh; remark. $2.98

Sample Trimmed Hats

$6 to $10 Values Gold Lace Hats, Silk Velvet Hats, Velour Hats
Panne Velvet Hats, Lyons Velvet Hats,
Fur-Trimmed Hats

SUBWAY STORE

Silk Poplin Dresses

Cosmopolitan Advertisement No. 1

A Million Wait For This Date

Any idea backed by the homes of America is an invincible idea.

If it reaches into these homes and grips and holds them, it will win.

This idea-the Cosmopolitan idea-is powerful enough to galvanize and organize one million Americans every month.

Once a month they spontaneously spring into action at the bugle-call of the Cosmopolitan.

A million of them make a mental note of this date on the calendarthe Cosmopolitan date—the memorable tenth of the month.

Every thirty days a holiday spirit enters into the hearts and minds of a million Americans and prompts them all to this same impulsive action.

There is nothing behind them but the irresistible urge of their own desires.

The Cosmopolitan calls to something that is in them, and from one end of the continent to the other they respond en masse.

A million Americans, made in a million different mental moulds, all find in its pages something to which they aspire-something they desire, or require, or admire.

What they want, and what they think, and what they dream, or what they are, they must find between the covers of the Cosmopolitan or it could not rouse them to this spontaneous response.

Is it too much to say that in these times of stress the men, and women, who have so unselfishly shouldered the burden, welcome the tenth of the month?

Is it too much to say that the thinkers and the doers crave the relaxation that Cosmopolitan supplies?

There is no other phenomenon like to this Cosmopolitan phenomenon.

No other publication in all America exerts the same magic influence over the same number of people.

The favor of these million buyers is neither bribed nor bought.

They are not coaxed nor cajoled nor coerced to buy the Cosmopolitan.

There are no prizes, nor premiums, nor clubs, nor special prices.

The Cosmopolitan simply spreads its feast on the news-stands of the nation and says: "Come and partake."

And in a few days, the last copy has gone to make a day of relaxation in some one of more than a million American homes.

If you have been outside this zone of inspiration and enjoyment-deny yourself no longer.

Make today your day too!

