

ILLUSTRATED Evening Ledger

PICTORIAL SECTION

PAGE OF PHOTOGRAPHS DEVOTED TO NEWS HAPPENINGS IN PHILADELPHIA AND ITS ENVIRONS

POTATOES? YES; TOO MANY FOR QUICK HANDLING
Several hundred carloads at the Second and Master streets yards, are now being slowly unloaded.

HEAVNER, STAR TACKLE OF THE SWARTHMORE COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM, FROM WHOM FOLLOWERS OF THE GARNET ARE EXPECTING GREAT THINGS IN SATURDAY'S GAME WITH HAVERFORD

SWARTHMORE HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS INVADE ANOTHER FIELD OF SPORT
From baseball and tennis they have swerved to hockey as a fitting autumn pastime, as illustrated by the Misses Emily Seaber and Sarah Bitler, two of their number.

RED CROSS KNITTING NEEDS
Among the many articles so badly wanted for the Sammees are hoods, mufflers, sweaters, wristlets, all of wool, as shown.

"BILL" DURBIN
Speedy halfback of the Swarthmore College eleven.

C. MERRIFIELD
Wilkes-Barre's crochet expert at work on a tablecloth that netted him $1500

UPHOLDING TRADITIONS OF THE ARMY MULE
The would-be master of the unruly animal, a Philadelphia soldier, by the way, in training at Camp Hancock, is obscured by the dust into which he was thrown after attempting a mount.

A GROUP OF EVENING LEDGER ENTHUSIASTS JUST AFTER DELIVERY HOUR AT CAMP MEADE
They are members of Camp Hospital Company No. 113, commanded by Captain John A. Farrell, of West Chester, and hail from twenty-nine States of the Union.

A BRILLIANT DROP-KICKER
Captain Allie Cornog, of Swarthmore, is one of best "tee artists" in the East.

DOING HER BIT WITH A PATRIOTIC RESOLVE
An inmate of the Home for Aged Couples, Perkiomen and Francis streets, who believes it her duty to knit at every opportunity for the Sammees.