Wilson and Germany

WHENEVER Mr. Wilson speaks it is as though America with its hundred million people blew a blast on a single trumpet."

The utterances of Mr. Wilson have made the profoundest of impressions on Great Britain. Those deciarations of his have an assurance of national backing that no European statesman commands. And the ringing sentences of his famous speech on victory, not less than the measures proposed to give effect to them, will do a very great deal in Europe as well as in America to clear the air of pacifism.

"Our present and immediate task is to win the war," says Mr. Wilson, "and nothing shall turn us aside from it until it is accomplished. Every power and resource we possess is being devoted and will continue to be devoted to that purpose until it is achieved."

This is heartening reading for the Allies. All over London these words are repeated and lauded. Victory as the

The furious enslaught at present rag-ing on the western front is due to this unspoken fear on the part of Germany the fear of the hour when American troops will hurl themselves against Ger-many for the cause of freedom and right! Germany has shown great en-durance, but she knows perfectly well that she cannot cope with a whole world in arms against her—and her present and immediate aim is to discourage and overthrow her European enemies before America arrives on the scene.

The winning of this race with America to the size of all German overations.
