It has been a long time since a planist

IT's great to get letters from one of the boys" over there, isn't it? They are her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCown. She will be gone ten and they can tell us so little, of where they are and what they are doing. I received this letter recently from one of the men in the Fifth Regiment of Marines, it was written before our men got into action and it's mighty clever. It covered several pages of typewriter paper and yet it did not tell a thing. The writer with Headquarters, and has quite a bit to do with the writing of what happens over there, for us all. He says he receives our paper and laughs over Nancy's stories, which is gratifying, isn't it? To think that some of Nancy's nonsense has brought cheer to any of our

The letter says in part: "Although I had decided to summer in France, some one decided so quickly for me that I had no time even to decide as to my wardrobe, much less give farewell dinners. "It's still comfortably warm here during the days, but quite cold at nights. Anyway, it is sufficiently late in the season to cause me to think about the winter.

"I haven't quite decided just what to do. I think I'll spend a few weeks in Paris and I suppose winter in Marseilles, or possibly take a run over to southern Italy or possibly down to Spain. It's really an awful nuisance to have to think about these things, especially as I'm not depending on Cook's this year. Oh. Yaaws! There is, however, just one annoying thing about the whole business, and that is instead of Cook's I've got another firm looking out for me. I'm sure they don't make up nearly such an attractive program, but during these times of war there are a lot of things which have to be done which are not to our liking.

WTHE people I'm referring to is an I organization called the Marine Corps and you'd be surprised how they make up their minds to do things whether you like it or not, and, what's worse, you have to do likewise. In other words, everything is decided for you and they don't even bother to ask if it meets with your approval or not. And for that reasen I'm undecided what I'm going to do or to be more exact. I haven't been told yet what I am to decide upon.

"However, annoying as this seems to donation day next Tuesday. November 20.
Tea will be served from 2 to 5 p. m. The nursery, which was enlarged two years ago, is now a small but still a model building, where an average of twenty-five children me, there are several redeeming features. One of them is that it saves you all sorts of worry, bother about time-tables, hoter arrangements, etc., as well as money. Then again you're absolutely forbidden to go to Paris, which is rather nice when you develop the proper viewpoint of you don't they'll develop it for you), as it saves you from the various temptations, as you may well know!!!

"So ALTOGETHER I'm having a per-fectly lovely time, and am sorry 'ou're not here to enjoy it also. It would esuch a relief to you, I know, to sit down itd be able to write the Nancy Wynne clumn without bothering what to put in it, that would be all doped out for you. Of course you wouldn't dare to mention names of places, names of persons or anything of that sort, but it would make the column wildly exciting. Every one would be speculating who was meant and what they did and where they went and who they entertained, and there'd be so much speculation about who's who and why, the paper would double, nay, triple, its circulation.

"It might run something like this: 'The V-'s left last week for Fort H-, where they are visiting their soninlaw, J- F. S- F- has been staying down in G--. I wonder who whe attraction? Can it be the old affair is on again? K--- H has just come home from C- M--, where she has been visiting her fiance, and - C--- spent quite a time at Camp M- with Mrs. C-, who every one says is going to be her mother-in-law!!!! The --- , of --- , leave today for their visit with the (I forgot to put in the ticks for a moment ---- 's at ----, and later they will go to - for a month's stay.' Lovely, wot? (Some real guesses in that, too, remarks Nancy, sotto voce.

"But them is the rules, so what can one do? And you know this is entirely different from a newspaper office wherein one may at times give vent to one's temperament and tell one's readers just where they get off.

'The fact that I'm writing this letter should be sufficient indication that I'm well. As to where I am, where I've been, where and when I'm going, when we go into the trenches and the exact time this war will end-all of that you'll have to read between the lines, which I know you are perfectly able to do. Anyway. you'll have to do your best, for the cenfor absolutely won't allow me to tell you any of these things. So there you are!!!!"

There's a lot more, but it might not interest you as much as it interested me. so I'll spare you; but isn't it great to know that they are in such good spirits and sifely "over there"? Please God, they will come safely back!

RULE ON VALLEY FORGE PARK

Attorney General Fixes Authority for Commission

HARRISBURG, Nov. 15.—The Attorney General's department holds that the authority of the Valley Forge Park commission in acquiring land is "confined to fixing the location and boundaries of the land which it deems expedient for the State to acquire and the giving of notice of its action to the owner of the legal title. When this is done the State, by its own force, appropriates the property, which appropriation includes all the interests in the land condemned."

The owner of a leasehold must be compensated, but such a person, as well as others interested, must be paid through an appropriation under the act.

