JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Penn-Cornell Game Attracts Society - Many Home Dinners to Celebrate Thanksgiving Day. Mr. and Mrs. Robins Entertain Mrs. Pennell

And today we are called upon to give of Miss Dorothy Myers, of Baltimore, whose engagement to Lieutesant Joseph Lamorelle has recently been aunounced. just one day should be chosen for thanksgiving. We have so much to be thankful for, that if we started in the day we were born and kept it up till the day terday afternoon. we died we never could thank God enough for our blessings. War or no war, sorfor our blessings. War or no war, sor-rows or no sorrows, privations or no pri-her card club on Tuesday afternoon. vations, we still have much, each individual one of us, to thank for, and let us do it, not only today but every day and always.

The day will be given over chiefly to The Phi Kappu Sigma Fraternity will family parties, for in spite of the fact give an informal less this afterneon at the Fraternity House, 2549 Locust Street, after the families are going to have them even if they have little else to cat, for as food friends are corduitly invited to be present. without salt so is Thanksgiving day without a turkey.

OF COURSE, there is the football game out at Franklin Field between the University and Cornell. And there will be several luncheons and theatro parties in the afternoon and evening. Captain Barelay McFadden, who is home on leave, will give a theatre party, to be followed by dancing, at his father's home at Eighteenth and Spruce streets. Mr. Charles Mather will entertain at dinner for Gilbert and Gladys, who have come down from Niagara; you know Captain Mather has been stationed there. The Ned Pages also came down from Niagara to have Thanksgiving dinner with the elder Pages, and the R. Emott Hares have gathered their children and grandchildren about them for the day. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCall will have their family dinner also; Howard, you know, has just received a commission at Oglethorpe, And I can't think how many others I have heard of who will celebrate this

THE Ned Robins gave a tea yesterday afternoon at their home, 416 South Carlisle street, for Mrs. Joseph Pennell, who has just arrived from England. Mrs. Pennell, you well remember, is a sister of Mr. Robins and wife of the wellknown artist. Mrs. Henry La Barre Jayne and Mrs. Frederick Fraley assisted Mrs. Robins in pouring tea. Among the invited guests were Mrs.

John Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison S. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Borie. Jr., Miss Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bertram Lippincott, Mr. C. Willing Hare, Mr. and Mrs. James de W. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Logan M. Bullitt, Jr., Miss Henrietta Atwood, Dr. Ellis P. Oberholtzer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Newton and Dr. and Mrs. Morris J. Lewis,

HE HAD alighted from the train after a particularly long and hard day at the office, and now he was walking briskly toward home, with joyful thoughts of how glad Friend Wife and the very small daughter would be to see him. It was just at dusk, when the lights were beginning to pop forth at long though regular intervals along the suburban street. Well, he strode on, taking huge, appreciative whiffs of the keen, fresh air. That air was just about right. It made you want to hop up and down or throw your arms about or do something "pep-Dy" like that-'specially since one hadn't had time for that sort of thing for ages. And then the bright thought popped into his head. Why shouldn't he?

He gazed cautiously in several directions (note the several, please), but the street seemed to be deserted. So he boldly tucked the evening paper down into his pocket and commenced waving his arms in all directions. First they would shoot vigorously out to the side, then forward, then up in the air. It was really amazing how many various ways to found of throwing them about. Now all this was "tree bier." for the man, but et me whisper the sad part to you. That street wasn't deserted at all NO SIR-REE. Not so awfully far behind him was a girl who had come out on the very same train he had, and, believe Nancy, that girl had some time trying to choke back her giggles when trying to choke back her giggles when friend was going through. But, you see, she is a very sympathetic individual, and of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary
