Sale of Handicraft of Allied Nations at Chestnut Hill Next Wednesday-Officers Have Their Own Little Times in Training Camps

HAVE you heard of the sale which is to lowed by a large reception. Mr. and Mrs.

Arthur will be at home at 1315 Wyoming avenue after January 1. House, at 8419 Germantown avenue, next Wednesday? Well, it's to start at 11 in the morning and last until 6. And it is going to be rather unique in this that it is nurely a sale of handicraft from the Allied nations, and there are to be Canadian woolens, Italian and French laces and Belgiar cross-stitch and needlework.

Another unique feature will be the servthe of tea on war rations, and the women interested in it tell me they actually will have delicious war bread and cake. Mark the delicious, for some of us, you know, think that war bread or cake can't be deli-Mous; and they can.

The committee in charge of the sale in-Mudes Mrs. E. Walter Clark, who seems to had in so many good movements out Chestnut Hillways; Mrs. Edward S. W. Farnum, Mrs. George Howe, Mrs. J. Andrews Harris, Mrs. Howard Seaver, Mrs. Robert Meigs, Miss Marion Butler and Mrs. W. Keating Johnson.

The things sound to me as if they would be well worth seeing and buying, so I guess I'll travel out there. Won't you go along?

THE Treble Clef Club, known as the oldest and most prominent women's musical organization in the city, and whose concerts, although classed among the finest on musical record, have been limited to subscription, is planning to give the first large public concert in the history of the organization.

The Treble Clef holds its weekly rehearsals at the Acorn Club and throughout the winter will give smaller concerts for charity, when many prominent artists will be introduced.

The junior members of the club will give a musical tea at the Acorn Club on Wednesday afternoon, when the artists will include Miss Emma Dick Poulterer, Miss Marguerite Ballbach, Miss Minerva Rose, Miss Christine Wiebarth and Miss Caroline Hudson, Included on the board of governors of the club are Mrs. William Simpson, Jr., president; Mrs. Isaac S. BIG Mother Goose bazaar will open to-A day in the Penfield Building for the benefit of the Dominical Guild in this city. You know the Sisters of St. Dominic have a home for working girls where the girls may board for a very small sum. They nay board for a very small sum. They have rooms where they may receive their friends-and three good meals a day and looked after in every way. A number of women are interested in the enterprise and orm a committee to aid the sisters financially. Mrs. J. M. Quennell'is president of the guild, and the proceeds from the fair, which opened today and will last through Monday and Tuesday, will be turned over this good cause.

They have all sorts and kinds of things for sale, and really you get such useful things at fairs now that they are worth going to, especially just before Christmas, for even if we are cutting down on Christman presents because of the war, we ought to do a little something for those at home. The spirit of Christmas must be kept

THEY have quite some flerce little time down in the camps these days making the foreigners understand orders, they tell ne; but fortunately all the companies are trying their best and so all will come right eventually. But you'll agree with me it ould not be a good thing to put them into the trenches yet if they get things as mixed as in the story I am about to tell. One of ur "Niagara-made ossifera" was drilling company of Poles at a nearby training camp when a little white chicken-of the barnyard variety-suddenly appeared from nowhere and began strutting along directly n front of them.

A man in the front ranks, inspired by the ea that he must catch the bird, broke out of line and started to run after it, and as a chicken feels that life is merely a peretual game of tag, it naturally hastened is own footsteps a bit. "Get back into line!" roared our hero the ossifer." And with that the whole front ank joined in the chicken chase. The was something AWFUL, but the more he alled the faster the men ran, and it soon ecame evident that he must choose beween running with his cor-pany on not naving one to run with.

Forgetting his dignity, he had just much squawking, the chicken was overome and the proud victor carried it strug-ling toward the officer.

And then the light of understanding reke. Every single man had thought that he officer was ordering him to catch that hicken for him, and as he was a favorite hey were bound that nothing should inter-ere with his desires.

"Theirs not to reason why: Theirs but to do and die!"
