in that race and show Straddle and the other boys how to run. When my father came home this morning from his night watching I had the coffee made and the pancakes stirred THE CHEERFUL CHERUB the coffee made and the pancakes stirred and the milk brought in and then I fried and flopped the pancakes and we ate them. While we were eating breakfast I asked him, "What is a relay race." He told me and I guess it is not very exciting. The boys do not ull run to-gether, but they go away out of town and leave a boy every once in a while along the read and then the boys wait where they are left, with one foot out, all ready to run. The first boy--who is the last boy left--takes a flag in his hand and a mer says, "Go." And he goes as fast as he can jump. When he gets to the next boy, who is waiting, he hands the flag to that boy, who goes on as fast as he can jump to the next boy runs and a man with a watch puts down how many minutes each boy ran and the boy who run his distance in the least time is the best runner. Then they see how long it took al of them to run and then it is all over. When it is ended the school whose boy run the fastest gives its school yell. I am going d with the bunch and see them start. I hops our school whose is the the starting piace and the milk brought in and then 1 fried have a very lonesome life The friends Ive never met I miss. # Use Sugar Sparingly—Do Not Waste It

Everyone-manufacturers and householdersshould use sugar sparingly for the present.

The supply is limited and will be until the new crop of cane can be harvested and shipped from Cuba and the Tropics. The supply will then be ample.

In the meantime, the people of the New England and Atlantic Coast States should use sugar sparingly.

Grocers should limit their sales to any one family. No one should hoard or waste sugar. Do not pay an increased retail price.
