Red Cross-Nancy Has a Tale to Tell

DOWN at 1428 Walnut street the Emergency Aid members are working as hard as they have ever worked getting the Mrs. J. Ralston Covert. clothing and money ready to send to the Halifax sufferers. Since Mrs. Warburton sent out an appeal for these just hundreds and hundreds of packages and boxes of all sorts and descriptions have been pouring in. I just wish you could all see the room where they have put all these things. Why, it's simply piled up to the celling with coats, dresses, mufflers, shoes and all sorts of wonderful warm things which the Halifax people are going to get.

There are two marvelous white fur coats in the collection which were given by two sisters, who said "they didn't wear 'em" much and they wanted some one to have them who could get some use out of them. It must have taken quite a bit of courage, though, to say good-by to those coats, for when you have anything good looking you know how you like to hang on to it.

They tell me the relief box is going to be sent right away; that is, the first one at least. It is splendid to see how generously and right on the minute, too, every one has responded to the call to aid these suffering people. But when you think of all they are going through and how more than freezing it must be up there-well, even if we do have to wait several days before the coal man brings our coal, we ought'not to complain. Isn't that so?

HAVE you heard that John McCormack has given himself, his voice and his accompanying artists to the Red Cross for a number of concerts? Well, he has, and he sang this week in Washington. Next Thursday night he is going to sing here at the Metropolitan Opera House, which has also been given for the occasion free of charge. In fact, there will be no expenses whatever, no collection and no war tax on the tickets, for all-every single cent paid for the tickets-will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Mrs. George Horace Lorimer is chairman of the committee of women in charge of the affair, and those associated with her are Mrs. Charles Custis Harrison, Mrs. Arthur Emlen Newbold, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell 3d, Mrs. Arthur H. Lea, Mrs. Harold E. Yarnall, Mes. John Barnes Townsend, Mrs. Horatio Gates Lloyd, Mrs. John White Geary and Mrs. J. Willis Martin. That committee ought to make things hum, don't

MRS. SPENCER K. MULFORD, whose son, Billy Mulford, by the way, is "over there" and they are getting letters from him, has been telling me of some interesting work along a different line which the United Service League is

Every Thursday lately they have sent out invitations to mothers of enlisted men, through the various wards of the city, asking them to come there and have an afternoon together, where they may meet each other and talk over their various ex-

The idea is taking very well, but some of the foreign mothers, who do not speak English-or very little of it, if any-are apt to be disappointed at first, until they understand just what it's all about.

Recently a number of Italians from one section of the city came in answer to the invitation, and many of them thought in their bewilderment, not understanding the invitations, that they were to meet their sons perhaps, or at any rate would have direct news of them.

Poor souls! It was pathetic, Mrs. Mulford said, they were so disappointed not to see them. Several had brought the whole the women in charge of the afternoon made them feel so at home that they soon began to enjoy themselves and want to go

WELL, perhaps some day some mothers will learn a lesson not to say just what they think before their small offspring, and also to be careful of the words in which they couch their thoughts when they do speak. There is a very pretty matron of this town, the mother of two darling kiddies, who has the reputation of saving just "exactly what she thinks." All very well, but not when there are two intelligent bables living in the same house. A lady called there recently and had to wait a long time before the hostess made her appearance. Suddenly into the room came the two cherubs, dressed in their very best, with sashes and curls and perky bows. "Are you going to a party, my dears?"

"No, I don't think so," said Margie. "We're going to the devil!"

"What!" exclaimed the lady in horror, and just as "mother" came to the open door she heard her eldest hopeful remark: "When mother got your card she said she wished you would go to the devil, and we asked if we might not go, and she said no, to hush, but we begged and she said, 'Oh, yes, if you get dressed first'; so here we are all ready, are you?"

them and then, not paying attention to what the little lambs were begging for, she said they might if they got dressed. NANCY WYNNE.

GOOD WORK DONE BY CANTEEN DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Lewis Bremer, Jr., of Jenkintown, will entertain a number of friends tomorrow at a party for war knitting.

