Minister of in a speech at Brest-Litovsk in the first of the renewed peace meetings, according to dispatches from that place today. As if to back up his vigorous words, Petrograd was in a fever of war preparations today.

"Russia has no intention of suing for mercy," Trotsky declared, "if the imperialists refuse to listen to the voice of the people.

"If the Central Powers' democrats do not speak Russia will fight to the hitter end, not so much from the trenches as in an uprising of the people to interpose barricades at every step against their oppressors."

Trotsky insisted upon transfer of the peace negotiations to Stockholm. Nicholai Lenine re-echoed his fellow Bolshevik's sentiments as to Russia's determination to fight for an adequate peace in an interview given out prior to his departure, presumably for Stockholm, today. "I fear we must halt our demobili-ation and prepare for war," he declared. "If Germany will not accept our conditions we shall declare a revolutionary war. We will not agree to a shameful peace."

Here in Petrograd today there was a sudden display of great energy at the Ministry of War Offices, where it was admitted the Bolshevigi were seeking to reorganize the transport of supplies, in view of the possibility of the war continuing. "I am a candidate for Governor and the candidate of no faction. I feel sure Governor Brumbaugh did not have me in mind when he made his statement on the political situation."
