Things to Poor Little Ones

There was the cutest "Christmas Supper"

There was the cutest "Christmas Supper" Saturday afternoon. It was given by Mrs. W. Austin Chdylke to the primary department of the Radnor Presbyterian Sunday School at Wayne, Mrs. Obdyke is the feacher of this department, and had an addition built to the church especially for it. The room is sb.cozy, with a large stone fireplace built at one end. During the supper the logs burned merrily and were covered with driftwood powder to give colored lights. To the side of this was a large Christmas tree, all excered with small white lights and snow, with a large silver star at the top. Long, low tables were grouped around the room, with white enamel chairs for the kiddles. The children ranged in age from wenty-two mouths to eight years and looked so cunmonths to eight years and looked so cur-ning—the little girls with thin smocked dresses and some with shoulder knots of ribbon, and the boys in thin white sailor suits. At each child's place was a glass canchaintly walked over to the barrels and dropped it in "for the poor children's Christmas." It was well that the leaders were well trained, as one would hate to think of what might have happened. When the toys were presented the kiddles were told that they were for them to do just exactly what they wanted to do with them. But when the leaders gave them to the poor all the others followed suit, though some did look and.

The bride will wear a gown of white duchesse satin and tulie with trimming of pearl beads. Her vell of tulle will extend to the hem of the court train, and will be draped from a pearl-squided coronet. Sprays of orange blossoms will be used to hold the vell in place. A shower of roses and sweet peas will be carried. Miss bella Trifield, the bridegroom's sister, who will attend the bride.

will wear a frock of tarquoise blue satin and silver lace, and will carry pink roses. Miss Jeanette Guggenheim, the bride's young cousin, will be the flower girl. Her frock of white lace has an undersilp of white silk and she will wear a pink sash and hair ribbons. She will carry a glit flower basket containing pink rosebuds and rose petals. Mr. Morris W. Ledlerer, brother of the bride, will be Mr. Trifield's best man. The ceremony will be followed by a family dinner. The bridegroom and bride will leave for a trip through the South, and upon their return they will live in Tioga.

Nancy Wynne Tells Her Readers to Be Ready to Join the Red Cross-Monday Musicale a Great Success-Sidelights on the Ice

YOU'RE certainly not safe these days Cross button in full view upon your manly chest. Even then you're not safe, because you can join three or four times, they tell me, and so be ready to prove it if you have Joined, and if you haven't joined you better had, for you will be attacked until you do, and besides, you OUGHT TO-there's no earthly excuse for not belonging. It only costs a dollar a year, and every one ought to be patriotic enough to give that much to help the soldiers and sailors. So go to it or be shamed to pieces, as you will be if you don't.

So SAYING, she continued "Have you been to the Morning Musicales yet this eeason? They are certainly worth going to and do not take up too much time in these days of rush and hurry. Yesterday morning nearly every box was full and the ballroom had a goodly number of "knitting flends," who listened while their fingers flew knitting sweaters, scarfs and wristlets. Mrs. Riddle had good-looking Mrs. Dick Norris and Mrs. James Reed wearing her E. A. suit with her in her box and Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer were in theirs (box, not E. A. suits, I mean). Miss Edith Fisher, who grows handsomer every time I see her, spent the morning listening in rapt attention, and Mrs. John S. Newbold, established in a comfortable plush chair at the back of the hall, seemed to enjoy every note of the cello, which Hans Kindler knows so well how to handle. Seagel, the baritone, had an excellent repertoire, and called forth much applause.

In THE afternoon I stopped in at the Independence Square Auxiliary of the Red Cross to hear Brigadier General Waller, of the U. S. M. C., speak on the needs of the boys in the service. The workers who were diligently making compresses, dressings of all kinds, in fact, listened attentively, though they worked all the time. Most of the women who are on the committee of which Mrs. Lorimer is chairman were present for the talk, and the tables were crowded with those in Red Cross costumes doing the work.

WE WILL have Caruso and his famous with Amato to sing the prologue there's little doubt that there will be a full house at the Metropolitan. The Klapps are going to give a party for Elise in their box and the George W. Childs Drexels will entertain, as will the Van Renuselaers, Mrs. Frank Clyde, the Stotesburys and various other boxholders.

DID you know that Alix Dolan is at the Organizing Charities every day this week? Well she is, and to answer people's questions about poor to give to, by giving them the name of a full-fledged family that is in need of Christmas presents, and dinners, too, for that matter, as they are of more importance than the presents for the kiddles even. Alix is there from the Junior League. It's really splendid how those Junior Leaguers do work.

SPEAKING of Junior Leagues reminds one of the St. Francis Junior Aid. You know those girls have been getting up the Christmas stockings again this year, and they tell it's been quite wonderful how many they have made and sold for the poor little boys and girls who would otherwise have had no Christmas. Certain it is that these girls are enterprising young persons. They are going to hold their annual play and dance in January, and great are the preparations therefor.

It will be held on Friday evening, Jan uary 25, in the ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford. Charlie Morgan, who is teaching the girls to dance for the Charity Ball next week, will manage the St. Francis affair, and the music for dancing after the play will be furnished by Herschberg's or-

The officers of the organization include Mrs. Joseph A. McDevitt, president; Agnes Levis and Lucy Call, vice presidents; Ruth Israel, treasurer: Edwardina Walsh, recording secretary, and Marguerite Mac-Donald, corresponding secretary.

HAVE you been trying to walk along the streets lately and have you slipped and slid and just caught yourself from falling flat, or are you able to walk serenely along with your head in the air, just as if you aidn't know there was such a thing a pavement or ice? I was slipping and siding along to church on Sunday when toming toward me I spied a large 'lady of color" built on the order of a ferryboat.

