

PHILADELPHIA LEADS NEW ARMY OFFICERS

141 More Commissions Won at Fort Oglethorpe by Men of This City

CHIEFLY IN ARTILLERY

University of Pennsylvania Well Represented in the Long List

Philadelphia's sons are still leading in number of commissions won at Fort Oglethorpe. An army of 141 more commissions were awarded at the southern camp this morning shows that 141 more Philadelphians have made good and will be officers in the various branches of the United States Army.

The University of Pennsylvania was well represented again among the men honored. Some of these were:

Danny Hutchison, the famous quarterback of the 1909 team, who, in addition to his gridiron prowess went in for boxing and racquets, received a commission as a lieutenant in the 10th Cavalry, and was sent into the military camps two years ago at Plattsburg.

William G. MacBryer, another football man who graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1915 and received a commission as a lieutenant in the aviation section. Previous to going to Fort Oglethorpe he had been employed in the Midvale Steel Company.

Lieutenant Orlando Shoenberger, now in the artillery service, was better known to Pennsylvanians as "Doc" because of his diving and floating qualities with which he won the intercollegiate plunge title for two years. He was a member of the swimming team for four years. He graduated at the engineering school of the University and served on the border last year with an Illinois cavalry outfit.

William R. DuBarry graduated from the University in the class of 1915 and was prominent in many undergraduate activities. He is a brother of Joseph N. DuBarry, 3d, who is a lieutenant in the field artillery at Camp Meade. Both were at Plattsburg. William DuBarry is now a lieutenant in the infantry.

Lieutenant Frank C. Boyer, commissioned in the artillery, was a member of the class of 1917.

Lieutenants D. M. Love and Curtis Allen were commissioned in infantry and were in the classes of 1917 and 1915, respectively. Allen has a brother, Walter, who left Philadelphia to enter the American Ambulance Service in France.

Russian Reds Face Rout as Nation Waits

600 KILLED IN KIEFF; SLAUGHTER IN MOSCOW

Six hundred killed at Kieff and 100 Russian army officers slaughtered at Moscow were additions to the bloody gains of violence by which the Bolsheviks gained control in Russia according to a dispatch cut of Petrograd by a credible Russian citizen today.

The fighting at Kieff lasted more than six days. It was a terrible scene of terror. The Bolsheviks now have complete control of the city.

American Minister Morris received this report from the traveler today. He was said that the Russian officers, engaged in heroic defense of Moscow's biggest hotel and that the frenzied Bolshevik mob literally pulled the structure to pieces.

Doctor von Wundt, food administrator for Finland, conferred today with Morris, imploring him to urge on President Wilson the immediate necessity that relief measures be taken by the United States in Finland. Von Wundt asserted that unless America sent immediate aid all Finland would perish from starvation. Morris agreed to forward an urgent appeal to the State Department.

Diplomatic officers here today reported that Bolshevik forces had turned back British and French diplomatic couriers from the Finnish frontier, refusing to recognize their diplomatic credentials and ignoring their demand that dispatches be transmitted to the Allied ambassadors in Petrograd.

From Haparanda today it was learned that Tchernoff, formerly Minister of Agriculture in the Kerensky cabinet, had met with a number of other Socialist Moderates and Cadet leaders in Petrograd, and of the Russian Grand Army Headquarters, to effect organization of a coalition government. The conference, it was asserted, sent emissaries to Petrograd proposing that the Bolsheviks join in this endeavor to restore order to Russia by institution of a strong Government representative of all political factions, but that the Bolsheviks flatly declined.

Joseph Shaplen, formerly of the cable staff of the New York office of the United Press, left the United States en route to Petrograd several weeks ago. He is the most recent addition to the foreign staff of the United Press, and, like all other of its representatives, American and Russian newspaper men, who have been with the United Press in various cities. Until his departure with the United Press, Mr. Shaplen was in the employ of the Evening Ledger.

RED AGENTS IN GERMAN LINES FOR TRUCE PARLEY

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 28. Representatives of English and American Bolshevik commander-in-chief, have crossed to the German lines and opened truce negotiations with officers of the German general staff, according to a Petrograd dispatch, which says this was announced at the Smolny Institute, headquarters of the Bolsheviks.