The war-garden room at the fair was very attractively arranged. There was a variety of late vegetables, besides rows and rows of jellies. The money from all of these will go to the Red Cross wool fund. There was a booth where ice cream cones and lemonade were sold, and several mall venders walked here and there sell

SPLENDID WORK OF AUXILIARY NO. 47

South Philadelphia Church Has Hard-Working Group of Red Cross Members

When it comes to thorough organization and real enthusiasm, it is a question if there is anywhere in the city a more active Red Cross auxiliary than No. 47, which has been meeting in the parish building of the Church of the Holy Apostles, Twenty-first and Christian streets, every Monday and Thursday afternoon, from 2 until 6, and again in the evening, from 7:30 until 10. Organized in May under the direction of Mrs. Alfred M. Gray, and boosted continuously by the pastor, the Rev. Herbert H. Toop, the auxiliary now numbers more than three hundred enthusiastic members, with a junior auxiliary for the younger girls. which meets on Monday evenings. Of course, the fact that there are over fifty-four men of the church in some branch of the national service has done much to focus interest in the work, for the greater part of the work is confined to the interests of the members of the church. For in-stance, the class in knitting has planned to send each man a complete knitted outfit, sweater, helmet, wristlets and socks, and many, many stitches are necessary before the entire number of sets is completed.

Mrs. George C. Thomas, who has more than a passing interest in the Hahnemann Hospital, supplied the funds with which to purchase the original hospital supplies. The Hahnemann Hospital had hoped to have a base on the other side, but when the Gov-ernment decided to make the only two nec-essary appointments from hospitals in the Middle West, all the supplies and dressings that Auxiliary No. 47 had been preparing for the Hahnemann Base were on hand, and very fortunately so. and very fortunately so. The terrible loss of and very fortunately so. The terrible loss of more than a million dressings several weeks ago by one of those hideous undersea raids left the hospitals abroad sorely in need of supplies, for hard as it may seem to besupplies, for hard as it may seem to be lieve it, the apparently limitless piles of gauze and bandages do not go very far with the frightful number of injured brought back daily from the battle line.

And so, on Monday evening, the nuxiliary packed up its entire supplies and gladly turned them over to the main body of the Red Cross There were 10,700 dressings. forty-three pairs of pajamas, twenty-four bathrobes and twenty-eight hospital shirts, all the work of the last three months! This has been done in addition to the many Christmas packages that have been made up and turned over to the Red Cross and the hundreds of soldiers taken care of as the troop trains passed through the city.

The real secret of the success of this Pittsparticular auxiliary seems to lie in its splendid organization. Each committee has its particular work and sees to it that it is done. And the Back Home Committee, orther daughter. Miss Janet Moon, were down there; and so were Mrs. W. S. Baxter and her son, Mr. Albert Baxter.

Another branch which might be said to be just in its infancy, since it was organized only last week, is connected with the Church of the Epiphany. Twelfth and Jackson streets, of which the Rev. James Nash is paster, and very enthusiastic about the idea. It was organized under the leadership of Miss Mary Clare, who is doing so much of this work among the Cathelic churches throughout the city, and plans to meet every week, alternating the evenings from Wednesdays to Fridays. The work will be done in the school hall of the parish, and a class in surgical dressings is being Another branch which might be said to will be done in the school hall of the parish, and a class in surgical dressings is being organized first. As there are a number of members of the Epipheny parish in the various branches of the service, it is heped that later on the auxiliary may be able to do something decidedly personal for each man away (through the knitting class). Invitations are extended to women who can spare a few hours a week to do their "bit" for the cause, to drop in to the meetings and help get them thoroughly organized. About sixty young women are already working.

It is quite evident there are other ways of doing good in this world besides knitting socks and sweaters for the soldiers or preparing surgical dressings for the Red Cross, and leave it to the up-to-date business sirl to find them. The office force of the Manu-facturers' Supplies Company, on Broad street near Cherry, which numbers about thirty enthusiastic young ladies, gave an entertainment on Tuesday evening in Bala for the Presbyterian Home for Aged Couples. Cole, Miss Isabel Ferguson, Miss Marjorle Ferguson, Miss Bessie Hannie, Miss Neille Roy, Miss Anna Shaw, Miss Betty Ferguson Miss Ethel Turner, Miss Batty Ferguson Miss Ethel Turner, Miss Alice Sorver and Miss Elizabeth Krail The Affair was informal and the program included both musical and literary selections. With all the work for those nearest and cluded both musical and literary selections.

With all the work for those nearest and dearest to the people at home there is a cail for volunteers for patriotic duty to the Red Cross Society of America which must be heeded. Auxiliary 109 meets on Thursdays from 2 to 7 p. m. in the lecture room of the Grace Reformed Episcopal Church, Ridge avenue above Calumet street. Mrs. Walter Oakford, wife of the pastor, is chairman of the group. This is the only Red Cross community center at the Falls. The Young Women's Christian Association is working with the Germantown organisa-The Young Women's Christian Association is working with the Germantown organization of which it is a branch, and the group at St. Bridget's Church works through the Alliance of Catholic Women. If each Alliance of Catholic Women. Alliance of Catholic Women. If each mother with a son in the service could help with the hospital garments on Thursdays, what splendid results could be accomplished for the society. And just now the Red-Crossers are being urged to procure more surgical dressings. The recent moving-picture entertainments given under the auspices of Auxiliary 100 netted $76.85

The annual union service of the Falls thurches will be held on Thanksgiving Day in the Grace Reformed Episcopal Church. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Arthur T. Michler, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.
