WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 Government control of railroads is persistently reported today to be Presi-dent Wilson's solution of the transporta-tion crisis.

Appointment of a Federal railroad dictator will be the first step toward unification of all lines during the war. He will run the railroads as one big system, making common use of trackage, equipment and terminals, and pool reve-nues in a manner at present lilegal nues in a manner at present lilegal under private management. Government guarantee of railway se-curities held by investors is certain. Biockholders will be assured that their interests will be protected under Gov-ernment management. The only alternative seen was con-tinuation of the present direction of the lines by the railroads' war board and operating committee of, vice presidents, with Government loans and Congres-Bional repeal of anti-trust acts. The sional repeat of anti-trust acts. The delay entailed in obtaining such legisla-tion militates against this plan. Railroad executives anticipate that the President will appoint a Government traffic manager to co-ordinate existing transportation agencies in various war-making branches, such as the army, navy, food and fuel administrations and shipping board.