An unconfirmed Haparanda report says representatives of the German general staff have gone to Petrograd to negotiate for the release of German and Austro-Hungarian prisoners of war.

Political conditions in Russia continue to grow more chaotic. Latest advice says the Socialist revolutionists are trying to force the chief army officers and get

Reserve Decision in Ballot Appeal

Ewell's contradictory testimony could be considered. It was alleged that in the petition in charges that a dozen or more Town Meeting votes had not been counted, whereas in court he testified that they had been counted.

Slight gains by Republican candidates were shown in the forty divisions completed so far by the Election Court. The Town Meeting supporters expressed confidence, however, that this gain was only temporary. W. Freedland Kendrick, candidate for Receiver of Taxes, gained 152 votes on Thomas F. Armstrong, his opponent on the Town Meeting ticket.

James B. Sheehan, candidate for Mayor, gained 174 votes over his old majority while Fred J. Shoyer, candidate for City Treasurer, gained 173 more votes on his opponent, William R. Nicholson.

Town Meeting leaders, declaring that the Organization's petitions had been carefully selected, expressed confidence that examination of the 1246 ballot boxes in the city would show a Town Meeting victory. More than 700 petitions for opening ballot boxes have been filed by the Town Meeting party.

Charges of ballot-box stuffing were made by Henry J. Scott, lawyers, declaring that when he asked the court to pass on the new petitions presented yesterday by him, in 19 divisions, he declared, he was prepared to show that there were 1527 more votes counted than registered.

"We get this from checking up on the voters' lists," he said, "ask the court to pass on the new petitions, and that is the real crux of the whole situation, that is, we allege that there were more votes cast than registered. If there were more votes than registered there was undoubtedly some ballot-box stuffing, and that is what we are ready to prove under the new petitions."

Judges Martin and Finletter, who said they were under the impression that these new petitions should be acted upon by the lowest court, set Friday morning for having argument on whether the Election Court should consider petitions filed after the announcement of election results. Ballot-boxes where necessary to obtain just returns.

The Election Court, before adjourning for Thanksgiving late this afternoon, had to pass on the opening of thirty-one more ballot boxes when court resumes Friday. Of these, twenty-three were based on Organization petitions and eight on Town Meeting petitions.

The Town Meeting party withdrew petitions for a recount in the eighteenth and twenty-first divisions of the Thirty-sixth Ward. The Organization likewise withdrew petitions for a recount in the twenty-third and tenth divisions of the Twenty-fifth Ward and the fourth division of the Twenty-second Ward. In the last named case the Organization has a record of 1917 and twenty-two votes for each of the Town Meeting nominees.

At the outset of today's court Henry J. Scott, counsel for the Town Meeting party, said it would be shown that whole-scale fraud had been committed in the recent election. He reiterated his assertion that the returns did not tally with the official lists returned to the Prothonotary's office.

John H. K. Scott and other members of the Organization counsel who filed petitions for the opening of several ballot boxes, declared their decision to gain, and announced it will show big gains for the Republican candidates.

TURKEYS AND FIXIN'S READY FOR SAMMEES

American Soldiers in France to Have Real Thanksgiving Feast Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. Safe arrival of the Thanksgiving transport carrying turkeys and trimmings for the Sammees abroad was reported officially at the War Department today.

By HENRI BAZIN Staff Correspondent of the Evening Ledger with the American Army in France AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 28. Sammees are going to have a real Thanksgiving feast of turkey and trimmings. An official order just issued specifies the articles to be distributed apart from the regular "chow."

Each man will receive sixteen ounces of drawn turkey in lieu of the regular meat component, twenty ounces of sweet potatoes, two ounces of mince-meat, from which real American pie will be made; four ounces of mixed nuts, four ounces of raisins, figs or dates, one quart of cranberries, an apple and a bunch of celery and a half pound of white bread, which is a little more than the regular issue.

Administrator Howard Heinz was in conference with leading grocery factors again this morning, and following the conference the following changes in the published schedule of prices laid down by the food administration were announced:

Another grade of lard was added to the schedule, making three grades in all. The added grade was western lard in tubs. For this commodity the price to the retailer was fixed at from 23 to 25 cents, and it was announced that the retailer should charge the consumer not more than 31 to 33 cents a pound for the product.