Lansdowne Women Give "Eats" and Reading Matter to Soldiers on Way to Florida

The entertainment given at the Twentieth Century Club for the benefit of the canteen department of the Lansdowne Red Cross Auxiliary on Saturday evening was delightful. Clever movies, made by James Montgomery Flagg and produced by Mr. Jack Eaton, were shown. Mr. Eaton himself came over from New York to witness the performance. Pretty little Miss Eldora Stanford, of New York, also sang half a dozen songs with several graciously given encores. Mrs. E. Wager-Smith gave a short talk about the canteen department. She told how several days before the Lansdowne Auxiliary of the Red Cross had been notified to be ready at once to feed about 459 soldiers who were passing through Philadelphia on their way to a training camp in Florida. Almost immediately the chairman department of the Lansdowne Red Cross Florida. Almost immediately the of the canteen department, Miss Mabel Phillips, and about twenty-five of her assistants hurried to the railroad station at which the soldiers would stop.

They had to wait a long long time before the troop trains finally arrived, but the sol-dier boys were so grateful for the cigarettes. apples, magazines, chocolate and other "comfy" things the women distributed that they were amply repaid for this wait. This is the second time the local canteen depart-ment has proved its importance and efficiency, and truly the praise for it was well

A dinner was given to the football team of the Lansdowne High School last week by some of the parents and friends of the team. The committee in charge of this affair in-cluded Mr. and Mrs. Damon, Dr. and Mrs. W. Krall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wilcox, Professor Carl Lewis Altmeier and Mrs. Altmeier, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. dell. The members of the team are Mr. Gil-roy Damon, Mr. Leonard Wilcox, Mr. Thomas Krall, Mr. Jones, Mr. Carl Lewis Altmeier, Jr., Mr. Markland, Mr. Jack Ryan, Mr. Don-ald Livingston, Mr. Edgar Paul, Mr. Wat-kins and Mr. William Robey. The boys have had the best of luck during the past season.

Mr. John V. Loughney is on the executive committee for the drive which the Knights of Columbus are making to raise $150,000 as their share of the war camp fund. Some of the other Lansdowne men giving their services toward this cause are Mr. Louis J. Meyer, Mr. William F. Culhane, Mr. Edward J. Mingey and Mr. Thomas F. Culhinan. gey and Mr. Thomas F. Cullinan.

The bazaar which the Guild of the Presbyterian Church gave last week was certainly a success. The affair, which is an annual one, was held at the church and there were booths of all sorts. Mrs. Andrew Dill and Mrs. W. R. Huttinger had charge of the apron table; Mrs. Reese Phillips and Mrs. George Ware sold fancy articles and they, of course, included a varied assortment of good-looking knitting bags. Mrs. Andrew S. M. Young was at the candy table; Mrs. Frank B. Titus and Mrs. H. Ross Smith sold cunning, really truly American dolls, and Mrs. G. Van Zandt had charge of the grab-bag without which any bazaar would be voted a failure, by the kiddles at least.

A supper was served in the chapel, and a great many persons stayed, for the fried oysters and other good things were tempting. Mrs. Raymond Young and Mrs. Howard Wilson had charge of the serving of the supper and Mrs. Robert Downing Taylor and Mrs. Frank C. Nieweg arranged the tables. Khaki wool was sold at the bazaar, as it is at every bazaar nowadays. A wise patriotic measure was the omission of the usual cake table with all its sugary goodles. Mrs. Robert W. Gick is the president of the guild and she worked very hard to make the bazaar the success it was. The bazaar which the Guild of the Pres-

BAZAAR TO HELP SANTA CLAUS MAIL

A handkerchief made and donated by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson will be one of the articles to be sold at the children's bataar and doll show to be held this afternoon by Loulie G. Thomson, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Thomson, at her home, 1722 Spruce street.

Miss Thomson is convalescing from a serious iliness, but in spite of that is determined to do something for the Santa Claus Mail, which devotes its efforts to providing Christmas cheer for the children of poor parents. So the doll show and bazaar was organized by Miss Thomson and her young friends, and the total proceeds will be turned over to the Santa Claus Mail. The bazaar will be open from 2:30 to 6 p. m., and many beautiful articles made by the young children will be on sale.