She walked straight on, neither looking to right nor left; in fact, not allowing anything to distract her attention. Just as she was within a few feet of me a small person of her same race came along on the other side of the street and yelled across to her, "Good mornin'." "Mornin'." said she of the many pounds, not looking at her at all. "Yo'all think you 'tin make it?" called the small person.

"Yah, I kin make it ef I doan' pay no tention to you, but ef I pays 'tention to you I'm goin' lay right down yere on dis

I felt so strongly the same way I commended her to myself, and the small personage giggled as she passed along, but she of the ferryboat figure went straight shead without hesitation, her mind fixed on one thing only. NANCY WYNNE.

BIG DRIVE MADE IN BEVERLY, N. J.

Campaign for Membership in Red Cross Conducted With Much Enthusiasm in Burlington County

BEVERLY - The National Red Cross Christmas membership campaign was opened in this city yesterday by the Beverly and Edgewater Park Red Cross branch at 9 a. m. The chairman, Mrs. Garrett B. Linderman, assisted by scores of young women of this section, made one of the biggest drives for membership ever known in this State.

Mrs. John Conard and Miss Martha B. Smith made a house-to-bouse canvass and it is fully expected at the clore of the drive on December 24 there will be at least 300 new members added to the list of membership of the branch.

That Burlington County towns always do "their little bit" when called on can be plainly seen now. Every branch of Red Cross workers in the county was ready when the day appointed came. All their work was planned the week before, so there would be no confusion on the date set for the drive.

Burlington County has asked that at least 19,000 new members be enrolled. Every Red Cross member has been asked to "talk it up." During the last week meetings have been held in every town of any size and the chairman of each branch secured special speakers to address the audience.

Sergeant Major Bramhall, one of the three survivors of the famous Princess Pat's Regiment, of the Canadian troops, has made a tour of the entire county in behalf of the drive for Christmas membership.

drive for Christmas membership.

Thousands of persons have had the pleasure of hearing Sergeant Bramhall talk on the life in the trenches and it is now up to every man, woman and child to stand back of the soldlers who are fighting for the rights due humanity. The Red Cross is what these men look to for help, and with a membership of 10,000,000 more this will mean just that much more real comfort for the men in the trenches. Red Cross booths bave been erected in all the public places and postoffices in Burlington County. Mrs. John W. Davis, who is treasurer of the Beverly and Edgewater Park Red Cross branch, will have charge of the drive in Edgewater Park, assisted by Miss Florence N. Watson.

FOR HOSPITAL UNIT

Women of Chestnut Hill Service House Send Christmas Bags to Soldiers at Camp Meade

On Thursday evening a very impressive service was held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Chestnut Hill, for the Jefferson Hos-pital unit, which expects to sail soon. The men, who were brought to the church in three special cars, were addressed by Bishop Rhine-lander and by the rector of St. Paul's, Rev. John Chapman, who will go with the unit to take up his duties as chaplain in France.

The women of the Chestnut Hill Service House have prepared 120 comfort bags, which will be taken by two representatives of the Rusinesa Men's Association to the Cheston Hill boys at Camp Meade. It is a satisfaction to feel that they are to be remembered by the women from their own town, and it is just such a personal touch that will go far toward giving them the "Merry Christmas every one wants them to have.

Miss Mary Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrz. Henry Paul, Jr., of Graver's lane. Chestnut Hill, is taking a course of training at a New York hospital which will fit her for war Mrs. John Mason is spending a few weeks at Atlantic City. Mrs. Stevenson Morris Crothers and her small daughter, of Paper Mill road, will spend the winter at Washington to be near Mr. Crothers, who is stationed at Camp Mende. Mrs. Gardiner Bussell, who has been visiting her sister. Mrs. Edward Hawley, on Springfield avenue, has returned to New York.

Mr. John Clark Simms left for France recently with two days' notice. Mrs. Simms was Miss Helen Robbins. It is interesting to learn that Company B, of the Chestnut Hill home defense reserves, has won the medal for good marksmanship.

Sailors Entertained Out in Western City

So much is being done here for the sallors at the navy pard, and the jackies them-selves are so loud in their appreciation of all that Philadelphia has done for them, that all that Philadelphia has done for them, that it is interesting to hear what one woman of another city did recently for a group of sallors from a nearby yard. Mrs. Haron, Law took a motorful of jackies to the San Francisco Golf and Country Club one day recently. There her guests assembled for tea, after first meeting at the Law home on Presidio terrace. The sallors were from the station at Yerba Buena.

Work Done Everywhere to Raise Money and Get Supplies Every one knows just how much is being done in this city by the Emergency Ald and other relief organizations for the sufferers in Hallfax.

Reports are now coming from all parts of he country of work done, money raised and relief of many kinds sent to Halifax. In l'oronto, Canada, Miss Ethel Shepherd is isuing cards for a musical tea and shower n aid of the Hallfax sufferers on December o. Miss Shepherd will receive at her studio worn or new clothing, food, children's clothng, new or old toys, etc. The patronesses ire: Lady Hendrie, Lady Hearst, Lady Walker, Lady Falconer, Lady Falconbridge. lady Eaton, Lady Aird, Lady Flavelle, Mrs. suits. At each child's place was a glass candlestick, with lighted white candle, so the effect, when the other lights were out, was very beautiful. In one corner of the room were five or six barrels covered with holly, and after the supper, as each child's name was called out, he or she was presented with a Christmas toy, doll, blocks, trains, etc. When each child received its toy it non-chalantly walked over to the barrels and dropped it in "for the poor children's Christ-W.