A change was also made in the price of compound lard in bulk, which originally was fixed at 23 to 25 cents to the consumer. A half cent was clipped off of this price, making the price to the consumer 22 to 23 cents.

Administrator Heinz stated that a number of complaints had been received by him today of charges made by retailers in excess of the schedule laid down by the food administration. In all cases the complaining parties are required to put their grievances in writing, and with this as a basis Mr. Heinz stated that he would make a thorough investigation of each complaint, and see that whatever wrongs were committed were made right.

ALIEN ENEMY INQUIRES AS TO COURSE OF ACTION

Appeals to U. S. Marshal in View of Discharge and Necessity to Change Residence Martin Linsky, the first enemy alien so far as is known to be affected by the strict enforcement of the rules against enemy aliens on the water fronts, went to United States Marshal Noonan for advice and help today. He got kind words and assurance that he need not worry, since he was "all right."

Linsky worked in the Pennsylvania Sugar Refinery, Green street wharf. He was discharged under the new rule, since he was a Prussian. He got first naturalization papers in 1916, but he hasn't his second. Therefore, he had to be discharged and he also must move from his home at 509 McKean street before the new house was ready and wanted to know if he would have to wear a button showing he was an enemy alien.

Noonan said no. Linsky's son-in-law, Christopher McGowan, is in the United States navy and Linsky is supporting Mrs. McGowan, he says. He also states that his son, Martin Linsky, Jr., is trying to get into the United States navy.

Record Tax Rate Jump Is Forecast

Continued from Page One the highest proposals have been twice turned down. As the streets must be kept in some kind of condition, Director Datesman will be finally forced to accept any figure that the regular firms decide to charge.

These were not the reasons dwelt upon by Chairman Gaffney and other members of Council Finance Committee when they met today to finally decide upon what rate to fix. The financiers in every instance offered war prices and needed salary increases as causes for increase. The action of the Rating Fund committee in refusing to allow any free surplus it may have in being used for current expenses also came in for its share of blame.

Thirty thousand increase in payroll, based on salary increases and new positions created during 1917 as approved today, is $1,180,815.

Salaries for 1917 total $16,267,562, and for 1918, $17,448,145, an increase of $1,180,583. If Councils attempt to provide for payment of a temporary loan of $1,200,000 for deficiency bills and for replenishment of a mandamus fund as well as for the support of soldiers' dependents, a tax rate of nearly double the 25-cent increase of last year will have to be decided upon.

Salary raises as finally approved for skilled mechanics and salaried men under $1800 will amount to approximately $100,000, or most they account for but two and one-half cents of the increase. War prices play a greater part, especially in the case of the hundreds of thousands of tons of coal used annually by the city. The increased cost of supplies and the necessity for appropriating money for the care of soldiers' families at the front, as well as the needed increases in pay for the "ditch fellows," are the reasons dwelt upon by the worried financiers. In a general way, the war is blamed for all the extra financial burdens that are being shifted onto the shoulders of reality.

In preventing any discussion of the tax rate even in the finance committee itself, until the last hour possible, the administration leaders hope to have effectually checked off any real opposition to the boost. With absolute control of both branches there is not the slightest question that the rate to be reported this afternoon will be finally fixed by both branches of Councils on Friday afternoon.

The law requires the tax rate to be fixed on or before December 1 and the late reporting of the measure today leaves only Thanksgiving Day itself for any opposition to develop.

MARINES' MASCOT GONE

French Poodle Which Saw Life in Trenches Disappears

A liberal reward for the return of "Totie," a three-year-old French poodle, mascot of the Marine corps recruiting station, at 1409 Arch street, which disappeared last Friday, has been offered by Captain S. W. A. Patterson, commanding officer of the station.

According to Captain Patterson, the dog was formerly the mascot of a regiment of marines in camp in France and was brought to Philadelphia two weeks ago by a marine, who was forced to return home because of a slight injury received while in camp. The dog soon became a great favorite with the men and his disappearance has occasioned much regret.
