VIEWED AS PLEASING SYMPTOM

RISE IN ANGLO-FRENCH BONDS

Conflict—Gossip of the Street

WHAT is back of the phenomenal advance in Auglo-French bonds during the last two days? This was the question most frequently asked in brokers' offices yesterday. Some attributed it to the persistent peace rumors, saying where there is so much smoke there must be some flame. Others held that the recent liquidation of securities supposed to be the collateral supporting British loans, and as a result the varly retirement of some of the British bond issues, was the cause.

In regard to the pence rumors, there seemed vesterday to be a very general impression that Germany is in a bad state financially and in a much worse one economically. One banker amentioned a letter which in some roundabout manner had come to his wife from a woman friend in the interior of Germany, in which hying conditions were described as appalling in the country districts, and, while not so lad in the larger cities, were had enough. "We," said this banker, "have been in the war only six months-if we really can be said to be in it yet-and we art musting some inconveniences in the matter of fuel and a little in food; but while prices with us are abnormally high, we have the feeling of virtually unlimited supplies to draw from and our resources are also virtually limit less. What then, must be the conditions in the Central empires after almost four years of war, with very limited resources to Graw upon? I believe Germany wants peace in the worst way and that all this bombast and rattling of sabers is to try to scare the Allies into some kind of peace; but like Germany's attempts at diplomacy, they will utterly fail." He said such a sentiment was prevalent and he believed it partly accounted for the rise in Angio-French bonds.

The principal of one of the largest investment houses in the city said that the Anglo-French as are the best baremeter of the war conditions. One of the reasons he advanced for this assertion was that they are unsecured and that their future depends more on the fortunes of war than any other foreign war-loan security. When conditions are In favor of the Allies, he remarked Anglo-French is go up; when conditions seem the other way they go down. They are exceedingly sensitive.

Reports Concerning Next Loan Cause Indignation

There was a great deal of indignation expressed among the larger investment houses yesterday over the publication in detail of a new Issue of Liberty Bonds. The report was published by a New York paper and seemed to carry with it a semiofficial stamp. It was to the effect that a new Liberty Loan of $8,000,000,000 had been arranged for in Washington, to carry 4% per cent interest and to be issued on March 15. The statement also went into details of a meeting in Washington of the governors of twelve Federal Reserve banks of the Patied States was it was stated, had informal meetings with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

had head the Secretary, when addressing the Union League Club, state emphatically that the next Laberty Loan would be owned at 4 per cent.

It was later, when the statement of Mr McAdon was telegraphed from Washington denying that there would be a Liberty Loan bound on March 15 or that it would be $5,000,000,000 or that the rate would be 41/2 per cent, that the indignation was freely expressed. One lanker said he knew that there would be no Liberty Loan under any circumstances as early as March 15; in fact, the next loan, he said, will be held back to the last minute and may not be considered until May.

Before Secretary McAdeo's denial about the Laberty Loan came over the wire and while the 4% per cent rate was discussed, some brokers were saying that perhaps the rate was made 412 per cent so that arrangements could be made to compensate the houses that had given so much of their time to previous sales without compensation. One wellknown broker said be had no sympathy with any concern that tailed shoul compensation in that way. He said as far as his firm was concerned it welcomed the opportunity to "do its bit" in that way, and as a matter of fact it had received a measure of compression aiready in an indirect way for what it had done and he knew they would receive more, "Why," he remarked, "I know of one bond Louis in this city that said it find sold $200,000 of bonds in November as the result of information obtained during the last Liberty Lean campaign. and I am certain there are many others who could give a similar ex-

Obscurity in Treasury Department Ruling

The recent ruling by the Treasury Department that "dealers" would be permitted to consider the sheinkage in their stocks and bonds in cal-culating the income tax was construed by some brokers in this city as including individuals who dealt in stocks and bonds. Others assert that the ruling includes only those known publicly as dealers and that transactions must be in the nature of those of a broker rather than those of a trader.

The Treasury's ruling we not clear and the difference of opinion was quite natural. That it does not apply to the individual investor or the man who is known as a speculator would seem to be obvious, but It is felt that to make the situation perfectly clear there must be a further explanation. A few brokers expressed the opinion that the ruling will be found to apply to all classes mentioned in order to prevent

Dernburg's Gloomy View of German Finances

That is not a happy picture of Germany's finances which Dr. Bernhard Dernburg draws for the readers of the Berliner Tageblatt. Doctor. Dernburgswill be remembered in connection with the vigorous German propaganda which he attempted to carry on in the United States after the beginning of the war. He was at one time an able and prominent banker in Germany and was promoted by the Kaiser to the position of Colonial Minister, where he showed marked ability. Doctor Dernburg

The financing of the war has really not been effective. We have voted between $125,000,000 and $180,000,000 of new taxes, but at the same time we have lost customs duties to the amount of at least $60,000,000. We are able to balance the budget only by leaving the whole of our military expenditures out of the ordinary estimates and entering it as extraordinary war expenditure. We have new debt to the amount of $25,000,000,000, and for the service of this debt we need from $1,750,000,000 to $2,000,000,000. But in this direction virtually nothing has been done.

Water-Power Legislation Promised

In view of the report that the Committee on Interstate Commerce of the House of Representatives has decided to take up water-power legislation immediately after the holidays, some figures put forward by Hugh L. Cooper, a leading expert authority on water-power development, are of special interest from the standpoint of public utilities. Mr. Cooper estimates that if the water-powers of the United States were adequately developed it would result in a saving to consumers of at least $50,000,000 annually in their-power bills, and that at least 100,000 workers would be released for war work who are now occupied mining coal as fuel for developing the electrical energy which could otherwise be produced by Including men employed in the handling of coal by the railroads and men otherwise required for the labor involved in thizing this fuel, Mr. Cooper estimates that a net saving in the way of labor of all kinds would be possible of approximately 740,000 men. A policy toward water-power development which would permit the employment of capital in this field under equitable conditions is being strongly urged by leaders in the public

When I prayed last night. I asked my mother to be at the race tomorrow and fly low so she would be near me. I teld ber I would throw mud up in the air and when I hit her I could see the air and when I hit her I could see the middy place. So after school today I went down to a middly bank of the river rear the hatthours that Jim built for me has summer and I stayed there till dark przetizing throwing mind at angels. At hest Rowdy thought it was some kind of a game, for he jumped around and barked lost after he took a gond foot at my face and saw I was in careers he went and lay on the bank and kept out of my way. Before I threw any must bank as loud as I could. "All angels will please heep their eyes but." Then I began to throw, but I did not lit one. I threw another handly and missed again.
