Symphony Society of Frankford so im-portant and so much worth while. In a city like Philadelphia, where the neigh-borhoods and communities are the real centers of life, similar organizations should be numbered by the accres. Frankford should have its community chorus, gies clubs and bands, as well as its symphony society. Germantown, Kensington, Chestnut Hill, Haddinaton, Southwark and the numerous other local divisions should provide their community musical societies. Then Philadelphia would have a civic spirit that could not be crushed. V. H. L ann Hittig 1 12 SINGING OF M'CORMACK GIVES PLEASURE TO MANY Varied Art of Celebrated Minstrel of
